OBJECT — "It was this size," gestures Sgt. Kenneth Froberg of the Marin Sheriff's Department, as he describes the "bluish-green fire ball" with a "bright orange tail" which he saw in the skies of Southern Marin last night. "Half the size of a full moon," he estimated, about the size of the Unidentified Flying Object spotted at 10:20 p.m. by many Marinites.

Teen-Age Drug Tale Shelved

By MARY LEYDECKER

"Go Ask Alice," the tawdry tale of a teen-age drug user, today joined "Boys and Sex" and "Telling It Straight" on a special shelf of the library at White Hill School in Fairfax. (Another Fairfax School District story, page 14.)

The 10-to-12-year-old pupils at White Hill will need their parents' permission from now on to take "Alice" from a reserved book shelf in the library, the Fairfax School District board decided unanimously last night.

It was noted that two manuals on sex are already on the special shelf, but the board voted not to place any more books there until "criteria are drawn up."

In making the decision to place the controversial book on reserved status, the board followed the majority suggestion of a committee of 16 teachers and parents who were asked to make recommendations on how to end a controversy over "Alice."

The flap over the 189-page paperback started earlier this fall when a mother, Roberta Laidley, confiscated the volume after her daughter had checked it out of the library.

On Oct. 2 a crowd of parents turned out for a school trustees meeting, but no action was taken by the board since no one had made an official complaint about the book or placed it on the board agenda.

Mrs. Laidley then filled out the necessary forms, asking "Alice" be "withdrawn from all students, including my child." She cited on her complaint sections from the book, purported to be the diary of a teen-age girl, statements like "I felt great — I danced like I had never dreamed possible for introverted, mousy little me," describing the girl's drug experiences.

The plethora of four-letter words in the book was also pointed out, as well as details of Alice's sexual experiences and her homosexual leanings. (At the end of the book Alice dies of a drug overdose.)

Mrs. Laidley, a member of an audience of about 50 parents, teachers and press members, last night again labeled the book "dirty and junky" and said, "I don't want that book in the library."

School board members, all of whom had read "Alice," disagreed.

Trustee Laurence G. Hermann said the book contains "rough language" but said "there was no language in it a child hasn't heard."

Trustee George C. Stone found "Alice" to be "strong and effective" and "ought to be available to those who feel it useful in drug education."

Board president Jane S. Durr agreed with Stone but said "we should also protect others' rights," referring to parents

Wide Range Of Plans Given For Facilities

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Fifteen public and nonprofit private agencies have proposed future uses of surplus lands and facilities at Hamilton Air Force Base, Marin County supervisors were told yesterday. (Other supervisors stories, pages 6, 7.)

In a preliminary report prepared by Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella, the proposed uses range from educational facilities to a long-sought youth activity center.

The report was accepted without comment by supervisors and forwarded to the Novato City Council for its review. Supervisors, who have agreed to plan jointly with the city for future use of Hamilton, said they will discuss the document in two weeks.

Requested uses are:

Marin County Humane Society — Sixty acres of land around the old ammunition dump to add to the society's existing 60-acre wildlife sanctuary.

Marin Senior Coordinating Council — The base theater, a chapel, the NCL club, building 603 and one alert hangar; the first three for senior citizen activities and the others for storage and vehicle maintenance.

Ecumenical Association for Housing — The 152 surplus housing units to the right of the front gate for low, moderate and middle-income housing. The block house, WAF barracks and magazine storage areas for "a market housing development in the future." Also, cooperative use with other groups of three three-story barracks and dining hall for temporary housing.

College of Marin — Alert hangars and buildings 750 and 725 for vocation education programs for Indian Valley Colleges. Also a building for general warehousing.

Marin Easter Seal Society — A chapel for its recreation program for the handicapped.

Novato Unified School District — Continued use of school facilities and the former golf range, hobby shop, building 885 and warehousing building 828 for various uses.

YMCA — The hobby shop for its minibike training program.

Marin Open House — Facilities for a welding and auto repair training center and possible relocation of its drug abuse program.

Marin County Youth Commission — The youth activity center.

Marin County Health and Human Services Department — The NCO academy area for a North Marin "service center" to include the mental health division's drug and alcohol abuse program.

Marin County Parks and Recreation Department — Recreation programs ranging from a rifle and pistol range to a model railroad center, golf course and motorcycle practice course.

Marin County Schools Office — Facilities for special education, regional occupation and support programs.

Marin County Public Works Department — Use of the base civil engineering facilities as a corporation yard and various storage facilities.

Marin County Housing Authority — 152 units of surplus housing for low and moderate income families.

Campanella said other ideas might include a police driving course to train officers in handling of vehicles during emergency situations, veterans meeting facilities, day care facilities and housing for the county weights and measures office.

Many In Marin Sight Eerie Object In The Evening Sky

By PAUL LIBERATORE

A mysterious ball of fire blazed a trail across Marin County skies last night, according to numerous viewers who promptly lit up switchboards all over the place with their phone calls.

A Southern Marin sheriff's sergeant, many citizens and other county officers reported sighting "a bluish green fireball" that lit skies with a blinding flash for several seconds last night before vanishing.

The strange object bewitched, bothered and bewildered Marinites at a time when vastly stranger apparitions were being reported all over the state and across the nation. Objects of all kinds, and even visitors from space, were claimed observed.

(For story on sightings around the nation and likeness of visitor from space by Independent-Journal artist Jack Lucey, see page 8.)

Sgt. Kenneth Froberg, 34, said the object had "a bright orange tail with particles of orange falling away" and seeming to drop from the sky in the East Bay over the Oakland Hills.

Froberg said he was sitting in his prowl car near the SFO heliport north of Sausalito at about 10:20 p.m. when he noticed a bright flash coming from behind him. He said the unidentified flying object was large, about half the size of a full moon.

Froberg apparently got the best look at the object, but deputies at the West Marin Substation at Point Reyes also reported seeing the fireball and several rangers on Mount Tamalpais reported that they saw "a blinding flash of light in the skies over the East Bay."

Mideast War Is Played Out On Several Fronts

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israel and Egypt fought large scale tank duels today along the Suez Canal and Israel reported it destroyed 60 Egyptian tanks. The Arab oil nations threatened to use oil as a weapon to force the United States to halt its aid to Israel— but U.S. aid increased sharply and now matches Russian aid to the Arabs.

Meanwhile in Washington, the State Department's spokesman, Robert J. McCloskey said the U.S. and the Soviet Union have exchanged ideas "on the nature of a possible solution" to be submitted to the United Nations to halt the Mideast war.

The disclosure of the U.S.-Soviet exchanges on peace initiatives came after an announcement a short time earlier that the U.S. airlift of arms to Israel was now matching the tonnage being delivered to Egypt and Syria by the Russians.

McCloskey has said several times over the past week that the United States was in close and continuing contact with Russia and other countries having an interest in the battle area.

The decisive battle of the 1973 Middle East War is expected to take place on the Sinai Desert but there was no indication yet whether this was it. Israel barred newsmen from the scene. Egypt imposed a blackout on news from the Sinai and on an Israeli armored force last reported operating deep inside Egypt.

Eleven of the Arab oil producing nations met today in Kuwait to decide how to use their vast oil and money resources as a weapon to halt U.S. aid to Israel. In Washington, President Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met with four Arab foreign ministers to discuss the crisis. Nixon said afterwards they discussed "all aspects" of the war and the main U.S. goal of "a just, fair and equitable peace."

The dollar dropped sharply on international money markets and some dealers said the Arabs were unloading some of their billions in dollar holdings to further depress the U.S. currency and exert new pressure against the United States.

With U.S. and Russian involvement in the Middle East escalating almost daily, a western diplomatic source in Moscow said Premier Alexei N. Kosygin may have flown to Cairo to consult with President Anwar Sadat of Egypt.There was no official confirmation but Kosygin abruptly canceled a dinner given by Danish Premier Anker Joergensen in his honor Wednesday night.

Williams Will Leave Oakland

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dick Williams is out — by his own choice.

Win or lose, he will resign as manager of the Oakland A's immediately after the world series and sign to manage the New York Yankees for the same money he's making now — $70,000 a year.

Williams made it official before last night's 3-2 win over the New York Mets, a victory which put the A's ahead in the world series, two games to one. He told his players of his intentions during a brief meeting behind closed doors at Shea Stadium.

Marin Will Sue Over Excavation

Marin County supervisors yesterday directed their legal staff to file suit against Sonoma County to block a massive excavation permit for the Shellmaker property on the Petaluma River opposite Black Point.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said the suit will challenge Sonoma County's granting of a permit to excavate 360,000 cubic yards of earth without requiring an environmental impact report.

Maloney said Shellmaker Co. was given the permit "over the counter" by Sonoma officials without requiring an environmental impact report, as a "ministerial decision."

The Sonoma County Board of Building Permit Appeals last Thursday rejected a protest by Marin County and upheld the excavation permit.

"The appeals board's decision is final," Maloney told the supervisors. "Unless legal action is instituted immediately the property owner is free to commence excavating."

In Santa Rosa, Ray Krause and Lloyd Johnson of the Sonoma County Planning Department said today that no environmental report is required for the type of permit issued, under their county ordinances and under the California Environmental Quality Act.

Besides, the whole controversy may become moot. Johnson reported that William Bowland Jr., Shellmaker's chief executive, was in his office this morning, preparing to file a use permit application for a major marina, boat yards, boat sales and waterside restaurants on the 113-acre property. The permit application, expected either today or tomorrow, will require an environmental impact report, Johnson assured the Independent-Journal.

Maloney responded, "If Bowland gets an environmental impact report, I really don't think we can complain. We just want a study; we're not saying he can't use the land."

But Maloney noted that when he unsuccessfully protested the excavation permit before the Sonoma County Board of Building Permit Appeals last Thursday, Bowland was present and said nothing about plans to file for a use permit.

The Marin lawyer said he will continue to prepare the suit, until he is officially informed that Bowland will be required to submit an enviornmental report.

Yesterday, Maloney told Marin's supervisors that "it is ridiculous" that a permit to excavate 360,000 cubic yards of

Plant Rust Discovered On Peninsula

Hawthorn-Juniper rust disease, which has plagued the Mill Valley area for years, has spread to the Tiburon Peninsula, county officials said yesterday.

R. Allan Ballard, county agricultural commissioner, said an infected Hawthorn tree was found recently in Belvedere.

"The find is important because it will cause an added change in the quarantine area to include all of the Tiburon Peninsula and possibly Angel Island in the San Francisco Bay," he said.

Hundreds of infected Hawthorn trees have been removed in Southern Marin since the disease was discovered years ago. Marin County is the only known location for the disease in the Western Hemisphere.

County supervisors earlier this year asked the state, which ordered the eradication program, to reimburse homeowners for their lost plants. The state has not replied.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere asked yesterday that a second letter be forwarded to the state outlining Marin's opposition to the program without compensation to homeowners.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, meanwhile, said his office will not take court action against homeowners who refuse to have the plants uprooted unless the state agrees to pay for the legal costs.

TO ENVIRONMENT

Russian River Plan Found Not Harmful

Physical facilities for the Marin Municipal Water District's proposed Russian River water supply project will cause no irreversible environmental change, according to consultants who prepared an impact report on the 41-mile pipeline.

But additional water provided by the pipeline will permit population growth which would mean more homes, loss of existing open space, some environmental problems and need for additional police and fire protection, they noted. They also noted, however, that, while it will permit growth, there is no reason to believe it will stimulate growth.

The report, by Arthur D. Little, Inc. and Madrone Associates, focuses on the entire $40 million supply system ($80 million with interest.) However, voters will only be asked to approve a $7.5 million bond issue, Measure E on the Nov. 6 ballot, to finance one part of the four-part project.

The impact statement will be the subject of a public hearing before the water district board at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in supervisors chambers at Civic Center.

The pipeline and its construction will mean some loss of plant life and trees along the pipe's right-of-way. But the consultants found these effects will be minimal and said care in designing and laying the pipe in ecologically sensitive areas, such as marshland, will further minimize the damage.

Removing large quantities of water from the Russian River could eventually harm marshlands fed by the river, the consultants noted. They said it could also damage fish, invertebrates and insects unable to adapt to fluctuations in water levels.

On the other hand, taking water from the river will also make flooding downstream from the intake point less likely, they added.

As planned, the pipe route

Sirica Rules Panel Can't Have Secret Nixon Tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today dismissed the Senate Watergate Committee's suit to obtain President Nixon's secret Watergate tapes recordings, ruling the court lacked jurisdiction in the case.

In an 18-page decision, Sirica said:

"The case presents a battery of issues including jurisdiction, justiciability, invocation of the declaratory judgment statute, executive privilege, waiver of privilege, validity of the Select Committee's investigation and authority of the Select Committee to subpoena and bring suit against the President.

"Because of its ruling, the court has found it necessary to consider only one question, that being the court has jurisdiction to decide the case. The court has concluded...that it lacks such jurisdiction and the action is therefore dismissed with

MAYNARD JACKSON
Atlanta's head man

Black Named New Mayor Of Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI) —Flamboyant Maynard Jackson was elected the South's first black big city mayor last night in a resounding rejection of the "white flight" warnings of incumbent Sam Massell.

But a turnout of about 60 per cent of the city's 206,000 registered voters overwhelmingly chose white alderman Wyche Fowler over black civil rights activist Hosea Williams to head the new 18-member City Council, which will be divided equally along racial lines.

Jackson, a 35-year-old lawyer and former NAACP official, attributed his victory to "a vote of confidence from a significant part of the white community and one hell of a turnout from the black community."

Unofficial complete returns gave Jackson 74,404 votes to 51,237 for Massell. Jackson had received 46.6 per cent of the vote in the 11-man first race when Massell narrowly made the runoff over former Congressman Charles Weltner.

Massell, 46, a liberal Jew who won four years ago with a solid black vote, conceded that his only chance in the runoff lay with a large white turnout, and he tried to link Jackson with Williams, warning of a "white flight" to the suburbs if the "racist team" were elected.

Massell was defiant in his concession statement and said he did not regret his racially oriented campaign against Jackson.

"My only motive at any time was to tell the truth," he said. "This is all I wanted to do, and I felt I did it. Some candidates can compromise themselves and avoid the truth, but I can't."

Massell pledged his support of Jackson and issued a formal plea for those who voted for him to remain in the city. He said Fowler's victory was due partly to Massell's campaign strategy against Jackson and Williams. Fowler received 78,209 votes to 44,017 for Williams.

Blacks represent 51 per cent of the city's population, but whites hold a 4,000-vote majority.

Hippie Seeking Mayor Election

MOAB, Utah (UPI) —Steven Winchell, who says he's the first hippie to run for mayor here, promises to cut his hair if elected.

It's his only campaign pledge.

"That's more than any other candidate can promise," says the ex-Marine Vietnam war veteran who holds the Silver Star and says he's "tired of men going to war."

Winchell is a member of WE, which he says stands for We The People.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Irish Guerrillas

BELFAST (UPI) — A guerrilla gang using machine guns and bombs attacked the village of Derrylin on the County Fermanagh border with the Irish Republic today.

The guerrillas shot village postmaster Joseph Hall in the leg, robbed the post office and general store, blew up both premises with bombs and escaped across the border three miles away, police said.

The attack followed the slaying of a policeman in Belfast last night.

Thai Government

BANGKOK (UPI) — Thailand's new government began steps toward democracy today, pushing forward its deadline for a constitution and preparing a general amnesty for students who brought down the military regime.

A spokesman for Prime Minister Sanya Thammasak said a panel was being formed to draft the constitution and it was hoped to have the document ready within three months. Earlier, Samya had pledged to have the constitution and general elections in six months.

Oil Supplies

BRUSSELS (UPI) — West European governments, ration cards at the ready, said today they have enough oil to run their homes and factories for up to six months in case of an Arab petroleum embargo.

"Even with a total embargo on oil exports by the Arab oil-producing countries directly involved in the Middle East war, our requirements for oil products are secured for a period of six months," West German Economics Minister Hans Friederichs said.

Other governments polled by United Press International echoed his optimism.

Vote Surprise

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — One of the parties pledged that every man would be allowed four wives and vowed to cover up bikini-clad girls, a platform that won it an unexpected 49 seats in the new national assembly.

"Probably only old men voted for it," scoffed a young voter. The inroad made by the National Salvation party was one of the surprises of the weekend Turkish elections reflected in unofficial final tallies announced last night.

The Republican People's Party of modern Turkey's founding fathers in its first national election triumph since 1950 upset the once-dominant Justice Party.

Production Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's industrial output, showing no sign of the economic downturn that is widely expected soon, surged by a healthy 0.7 per cent in September, the Federal Reserve Board said yesterday.

The September rise was equal to that of July and followed a surprising 0.2 per cent decline in August, chiefly caused by a hot weather fall-off in auto production. The August drop was the first monthly decline in the closely watched economic index in two years.

Despite the one-month slump, industrial output rose at a 6.7 per cent annual rate between July and September, a faster clip than the 5.5 per cent rate between April-June.

Rebel Attack

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Guerrillas fought their way into a town southwest of Phnom Penh last night, battling government soldiers in hand-to-hand combat for control of the marketplace.

The Cambodian command said nine government soldiers were killed and 16 wounded in the close-in fighting at Tramkhnar, 22 miles from the capital. It said rebel casualties were heavy.

The command said the Communist-led Khmer Rouge insurgents have surrounded the town along Highway 3 for the past four days forcing authorities to send supplies in by air drop.

Undercover Agents

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago police department revealed yesterday that it plans to hire 11 undercover agents at $16,116 each annually to infiltrate organized crime under a proposed new city police organized-crime control program.

Paper Says Agnew Faced 50 Counts

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Federal prosecutors investigating Spiro T. Agnew were once prepared to seek an indictment against him on as many as 50 counts of bribery, extortion and tax evasion, the Washington Post said today.

The Post quoted an unnamed source as saying that it was Agnew's knowledge of the Justice Department's feeling there was sufficient evidence to ask for a massive indictment that led Agnew to resign last Wednesday as vice president and plead no-contest to a single tax charge.

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., said he got the impression that President Nixon knew about the investigation against Agnew even before the former vice president did. Goldwater said Agnew and he talked about it as early as last April.

Vegas Vacation

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Former President Raul J. Lastiri, who stepped down to hand over the Argentine government to Juan D. Peron, reportedly will vacation with his wife in Las Vegas, Nev.

Ford Denies Report Of Psychiatric Care

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Vice presidential nominee Gerald R. Ford has denied as "categorically inaccurate" a report in a book that he received psychiatric treatment for at least a year.

He also gave his version of a published report that he helped get G. Gordon Liddy, later convicted as a Watergate conspirator, a White House job in 1968.

Meanwhile, the Senate Rules Committee yesterday asked President Nixon to authorize an audit of Ford's income taxes for the past three years and for authority for the committee to examine the nominee's tax returns for the last seven years.

Chairman Howard W. Cannon Jr., D-Nev., said the Rules Committee probably will open hearings on the nomination around Oct. 30, which he expects to last from two to five days. He said he also has asked the General Accounting Office and Library of Congress for information on Ford and has requested Ford to submit a financial statement. Ford has already said publicly he would provide that.

Newsmen asked the House GOP leader yesterday about a report in a 1972 book, "Washington Pay-Off" by Robert N. Winter-Berger, that he had been a patient of Dr. Arnold Hutschnecker of New York for "at least a year." The late columnist Drew Pearson claimed Hutschnecker gave psychiatric treatment to Richard M. Nixon.

Ford said Winter-Berger did once ask him to pay a "courtesy call" on Hutschnecker.

"I thought he (Winter-Berger) wanted to impress Hutschnecker with people he knew in Washington, and when I was in New York on a speaking engagement I dropped into his office and met him," Ford said. "We talked about 15 minutes and that was all. The claim that I was a patient is categorically inaccurate." "I don't even recall what our conversation was about," Ford said. "It was a courtesy call, that's all."

Ford said that among the many congratulatory telegrams he got after his nomination Friday was one from Hutschnecker.

In New York, Hutschnecker told a reporter he had never treated Ford—"The allegation is totally untrue and only in the wild imagination of the writer."

Airlines To Open Talks On Cutbacks

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Several major airlines, facing a fuel shortage, have agreed to discuss flight cutbacks on seven major transcontinental routes.

United, American, and Trans World Airlines have agreed to meet tomorrow to discuss cutbacks on these runs: New York-Chicago, New York-Los Angeles, Philadelphia-Los Angeles, Cleveland-Los Angeles, Detroit-Los Angeles, Detroit-San Francisco, Hartford-Los Angeles.

The Air Transport Association (ATA), a trade organization representing the major airlines, said that Eastern Air Lines also proposed flight cutbacks on 32 of its routes.

National, which competes with Eastern on many routes, agreed to match 10 of Eastern's cuts, ATA officials said. But no details were immediately available on the markets affected.

The airlines held a preliminary meeting yesterday with approval from the Civil Aeronautics Board which waived antitrust restrictions against the capacity reductions talks.

The industry operates about 14,000 flights a day. In 1971, the last year for which figures were available, the airlines bought 10 billion gallons of fuel.

Exhaust Device Is Under Attack

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The catalytic converter—a tailpipe device touted by industry and largely accepted by government as the answer to automobile pollution — was under new assault today as a potential cancer threat.

Almost all 1975 model cars that will be sold in California, and about 10 per cent of the cars sold in the other states that year, will have the devices under present planning in order to meet clean air rules. They will come into nationwide use later.

But the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is now being urged, both by its own scientists and by some public interest groups, to take another look at the idea before it is totally committed.

Some of the strongest criticism is coming from within EPA itself. Stanley M. Greenfield, assistant EPA administrator for research and monitoring, submitted an internal memorandum to his superiors on Oct. 9 warning of two problems with the converters.

One is that the metals used in the device, platinum and palladium, may be sent into the air as particles which may be a cancer cause as well as creating problems for asthma sufferers and persons with heart and respiratory diseases, he said. The second problem is release of sulphuric acid mist.

The Greenfield memo, circulated in Washington for several days and finally made public by Sen. John Tunny, D-Calif., concludes:

"If enhancement of air quality rests upon a need to protect public health, EPA should assure that use of the oxidation catalyst does not produce the opposite result. Until EPA can do so, catalytic converters should not be used extensively enough to increase population exposures to acid aerosols, suspended sulfates and noble metals and their compounds.

"If this requires that oxidation catalysts not be utilized in 1975 motor vehicle models, so be it. . ."

There is division of opinion within the EPA on the health impactof the device. EPA Administrator Russell E. Train said the matter is "up for decision" and if the catalyst loses, the agency will have to go back and find an alternative.

ARCHIBALD COX
Hits corporations

HARRY HELTZER
Pleads guilty

Corporations Hit On Nixon Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Watergate Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox today accused three large corporations and two business executives of making $125,000 in illegal contributions to President Nixon's 1972 campaign.

Harry Heltzer, board chairman of Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. (3M), and Russell deYoung, chairman of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., pleaded guilty to misdemeanor charges filed against them.

American Airlines, the third corporation charged, entered a guilty plea in Washington through an attorney. The corporation was assessed the maximum penalty, a $5,000 fine, by U.S. District Judge George L. Hart.

No officials of American were charged since it was the company that first came forth to say it had been pressured into giving campaign funds.

It was the first time corporate officials have been charged with criminal violation of the federal law that bans political contributions from corporate funds.

In a policy statement accompanying the formal charges, Cox said the effective enforcement of the law required him to charge the executives as well as the corporations. "Without such a policy, the statute will have little deterrent effect," he said.

Heltzer pleaded guilty to contributing $30,000 in St. Paul, Minn., where the two-count criminal information was filed. He was fined $500 and 3M was fined $3,000.

"We knew we did wrong," Heltzer told the judge. "We have set up procedures so it will never happen again."

DeYoung was fined $1,000 for contributing $40,000 in company funds and Goodyear was fined $5,000 in a Cleveland court session.

PIPE

will damage some important Indian archeological sites, but the consultants said slight changes in the route could eliminate that problem.

The chief issue in the upcoming election will undoubtedly be growth, with many voters pondering whether water should be available for development.

In their report, consultants disagreed with opponents of the project who argue that having more water will stimualte growth. They contend that water supply does not appear to induce growth and quoted a recent study by the National Water Commission to back their claim.

The water commission said location and economic factors determine whether a community grows or declines and found that water availability plays only a minor role in population growth.

Yet the 13,400 additional acre-feet of water which the four-phase Russian River project will provide by 1980 will permit growth and development which would not be possible if supplies remain at current levels, according to the consultants. They estimated that if the project is completed the district will have enough water for 199,194 persons in 1980, slightly less than the 202,800 population envisioned by the county-wide general plan.

After 1980, they said the district will again find itself with a water deficit, unable to meet the demands of the growth called for by the county plan.

However, this may not be a serious problem, since the pipeline will be capable of transporting 16,000 acre feet of water to Marin annually if used 12 months a year. And with some modifications, like additional storage tanks and pumps, it could ultimately provide about 22,000 acre feet a year.

(District officials say the larger pipe is necessary because Marin Municipal initially will be able to draw water only for about eight months a year, during winter, spring and fall months. Consequently, a pipeline with only a 13,400-acre-foot capacity would not be able to produce that amount unless it could be used for the full 12 months.)

The consultants said that even the amount of growth proposed by the county plan will have significant impact on Marin, since most development will be concentrated in the county's east corridor.

If the plan's limited growth materializes, for example, at least 2,100 acres will be converted to residential use between 1975 and 1990. More people will bring significantly more traffic and air pollution to Marin unless a way can be found to get people out of their cars and into public transportation, the consultants said. There will also be more sewage.

Many persons believe the district should not seek water from outside, but rather attempt to develop local water supply projects. A frequently mentioned alternative to the Russian River project is a project on Walker Creek in West Marin which would divert the creek into a reservoir.

If no project is approved by voters and the water district continues its ban on new water connections, approximately 1,600 district residents will lose their jobs, according to Little. Half the lost jobs will be in construction and the rest in construction related industries.

The consultant said this would mean an annual loss of approximately $20 million in wages in the distirct.

prejudice."

Sirica said Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox's suit, in which the U.S. Court of Appeals sustained his ruling that Nixon must turn over the tapes for judicial review, involved a subpoena issued by the grand jury.

"This present case, by contrast, is a civil complaint, and in such actions particularly, jurisdiction is a threshold issue," Sirica said.

Lawyers for the Senate committee who were on hand to pick up the ruling in Sirica's chambers refused immediate comment. A lawyer for the White House also departed with a copy of the ruling without comment.

"The court here has been requested to invoke a jurisdiction which Congress only can grant but which Congress has heretofore withheld," Sirica said, adding that the Committee was free to appeal the ruling.

Session Is Tonight On School Problems

Mill Valley and Almonte residents living near Tamalpais High School will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the school's student center to discuss how to cope with litter, traffic and student clashes with neighbors in the school area.

Joan Panek, president of the Almonte Improvement Club, said that officials at the meeting would include representatives of the high school District board, the county superintendent of schools office, Mill Valley police, the California Highway Patrol and the sheriff's office.

Parks Department Meeting Is Past

There will be no meeting with representatives of the California State Parks Department to discuss the historic sites program tomorrow at the Marin Civic Center.

A reader's letter in "What Our Readers Say" yesterday referred to a Thursday meeting. However, it was held last Thursday.

Members of the audience, as they had at the earlier hearing, either thought the book useful in teaching the horrors of drug use or called it trash.

Marsha Kittleman, a former police clerk and a mother, said "it tells it like it is."

Two fathers, who said they had been born "in the old country," decried the book's "downgrading of sex" and its general worthlessness.

"Alice" had been on a shelf of general circulation for seventh and eighth graders, and apparently only three students had checked it out since last February.

Dist. Supt. H. Reginald Hammond acknowledged last night that the original copy has not been returned by Mrs. Laidley, but that "six or eight" copies purchased for board and committee members to reach would be placed in the school library.

The board intends to discuss further what books should be on the reserved shelf when it next meets Nov. 6.

UFO

duty last night at Point Reyes Station, said he observed "a white object like a meteorite falling downward sideways that turned reddish in color and then burst apart." The object was in view for about 20 seconds, he said. Deputy John Goff of the Marin city substation said he saw a flash and a glow but nothing else.

The Marin City sheriff's substation reports being deluged with telephone calls last night and this morning, many of the callers reporting the UFO and seeking an explanation.

Hamilton Air Force Base reported no radar sighting of the object and offered no explanation of what it could be. Vandenberg Air Force Base in Southern California said there was no missile launch last evening. Such launchings have in the past created special effects in Bay Area skies.

Ranger Henry Richards said the supervising ranger at Mount Tamalpais, Jerry Hayes, "had just stepped out of his house and looked out past Angel Island to the east and saw a rocket trail, like a sky rocket trail, then a blinding flash of high intensity light that lasted a couple of seconds and faded out."

Richards also witnessed the phenomenon. "I was driving to Stinson Beach on Panoramic Highway and a bright flash of light appeared around my vehicle. At first, I thought it was headlights from another car, or lightning, then I talked to another ranger driving behind me and he was able to look up in the sky and saw a fading pinpoint of blue-white light."

A Mill Valley woman, Ruth Wilson, reported that she was getting out of her car in the parking lot of Marin General Hospital this morning when she observed "a bluish green object low in the sky over San Quentin Prison that disappeared in the direction of Oakland."

An El Sobrante woman told Sgt. Froberg that she was outside feeding her horse last night when she saw a bluish green object flying horizontally before lifting away and disappearing.

Bernd Enders, a professor of astronomy at College of Marin, said there is no comet or star condition that could explain the strange occurrence. "The closest explanation there could be is that it was a meteor. There are such that are called fireballs and they do leave a trail behind, but five seconds is a very long time."

After Froberg saw the UFO he was immediately on the radio to other officers who also were seeking confirmation of what they had just seen in the autumn night. "At first we figured it was a meteorite, or part of a satellite that entered the atmosphere and disintegrated," said Froberg. "But I think a UFO is very possible, in fact, very likely. In the midwest, they have a lot of weird things happening."

Elsewhere in the Bay Area, other unidentified flying objects, some with spider legs and some that emitted blue-green flashes, were swarming all over the place.

Numerous sightings were reported by law officers and other people in Oakland. Others saw strange objects in San Jose, Chico and other areas.

A woman in Oakland called police last night about 10 p.m. saying she was just about to give up a three-hour saucer-watch at her home when she saw a "craft with spider-like legs settle down on a golf course." Police couldn't find the saucer.

Oakland police checked out other reported landings, including one at busy 55th and Grove streets. Then officers themselves saw something hovering over the Bay Bridge. It turned out to be a weather balloon.

SUIT

material could be approved without an environmental study. He calculated that the amount of soil to be scooped up would raise the level of Shellmaker's land more than one foot, or if piled on one acre would reach from the water to the deck of the Golden Gate Bridge.

Maloney told the supervisors that Marin officials had been unable to learn the reason for the project. Reminded that Bowland has said for months he no longer proposes industrial development just east of Black Point, but instead plans a marina, Maloney said today, "I'm even more skeptical than newspapermen. I want to see" an official use permit application, accompanied by the environmental study.

Arnold M. Baptiste, chairman of the Marin supervisors, said he views the intended suit as a test of the state Environmental Quality Act because the state Supreme Court has interpreted it to say that impact reports are necessary for all "significant" projects whether public or private.

Sonoma official Johnson said the excavation permit alone is not significant because it would not necessarily change the land use, nor would it involve export or import of fill — in which case a report would have been required for the excavation permit even without a use permit filing.

Johnson admitted that he erred more than a year ago when he told Bowland that not even an excavation permit was required to dig the ditch that already stands empty, as the nucleus of the new excavation project. The original ditch, running the length of the Shellmaker parcel alongside Highway 37, is 100 feet wide. Bowland wants to widen it to 200 feet wide by about 600 feet long, Johnson reported.

Shellmaker still faces requirements for permits from the Bay Conservation and Development Commission and Army Corps of engineers before the dike between the ditch and the Petaluma River can be breached, flooding the project.

Marin's supervisors said their suit "is not a retaliation" for Sonoma County's suit against Marin which claims the environmental impact for the proposed Renaissance Pleasure Faire on the Marin-Sonoma County line is inadequate. The suit against the Shellmaker excavation permit would have been filed regardless of whether Sonoma sued over the fair, Baptiste said.

Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini's motion ordering the suit was approved by a 3-0 vote with Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni absent and Robert A. Roumiguiere abstaining.

Roumiguiere later told the Independent-Journal that "I'm not real pleased about fighting with the Sonoma County Board (of supervisors). They run their county and we run ours."

Roumiguiere recalled that the Marin board earlier took a stand against industrial development of the Shellmaker land, and that Bowland later announced plans to build a marina, boat shops and water-related uses on the property.

The supervisor said he believed there should be more marina development to serve Marin's boat owners.

GOV. RONALD REAGAN

Illegal Acts By Tax Plan Foes Charged

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday accused Assembly Democrats of using possible illegal "corrupt practices and intimidation" in the campaign to defeat his tax limitation initiative.

He directed heads of state agencies which regulate the financial industry in California to investigate whether a controversial letter sent to bankers by a Democratic assemblyman "constitutes a violation of law" and to refer the case to the attorney general if it did.

At a news conference, Reagan cited a letter signed by Assemblyman Wadie Deddeh, D-Chula Vista, chairman of the Finance and Insurance Committee, who warned that if Prop. 1 is passed the Legislature would reassign funds normally budgeted for business regulatory activities to "higher priority" programs.

"The letter appears to be a blatant scare document designed to threaten the addressees and to elicit their opposition to Proposition 1," Reagan said.

The letter was issued by Deddeh Sept. 27 in advance of a hearing his committee was holding on the potential impact of the ballot proposition on regulatory activities by tte state of financial institutions.

"Your immediate attention to this matter will be appreciated so that any further dissemination of false information by the Assembly leadership and any further attempts to utilize corrupt practices and intimidation can be prevented," Reagan told the state officials.

He reminded them of statutory and constitutional prohibitions against "intimidation" of voters, use of "fraudulent devices" to influence an election and "corrupt practices" in an election.

In response to a question, Reagan denied he had become "panicky" in his campaign to win passage of Proposition 1 on the Nov. 6 ballot and conceded the campaign for and against the measure was "neck and neck."

"It's a close race," he told newsmen, noting that both the politically powerful California State Employes Association and the California Teachers Association had contributed substantial sums to the opposition campaign.

Reagan, appearing angry, said he would not object if opponents would "meet us out in the open on what is their basic philosophical disagreement with Proposition 1."

"And, basically, their disagreement is they don't think taxes are too high, they don't intend to hold taxes down, they want more taxes for more government spending," he said.

Ford Likely Candidate, Reagan Says

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, a potential candidate himself, said today it is "very possible" vice presidential nominee Gerald R. Ford will run for President in 1976 and he would be a "formidable" contestant.

Reagan, replying to a news conference question, noted Ford has pledged "to not seek public office in 1976" and observed "he has repeated this so often, so emphatically, that I assume until he changes his mind he has to be considered not" a candidate.

But if the "office seeks the man" — as Reagan long has contended occurs in a Presidential race —"then this could lead to a change of his mind. It's very possible," the governor said.

Asked if he regarded Ford as formidable, Reagan answered: "Sure, he's got a fine record, he's a good man. He played line."

The latter observation said with a grin referred to Ford's football starring days at the University of Michigan.

Reagan, whom White House sources said was one of four finalists for Nixon's nomination, disclosed he was not contacted by the White House before the President's announcement Friday night.

"I never for a moment thought that" he would be Nixon's choice, Reagan said.

Reagan also said he was "very moved" by former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's television speech Monday night.

"Knowing the man," Reagan said, "I found a great deal of sincerity in what he said."

Asked whether he believed Agnew's claim of innocence, Reagan said that except for the one count of income tax evasion the former vice president pleaded "no contest" to, "there has been no proof of guilt. And, therefore under our constitution he must be presumed innocent until proven guilty."

Reagan agreed with one newsman who suggested that Agnew's reference to "bribe brokers" in eastern politics does not apply to California.

"I don't think there's a state quite like ours in the nation," Reagan said. "California is probably the cleanest state, with safeguards for the people, of any state in the union...

"We're a very puritan state."

Reagan said he has "never been involved in or had a voice" in awarding contracts — the thing that got Agnew in trouble — and "never in seven years" has anybody tried to influence him on an agency contract.

Court Bugging Evidence Lacked

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The chief of the Supreme Court's security guard says he knows of no evidence the building has ever been bugged.

Capt. Vernon W. Coble made the statement yesterday when asked about an assertion by Justice William O. Douglas that the justices' secret conference room had been subjected to electronic surveillance. Douglas said in an opinion Monday that he was "morally certain" such surveillance took place.

Later, neither Chief Justice Warren E. Burger nor any of his eight colleagues, including Douglas himself, would comment further.

Giacomini Cancels Water Bond Support

The Marin Municipal Water District's $7.5 million water bond measure on the Nov. 6 ballot lost one vote yesterday.

Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini told fellow supervisors he was withdrawing his earlier support of the bond measure because the water district board refuses to endorse it.

Also, he said, his withdrawal was based on facts indicating the bond measure could finance improvements to provide much more than the 8,000-acre-feet of water each year promised by the water district board.

(The water district board has said it will limit new water by contracting for only 8,000 acre-feet from Sonoma County.)

Giacomini said as much as 22,000-acre-feet could be funneled into Marin by passage of Measure E and that could prompt uncontrolled growth.

"It would be hypocritical of me to endorse this in light of the facts that have been developed," he told his colleagues.

Supervisor Michael Wornum said he agreed with Giacomini but by the end of the discussion he had rejoined Supervisors Arnold M. Baptiste and Robert A. Roumiguiere in reaffirming their earlier endorsement. Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. was absent.

"By withdrawing our support we may be falling into a trap set by a majority of the water board who are trying to defeat the water issue," Baptiste said.

He said the trap was the confusion being created about the bond issue.

Baptiste predicted defeat of the bond issue and added a "backlash" will occur in the new few years "when people's swimming pools can't be filled and when their landscaping can't be watered."

"I don't think we should shilly-shally on it," Wornum agreed. "My support stands on a bond issue for 8,000 acre-feet . . ."

"If the bond issue did what we thought it would do I would continue to support it," Giacomini said. "But it could bring in three times as much water."

Boy, 12, Struck By Motorcycle

James M. Rainville, 12, of 1534 Anna Way, Petaluma, was reported in good condition at Hillcrest Hospital with a broken right leg suffered when he was struck by a motorcycle yesterday at 3:35 p.m. near his home.

Police said the boy was playing in the street when he was struck by a motorcycle driven by Brian McCarthy, 15, of 1177 Lombardi Avenue, Petaluma.

Supervisors Set Stage For Test On Bulkhead

Marin County supervisors voted 3-to-1 yesterday to uphold issuance of a tidelands permit allowing construction of a bulkhead on property fronting Stinson Beach.

The board's action approving the permit for the Barbara E. Alban property at 30 Calle del Embarcadero brought assurances from one neighbor that the courts will be asked to rescind the permit.

San Francisco attorney Patricia Carson Major, who owns a home near the site, challenged the county on its practice of not notifying neighbors when a project does not require an environmental impact report.

She also questioned the expertise of county employees who decide no report is needed and said she will file legal action to block construction of the bulkhead.

The permit was first approved last month by the county environmental protection committee and later on appeal by the county planning commission.

San Rafael attorney Richard H. Breiner, representing Mrs. Alban, said the bulkhead is needed to protect a new home planned for the site and to hold fill for the septic tank leach field.

While protesting neighbors urged the home be built on piles, Breiner and engineer Edward B. Beattie of Mill Valley said building on piles would not allow for a leaching field above the ground water level.

Breiner charged the neighbors' protests were delay tactics aimed at stalling approval until after the Regional Water Quality Control Board's ban on new septic tanks takes effect next month.

Mrs. Alban's new home, if built, would partially block neighbors' views of the ocean.

Winston Norman, another neighbor, told supervisors the proposed bulkhead will extend halfway into the Calle del Embarcadero right-of-way, hampering public access to the beach and funneling storm waves down the street, threatening other homes and eroding the beach.

Beattie countered that wave flooding of the street will be no worse than without the bulkhead and said public access to the beach will still exist.

Opponents of the bulkhead won support from Supervisor Michael Wornum who noted the last home built on the site (on piles) was destroyed by wave action. He called Mrs. Alban's land a hazardous location to build and said erosion of the beach could be caused by the waves hitting the bulkhead.

Other supervisors disagreed and their position seemed to be summed up by Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere, who said not to allow the bulkhead would prohibit any use of the land.

Mrs. Alban must still get approval from the North Central Coast Regional Commission.

Nuisance Action Started Against Barge

The vote was unanimous after Marine Inspector Richard L. Larson told supervisors "every possible action" has been taken to remove the illegal houseboat.

An unoccupied tugboat and barge sharing Harbor Cove with the Golden Gate are expected to leave once hull repairs are complete, Larson said.

The problem with abating the large barge, he added, "is what do we do with it." Larson explained later the cost of demolishing the 350-ton barge would be high and he knows of nowhere it can be towed.

He said he would investigate hauling it out to sea and sinking it, but it can't be floated from the beach until the next high tide — due in December.

The barge is owned by Scott Diamond, who pleaded innocent Monday in Marin Municipal Court to criminal complaints filed by the county that he has illegally occupied the barge without a permit.

According to County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, Diamond has requested a public defender to fight the criminal complaint and plans to use the Legal Aid Society of Marin to fight the civil nuisance abatement action.

His comments brought an angry response from Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere who said the houseboats have turned Richardson Bay into "a dog-gone garbage dump . . . a cancer in the heart of Marin."

He urged swift action to remove all offending houseboats but was cautioned by Supervisor Michael Wornum that such a move could jeopardize county actions to force improvements at houseboat marinas.

The movement of illegal houseboats from the Sausalito Marinas to Strawberry Point shows the improvements are forcing them out, Wornum said.

Larson also reported that another floating home, owned by Richard "Salty" Forrest, visited the cove for a few days, then was towed to the A.G. Schoonmaker property in Sausalito.

The houseboat has since moved and is anchored off the drydocks in Richardson Bay in what appears to be the start of another cat and mouse game between the county and the houseboat owner.

County Releases District's Funds

The Marin City Community Services District yesterday won release of $39,100 budgeted for it by county supervisors, who said the amount would be cut next year if community recreation programs are not consolidated.

Supervisors, seeking to avoid duplication of such services, had ordered the funds withheld unless the district signed an agreement with the Marin City Boys Club to operate a joint recreation program.

The district board subsequently refused to work with the boys club, charging the boys club with trying to take over the district's prime function.

The boys club last week was given its $11,323 share by supervisors after explaining negotiations with the district had proven fruitless.

The district yesterday came in asking for its share, plus more, and met a hostile Supervisor Michael Wornum, who said the district's refusal to work with the boys club would lead to a cut in funding next year unless a joint program is worked out in the next nine months.

If not, Wornum said, he will urge the boys club allocation be increased and the district's decreased.

With that, the board approved releasing the $39,100 and rejected a request from the district's general manager, Jack C. Williams, that the amount be increased to $50,000 "for a bare-bones program."

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

UNITED NATIONS — Unanimously rejected a request from Ray Kessner of the Marin Committee to Restore American Independence Now that Oct. 24 be declared United Nations Day of Shame.

SLIDE — Approved $5,393 to build a new stairway to the Richard Ward home at 655 Edgewood Avenue, near Mill Valley. The stairway, the only access to the home, was damaged during a slide earlier this year.

DONATION — Accepted a $68 check from the Friends of the Marin County Library "to be used at the discretion of the Fairfax Librarian." Supervisor Michael Wornum suggested "Maybe we should check what kind of books they're buying."

SETTLEMENT — Agreed to pay $5,021 of the $15,063 cost of repairing landslide damage to the home of Phyllis Andelin, 390 Ferndale Avenue, near Mill Valley.

BID — Accepted a $28,344 bid from Bresnan and Dalecio to grade and pave access roads, the service yard and parking lots at juvenile hall.

EASEMENTS — Accepted a report from the public works department on policies and procedures involved in the dedication and acceptance of public easements.

HIRING — Approved hiring an additional communications technician for the communications department to handle the additional workload caused by increased levels of city and county communication services.

SICK LEAVE — Approved an administrative regulation granting unlimited sick leave accrual to management and mid-management level employees. Other employees already have unlimited sick leave accrual.

Meetings Set On San Anselmo School Programs

The San Anselmo School District master plan survey committee last night set a series of five community meetings to discuss the district education program and school facilities.

The meetings will be held at 7:30 p.m. at various district schools over the next several weeks: Wade Thomas School, Oct. 23; Hidden Valley School, Oct. 24; Red Hill School, Nov. 1; Isabel Cook School, Nov. 7; and Brookside School, Nov. 13.

Although the meetings will focus on school facilities and possible sites of future facilities, residents may discuss any topic of interest, according to Supt. Frank R. Elliott.

A form developed by the master plan committee will be distributed at the meetings to solicit opinion on such matters as possible school closings, facilities and the educational program, he said.

Fuel Rules Give Edge To Taverns

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. Clem McSpadden, D-Okla., says the way the government's allocation program is written for spreading around the propane shortage, taverns could get heat and churches might not.

Taverns could qualify for priority under the federal fuel allocation system because small "commercial establishments" are ensured propane, but churches "are not mentioned at all," McSpadden said yesterday.

"Thus, conceivably, beer taverns could qualify as a priority customer while churches remain cold," he added.

Rash Of UFO Sightings Renews An Old Debate

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Its UFO time again, and there are those who believe that if a little creature with wrinkled skin and pointy ears swoops out of the sky and lands at your feet, you'd better smile and say howdy because it's an emmissary from an "extra-terrestial civilization." (See also story, page 1.)

There have been a number of recent sightings of strange flying objects in Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Ohio, Mississippi, Texas and Georgia, and some people, mostly those who have done the sighting, are beginning to get concerned.

Ray Stanford of Austin, Tex., told a late-night radio talk show host yesterday his group, the Association for the Understanding of Man, is setting up a huge signal light to attract unidentified flying objects.

He said the light, in Central Texas, can be seen by the naked dye as far as 150 miles into space.

A woman in New Orleans said she saw something shaped like the Houston Astrodome hover over her home.

The Air Force chief of staff said UFOs touched off fighting during the Vietnam war, and even the Russians have been hearing things from outer space.

The Tass News Agency said Soviet scientists are hearing unusual radio signals—never heard before—coming in pulses after definite lapses of time, lasting for several minutes and being repeated several times a day.

"It is not precluded that they may be sent by a technically developed extraterrestial civilization," the Russian report said.

Two Pascagoula shipyard workers said they were hustled aboard a blue, fish-shaped craft by three weird creatures who gave them the once-over with an eye-like scanning device. And they're going to take lie detector tests to prove it.

At Pine, La., sheriff's deputies chased five orange-reddish flying objects 12 miles through the woods.

Pilots at the Raleigh County Airport at Beckley, W.Va., saw a mysterious night flyer that turned red, then green, then white.

"Where they are coming from and why they were here is a matter of conjecture," said Northwestern University astronomer Dr. Allen Hynek. "But the fact that they were here on this planet is beyond a reasonable doubt."

Dr. Robert O'Connell, an LSU astrophysicist, disagrees with Hynek.

"There's probably some mundane explanation for the ones right now and for probably any UFOs," he said.

O'Connell said he was skeptical of most UFO reports, especially the Pascagoula case.

"I don't necessarily dispute what they're saying," he said. "It could be a hoax. The hoax could be on two levels: the people themselves or somebody else carrying out a hoax.

"This area (of UFO reports) is notorious for hoaxes."

In Chicago, U.S. Air Force Chief of Staff Gen George S. Brown told a news conference yesterday UFOs were reported in Vietnam during the war and even triggered an air-sea battle near the Demilitarized Zone in 1968 in which an Australian destroyer was hit.

"I don't know if this story has ever been told," Brown told a news conference, but they (UFOs) "plagued us in Vietnam during the war."

"I think it's noghing," Brown said, "I think it is atmospherics."

Dozens of UFOs were again reported by citizens and police officers in southern and central Ohio last night including a woman who said three UFO's forced her car off a roadway. The objects, mostly described as orange in color, were reported in several areas including Columbus, Coshocton in east central Ohio, and in the southwestern part of the state at Middletown and Greenfield.

SPACE VISITOR — If the driver of the next UFO you see looks like this, chances are he's from outer space. If he looks like you and me, however, he's probably from Alameda County — or Pascagoula, Miss. In either case, it might not be a bad idea to carry a camera. You never know what you might see.

(Independent-Journal drawing by Jack Lucey)

Space Junk Could Be 'Saucers'

PITTSBURGH (UPI) —The director of programs at Buhl Planetarium here has a ready explanation for the rash of "flying saucer" sightings across the nation.

Paul J. Oles said there were now 10 individual objects in space which are brighter than the third magnitude, which means they are seen easily even in a hazy sky. He said the objects were either satellites or "space junk."

Oies said three Russian satellites of the Cosmos series—Cosmos 103, Cosmos 151 and Cosmos 185-along with the Russian Meteor 7 satellite were flying in space and could be seen.

In addition, he said Skylab, the Skylab rocket, a Skylab shroud, a piece of Skylab debris, the American Pageos 1 and the orbiting Astronomical Observatory 2 satellites could be seen easily, especially at night.

Key To Future Seen In Mideast

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Roman Catholic Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen said yesterday that the "key to the world's future" may be found in the Middle East conflict.

"One already can see a line-up of the world powers," the prelate said. "The Russians are lining up with the Arabs, and the Americans are lining up with the Jews.

"This could be a rehearsal for something very serious."

A Blending Building Is Suggested

The proposed public safety building for East Mill Valley probably should have a low key design which fits into its landscape in the Shelter Ridge area, the city's architectural advisory committee last night told architects for the building.

Robert J. Hanna, planning associate, said architect Matthew Mills told the committee he wanted advice on whether to make the building blend with its setting or to make it a focal point for the city with a dramatic design.

According to Hanna, Mills also said he wants to make the building an appealing structure which residents will want to visit.

The building will include fire department facilities, for which voters approved a bond issue last year. A police station will adjoin thhe building if voters approve another $545,000 bond issue on the ballot Nov. 6.

Also last night, the committee approved the design of a duplex to be built by K. W. Lines of Mill Valley on Miller Avenue across from the entrance to the Mill Valley Lumber Yard.

Hanna said the committee asked the planning commission, however, to evaluate the steeply sloped site as a possible open space area.

Soldier Faces Check Charges

A soldier from the Presidio of San Francisco was to appear tomorrow in Marin Superior Court for arraignment on a felony bad check charge.

SP/6 William Samuel Breedlove, 38, was bound over last Tuesday after a preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court.

He is accused of cashing 13 bad checks at businesses in San Rafael, San Anselmo and Corte Madera between June 15 and Aug. 4 on a closed bank account.

Town In Wrong Place On Map

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Every year for the past 15 years the state of Arizona has misplaced the town of Tuweep, according to State Cartographer Jeff Strour.

This year is no exception.

The Arizona Highway Department map shows Tuweep as being 10 miles east of its actual location, which is just inside the northwest boundary of the Grand Canyon National Monument.

"I don't know how we messed up on Tuweep," Strour said. "Every year we send out letters to governmental agencies asking for corrections. Nobody ever mentioned Tuweep before."

Tuweep has only one inhabitant, John Riffey, who has lived at the Tuweep Ranger Station since 1942.

New Ambulance Will Be Displayed

Members of the Stinson Beach Fire Protection District will hold an open house from 9 a.m. until noon Saturday to demonstrate the district's new $7,500 four-patient ambulance.

The custom-built ambulance partially funded by a $3,900 county grant will be staffed by 14 volunteer members of the Stinson Beach Ambulance Corps., and will serve the Stinson Beach area including the state park there as well as Mount Tamalpais State Park.

Air Clean-Up Rules Branded 'Too Timid'

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — New federal regulations to clean up air pollution were branded yesterday by Friends of the Earth as far too timid to do the job.

The national conservation organization objected especially that the regulations rely heavily "on the very entities that created air pollution problems to solve them: Detroit and local government." Both, however, dispute the air quality standards set under the 1970 Clean Air Act, according to Connie Parrish of Mill Valley, California representative of the San Francisco-based organization.

Local officials, she said in a press statement, "are already speculating how the intent of this regulation can be subverted in practice."

Instead of a gradual shift to transit by hiking the cost of private automobile use, she said, cleaning up the air will require "a crash campaign" to get people into transit and car pools. This will take "massive funding," to finance transit, she acknowledged.

Miss Parrish noted that the regulations issued Monday by the Environmental Protection Agency at best will go only one-third of the way toward meeting its own air quality standards.

Prosecution OF Sausalitan To Be Dropped

A Sausalito man will not be prosecuted on a felony charge of assisting another man in the rape of a San Rafael woman, the Marin District Attorney's office has decided.

The seldom-used felony count was dropped after Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas refused to reduce the charge to a misdemeanor, as asked by Deputy Dist. Atty. Raymond E. Gilbert.

Gilbert said he had insufficient evidence to prosecute Byron Michael Levinson, 26, who was charged with forcing orcing the 22-year-old woman to swallow some pills, then taking her into a bedroom at his house, where she was whipped, and sexually assaulted by another man.

Ecology Center Sets Meeting

The Marin Ecology Center in Larkspur will hold a public meeting from 1 to 4 p.m. tomorrow to discuss plans for a November hike to raise funds for legal expenses needed to defend suits resulting from the California Coastline Initiative.

The measure was passed by voters last November. It created a state commission to control building along California's coast.

Also to be discussed is an open house to recruit new members, set for Oct. 28 from 4 to 8 p.m. at the center.

Ambassador To Havana Is Kidnapped

BRUSSELS (UPI) —A young Cuban kidnaped the Belgian ambassador to Havana at gunpoint yesterday and demanded that he be allowed to leave Cuba, the Belgian Foreign Ministry said today. One report said the French ambassador also was being held hostage.

Foreign Minister Renaat van Elslande asked Cuba today to do everything possible to safeguard the kidnaped ambassador, Jean Somerhausen. The Foreign Ministry said Somerhausen cabled during the night that he had not been harmed.

Reports of the kidnaping conflicted. Cables from Havana said a man identified by Somerhausen as Miguel de la Paz kidnaped the envoy and took him to the French embassy. The Belgian embassy in Washington said yesterday that Somerhausen was taken hostage and forced to go to his yacht for a possible trip to the United States.

The Belgian Foreign Ministry said Somerhausen cabled that the Cuban first demanded that Somerhausen take him to the United States aboard the ambassador's yacht, but Somerhausen refused because it would have violated Cuban law.

The kidnaper then took Somerhausen to the Swiss embassy, then to the French embassy. Somerhausen indicated in a cable to the Foreign Ministry that French Ambassador to Cuba Pierre Anthonioz also was held hostage.

BRIAN D. GRANT
Due Eagle Award

Brian Grant To Receive Eagle Award

Brian D. Grant of San Rafael will receive the Eagle Award at a court of honor for Scout Troop 30, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Carpenter's Hall, San Rafael.

Grant, 14, is a sophomore at Marin Catholic High School. He is a member of the California Scholarship Federation for high grades and played football as a freshman. He also swims with the Marin Aquatic Club.

He has been a member of Troop 30 since he was 11, serving as patrol leader and senior patrol leader. He is a member of the Order of the Arrow, and camped for three weeks this summer at the Philmont Ranch and Explorer Base in New Mexico.

His Eagle project involved serving as a volunteer staff member of the Cub Scout Day Camp at Tamarancho for three weeks.

Grant is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Grant, 331 Irwin Street.

Hamilton Committee Organizes

The Hamilton Air Force Base Land Use Committee at an organizational meeting last night elected chairmen and set immediate goals for its work.

Joseph A. Forest was elected chairman and Paul Fry, vice chairman.

The committee set 8 p.m., each Thursday to meet at the Novato Community House.

One of its first tasks will be to hire a consultant, Forest said.

The committee has a $17,500 grant from the Department of Commerce to hire such a consultant, he said.

He reported that Brian W. Mattson, planning director, knows of nine consultants interested in making the study, but that the committee wants more to choose from. It will get a report from the city staff next Thursday.

One of the main items for the consultant to study would be the growth impact of an industrial complex on the 477 acres which the Air Force has declared surplus, Forest said.

The committee will plan on how to handle interim uses on some of the land. It has two months to make such a plan, he said.

The committee also has 120 days from the time Congress declares the land surplus to come out with a permanent plan for the land which is acceptable to both the City of Novato and Marin County, Forest reported.

Dogs Won't Like New Snail Bait

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A new form of snail and slug bait which dogs aren't supposed to eat will soon be on the market, reports the California Department of Food and Agriculture.

The department warned a few months ago that commercial snail and slug baits, particularly those in pellet form, were attractive to dogs.

It said yesterday that existing supplies of the bait should be used only according to directions, and not in areas frequented by pets or children.

Program Set By Council Of Veterans

The Marin County United Veterans Council will present its first Veteran's Day program inside the Marin County Veterans Memorial Buidling, Monday at 1 p.m.

The celebration to commemorate the contributions made by men who have served in military capacities will be directed by council chairman (Carlton) Schwartz of San Rafael, commander of American Legion Post 37.

The council is composed of seven county veterans' organizations: the American Legion, Disabled American Veterans, the Fleet Reserve Association, the Reserve Officers Association, the Retired Officers Association, United Spanish American War Vets, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Veterans of World War I.

The two-hour event, open to the public, will include a talk by Anthony Campos of Fort Baker, executive officer of the fourth brigade, ninety-first division of the American Legion, and banjo music played by 12-year-old Scotty Plummer of Nevada. The American Legion band will also perform.

Anniversary Medal Goes To Reagan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan received the first sterling silver medallion honoring the 200th anniversary of the American Revolution yesterday in a colorful old west ceremony.

The medallion, embossed with a design portraying the gold rush days in historic California missions and the Golden Gate Bridge, will be sold throughout the state beginning Oct. 29 to finance the 1976 U.S. bicentennial celebration.

Reagan awarded a $1,500 scholarship to Preston Condict, 17, of Our Town whose design was chosen for the medallion in a contest among high school students.

Condict and the second and third place finishers were driven to Reagan's office in a stage coach and escorted by a "pony express" rider and Amanda Blake, who plays Miss Kitty in the television show "Gunsmoke."

The governor praised organizers of the bicentennial in a brief philosophical speech, saying "in this mundane seeming world it is awful easy to forget the importance" of the founding of the United States.

President Richard Nixon will receive the 37th medallion minted for the celebration. "I don't know how he got down to No. 37," joked Richard F. Pourade, chairman of the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission of California.

Silver medallions like the one given to Reagan will sell for $12.50. Bronze medallions can be purchased for $3.50.

The second place, $750 scholarship was awarded to John Horny of Burlingame while the third-place, $250 award went to Rande Spiegelman of San Francisco's Lowell High School.

Condict, who grew up in the tiny community of Our Town, attended the Paso Robles High School.

Purse Snatching Hearing Set

An Oakland man, charged with grand theft in connection with the snatching of a woman's purse in Sausalito 13 months ago, has been ordered to appear Oct. 23 in Marin Municipal Court for a preliminary hearing.

Herman Louis Roberts, 20, is said to be one of two men who grabbed the purse of Patricia Schweitzer of San Rafael on Aug. 19, 1972.

Sausalito police arrested a juvenile shortly afterward, and the youth identified Roberts as his partner, officers said.

Tiburon Homeowners Protest Radio Tower

Homeowners in the Marinero and Mount Tiburon subdivisions of Tiburon have complained to the city about a 28-foot-high radio repeater tower, built at 141 Sugarloaf Drive without city permission.

Andrew E. Hahto, planning assistant, said about a dozen of the protesting property owners appeared Monday night at a board of adjustments hearing which was supposed to decide if the city would grant a permit allowing the tower, which is almost finished, to remain in place.

According to Hahto, city officials were shocked to find the tower, a concrete pad and two small equipment housings, under construction and were mystified for a while as to whom it belonged.

San Francisco attorney Harold Nachtrieb, who attended the meeting, said the tower was built by N. K. Terteling, owner of electronics and real estate businesses on the San Francisco peninsula. He said Terteling planned to use the tower as part of a private communications system for himself and his employees. According to Nachtrieb, Terteling originally had bought the lot to build a house on and then changed his mind.

At Nachtrieb's request, the board of adjustments voted 3-2 to continue the matter until after a city council meeting Oct. 23, although many at the meeting protested the delay. The council will ask Terteling at that meeting to show cause why the tower should not be declared a public nuisance and removed.

The first structure built at Saint John, N.B., was Fort La Tour, built in 1631.

New Plan Eyed To Save Condors

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state has announced new efforts to preserve the California condor — largest land bird to soar the skies of North America.

It is also one of the rarest, with only 50 to 60 living in the wild.

The Department of Fish and Game said Monday the tiny population of the giant birds is holding stable.

But the department said it will abandon its eight-year-old system of condor surveys and replace it with a "recovery plan" aimed at encouraging the vulture-like creatures to nest and rear more offspring by offering them extra food.

IN THE FIELD —Sheriff's Capt. Harvey E. Teague records report on cassette, which later can be connected to a telephonic transmitter and left alone to send report automatically to headquarters in the Marin Hall of Justice. It's an improvement on present taping of reports and a moonshot away from the not-so-old practice of writing them up.

AT HEADQUARTERS —Sheriff's Department transcriber John Freed inserts cassetteful of reports into machine which will play them through his headset for typing up. The cassette receives the reports automatically on another machine telephonically keyed to reporting machines at sheriff's substations scattered about the county.

Recorders Cut Deputies' Red Tape

By GEORGE NEVIN

The scene: The Old Marin Courthouse in San Rafael in 1967. A sheriff's deputy, fresh from a long night on patrol, faces two hours of typing reports before he can go home.

Cut to: The new Civic Center in 1971. Deputies now tape-record their reports for transcribing, but delays bog them down when a transcriber is ill or a machine breaks down.

Final cut to: One of the three Sheriff's substations one day next week. A deputy walks in, jams a tape cassette into a special machine, dials a telephone number and leaves for the night.

What the new machine does is allow deputies to record their crime reports on a hand-sized, 11-ounce machine and then relay them to the Civic Center by telephone.

When the new reporting system swings into full operation next week, according to Capt. Harvey E. Teague, his men will be able to spend much more of their shifts on the beat instead of pushing pencils or recording reports.

And go home. The device automatically transmits the information to a receiver at the Civic Center via telephone lines, then shuts off.

Present procedure is for deputies to return to the substation and record reports. The tapes are driven to the Civic Center each day for transcription.

Often, said Captain Teague, the transcribing machines would break down, requiring at least a day and a half to repair. Then too, the system, which has been in operation about six years, requires that a deputy bring the tapes into the main office daily.

"We figure the new system will let us keep our men on patrol the maximum time and eliminate making the men write their own reports, which sometimes happens on weekends," he said.

The portable, transistorized units were purchased with $8,571 budgeted this year by the board of supervisors.

Because the devices use the musical notes sounded by push-button telephones to send automatic instructions to the central receiver, the system is being held up while Pacific Telephone installs pushbutton phones at branch offices of the Sheriff's department.

That should be completed next week, Teague said.

Besides increasing the amount of time deputies can spend on the road, the Memocord system will increase the speed by which reports flow into headquarters.

Teague said the department hopes to receive all reports by 8 a.m. each day and have the "red-line" reports — those needed by the district attorney's office and the courts — one hour later.

In contrast, it sometimes is midmorning before some reports are completed under the present system.

Tests To Begin On Diabetes Weapon

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — An experiment which could mark the biggest advance in fighting diabetes since insulin begins today at University Hospital.

Development of a new synthetic hormone called somatostatin was announced Monday by Dr. Samuel S. C. Yen, chairman of the department of reproductive medicine at the University of California at San Diego Medical School. Three volunteer diabetics will receive injections of the substance, which has been successful so far in inhibiting the pituitary gland from producing growth hormones.

Dr. Yen said results have been promising in tests on animals and on five acromegaly patients. Acromegaly, which features abnormal enlargement of the hands, feet and facial features, is caused by an overproduction of growth hormone from the pituitary. Diabetes also is marked by excessive secretion of growth hormone.

"We are in the process of styding diabetics patients right now and hopefully this (somatostatin) will constitute a more specific therapeutic tool," Yen said.

"If we can manipulate growth hormone secretion in diabetics, we may subsequently improve their diabetic condition and that would be a major advance in our clinical management of these patients."

Presently at least one injection a day is required, but Yen said the substance eventually may be put into capsule form in which one pill would be effective for up to three months.

He said it is too early to tell whether the arrest of abnormal growth in the acromegaly patients is permanent.

Kentfield Trustees Widen Religious Holidays Policy

Personnel in the Kentfield School District who wish to observe religious holidays other than Christmas and Easter will be able to do so under a policy considered last night by district trustees.

Dr. Eugene C. Peters, district superintendent, said the policy change is intended to benefit members of the Jewish faith but will cover any religion which does not recognize Christmas and Easter as the primary religious holidays.

Peters said district personnel are given two days of personal leave each year and some have been using those leave days to observe religious holidays. He said trustees directed him to rewrite district policy so that district personnel can obtain an additional two days of personal leave if their alloted days are used in observance of religious holidays.

The policy change was requested by faculty representatives in discussion with Peters and will be considered for adoption by trustees at their November meeting, Peters said.

Trustees also set a special meeting Oct. 24 at 8 p.m. in district offices to discuss district goals and objectives.

Delinquency Group Eyes Movie Plan

Marin County Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission members yesterday reviewed proposals for producing a motion picture and multimedia show that would advise parents of delinquent and potentially delinquet youngsters what to do.

Dr. Robert Eddy, proponent of the project, said it would cost about $17,000, according to Douglas H. Bosco, human relations director and aide to the commission. Commissioners agreed to seek means of financing the project and will discuss it again at their next meeting Nov. 20.

Larkspur Town Meeting Group Will Oppose Water Bond Issue

Citing lack of information on the Marin Municipal Water District bond issue and alternatives to the project it will fund, the Larkspur Town Meeting steering committee last night voted to oppose Proposition E on the November ballot.

Sally Ann Wilson, vice chairman of the town meeting, said members of the steering committee heard a report on the bond issue from water district director L. Martin Griffin and Bernie Heare, senior engineer for the district.

She said members thought, however, they did not have enough information to endorse the project even after the report by water district represetatives.

The Nov. 6 bond measure would supply an additional 8,000 acre-feet of water to Marin.

The steering committee also endorsed a proposed sign ordinance for Larkspur and set Nov. 10 from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. for the fourth annual town meeting in Redwood High School. Topics to be discussed by the town meeting include the city's general plan and the proposed regional shopping center in Larkspur.

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Nicholas Tomalin, a reporter for the Sunday Times of London, was killed today when a rocket struck his car on the Syrian front of the Middle East war. He was the first foreign newsman killed in the war.

Tax Limit Proposition Is Opposed

The Fairfax School District board last night voted to oppose Proposition 1 on the Nov. 6 ballot because of the "impact on school programs." (Another Fairfax School District story, page 6.)

Although some board members supported certain aspects of the governor's tax limitation proposal, the board agreed that it would further limit local school boards' control of their affairs.

The Fairfax School District board also:

DENTAL — Approved participating in a dental survey being undertaken in the county of first, fifth and seventh grade students.

CLASSES — Postponed decision on the uses of school facilities for classes in karate and dramatic artsuntil further information is obtained.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Mary Beth Walker, a teacher at Deer Park School, who has been on maternity leave.

AGREEMENTS — Approved interdistrict agreements for one youngster from Fairfax to attend school in San Anselmo and for two from Lagunitas and three from San Anselmo to attend Fairfax schools.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until a meeting at 7:45 p.m. Nov. 6 at White Hill School.

Gable House Is On The Market

ENCINO (UPI) — Clark Gable's six-bedroom ranch house is for sale, a spokesman for the dead actor's family said yesterday.

Real estate brokers have valued the house at almost $200,000. Gable lived on the 19- acre ranch for nearly 25 years. The ranch house comes with an acre of land. The other 18 acres were recently sold by Gable's widow, Kay, for $800,000, to developers who are building a 37-home tract to be called Clark Gable Ranch Estates.

Deaf Ear By Sausalito To Petaluma Aid

The City of Sausalito will lend neither financial nor moral support in the City of Petaluma's court fight to defend its policy of controlled growth, city councilmen decided last night.

They voted 3-to-1, Evert H. Heynneman dissenting, to reject a request for $250 to help pay enormous legal expenses anticipated in a challenge to Petaluma's "pioneer policy" of limiting the number of residential dwellings that can be built to 500 per year. Councilman Stephen A. Fraser was absent.

"Sausalito is surrounded by water on one side and the federal government on the other," said Councilman Earl F. Dunphy. "This request by Petaluma is not appropriate and I oppose it."

Countered Heynneman: "We must support growth guidelines. This is in our interest because there is a tendency to overbuild in a city like Sausalito. . . There must come a day when building is a privilege, not a right."

Steve Siskind, a representative of A.G. Schoomaker Co., which has proposed a massive development for the Sausalito waterfront, called Petaluma's approach "unconstitutional and discriminatory" and urged the city not to support something it knows little about.

"If the growth control regulations of the City of Petaluma are upheld, this will constitute a milestone in the field of zoning and planning law," City Atty. Leland H. Jordan informed councilmen in a memorandum.

Councilmen also declined to support Petaluma even with words.

The Sausalito City Council also:

PILINGS — In the face of citizen protest, councilmen reaffirmed their decision to remove pilings in Edgewater Cove between Main Street and Valley Street. Citizens contended that removing pilings would destroy a haven for birds. Heynneman abstained.

PLUMBING — Adopted the Uniform Plumbing Code, 1973 edition.

CHALLENGE — Rejected a challenge by Clive Weston to a staff opinion that the height of a building should be determined by considering the entire side of the structure, including the roof. Weston maintained that in computing height, the roof or any portion of the side not along the plane of the wall should not be taken into account.

ONDINE — Sent a variance application by Ronald McAnnon, owner of the Trident-Ondine building, to the planning commission for a recommendation on whether the owner should be allowed to rebuild the structure should it be destroyed. Councilmen also supported a recommendation by the planning director that the ordinance defining nonconforming structures be reworded to apply to buildings that exceed height, bulk and setback requirements. Although the present ordinance refers to the use of a building in determining whether it is nonconforming, its intent was to classify structures as nonconforming if they violate size and design resrictions, according to Jordan . After rewording, the Trident-Ondine building would be considered nonconforming and its owner would have to obtain a variance in order to rebuild.

GATE 5 — Set Nov. 20 for a public hearing on a measure that would allow parking laws to be enforced on privately-owned Gate 5 Road. The fire chief has complained that cars are blocking access to fire hydrants in the houseboat marina area.

UNDERGROUNDING — Approved Alexander Avenue, Second, South and Richardson streets as the next area for undergrounding utility lines. Construction will cost $82,000 and will begin late next year.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Tuesday in city council chambers.

Burglary Of Shop Is Denied

The burglary of a San Rafael coffee shop was denied Monday by William Richard Pape, 26, of San Francisco.

Judge David R. Baty set a preliminary hearing for Oct. 25 for Pape. He is accused of taking $102 from the cash register of the Courthouse Creamery, Fourth and A streets, on Thursday.

San Rafael Patrolman Jack K. Kerr said he heard Pape moving around inside the shop at 1:51 a.m. and arrested him when he came out.

New Toilet Will Cut Water Use

MANSFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — Borg-Warner Corp. said yesterday that it will produce a new type of toilet capable of cutting down water use in the average household by 25 per cent.

A spokesman said the toilet will use only 3.5 gallons a flush, as opposed to the usual five gallons, and it is capable of reducing water usage in the average home by 7,300 gallons per year.

One Of Three Novato School Crossing Guard Pleas Approved

The Novato City Council consented last night to place a school crossing guard at South Novato Boulevard and Yukon Way for Rancho School children.

Three crossing guards have been requested by residents east of South Novato Boulevard, whose children must cross the busy narrow street to get to Rancho School. The other two are wanted at Center Road and at Lauren Drive.

The council asked for further study by the traffic safety committee before deciding about the other two.

The Rancho Parent-Teacher Association presented a petition with names of 25 householders favoring the crosswalks. A small delegation of parents stayed at the meeting until after midnight to ask for the crosswalks.

The council also increased the speed limit on South Novato Boulevard to a uniform 35 miles per hour, eliminating some 25-mile-per-hour stretches.

It set a 25-mile-per-hour limit on Arthur Street past Novato High School, a limit police plan to check by radar.

The Novato City Council also:

COURT CASE — Granted the City of Petaluma $250 in its legal fight to win a court case so it can limit growth.

ANNEXATION — Introduced an ordinance annexing 102 acres on Novato Boulevard at Sutro Avenue containing the O'Hair Park property and three other parcels.

CHEDA — Approved the master plan for Cheda Farms for a maximum of 206 townhouses and 156 apartments on approximately 45 acres between South Novato Boulevard and Highway 101.

TRAFFIC — Increased the speed limit on Ignacio Boulevard from Montura Way to Highway 101 from 25 to 30 miles per hour and authorized "yield" signs on Railroad Avenue at Grant Avenue.

ZONING — Overrode planning commission denial and granted John Novak a zone change from limited agriculture to single-family for 3.5 acres on the south side of lease land west of Simmons Lane.

RESERVOIR — Met with the North Marin County Water District directors and was told the district is considering constructing an underground reservoir in the southern part of the district, which prompted Queseda to say the city might be willing to help with the expense if it proved possible to create municipal tennis courts on the concrete roof of the reservoir.

HEIFETZ — Authorized payment on the first parcel of the Heifetz property east of South Novato Boulevard south of Lynwood Park, and approved taking the option to buy the second parcel of the land to be used for a park and open space.

AUDIT — Received the annual audit.

New Sign Law, Park Land Swap Approved In Cotati

Prior opposition evaporated last night as the Cotati City Council adopted a new sign ordinance and approved a land trade for a new park.

The sign ordinance, which had met strong opposition at the planning commission level, was quietly adopted without debate. It reduces the size of signs and requires subdued colors and lighting.

Planning aide Mark Thysen said businessmen were apparently satisfied with the new restrictions, since they will have three years in which to conform to the ordinance.

Proposed sign restrictions had been part of the debate during the heated recall election on Sept. 4 and residents complained then that it would be the ruination of many old-time businesses.

The council also received no opposition to plans to trade the eight-acre former sewer plant site in exchange for a 10-acre park site on Myrtle Avenue owned by Morehouse, Inc.

The city land has been used only as a corporation yard in recent years and City Mgr. Robert A. Switzer said the facility could be relocated without difficulty.

City Atty. Jay Cantor told the council the trade agreement cannot be final for six months to allow time to clear deeds. He said a new appraisal must also be made on the city property since the recent sewer connection moratorium might affect the land value.

The council also donated $300 toward new uniforms for the Rancho Cotate High School band after the youngsters staged a brief concert in the council chamber.

Ticonderoga To The Scrap Heap

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —The aircraft carrier Ticonderoga, which saw combat in World War II and the Korean War and was the recovery ship for the first Skylab astronauts, made its last voyage yesterday, pulled by tugs on its way to the scrap heap.

The carrier's engines have been removed and it can no longer sail under its own power. It was towed five miles from the North Island Naval Air Station to the San Diego Naval Station, where more equipment will be removed.

The Navy plans to hold a decommissioning ceremony Nov. 16 and sell the carrier shell for scrap.

Woman Freed In Drug Case

A San Rafael woman, arrested on suspicion of possessing 41 amphetamine tablets, has been released, a chemical test having showed the pills weren't illicit drugs.

A felony drug possession charge against Marilyn Elizabeth Little, 32, was dismissed Monday by Judge David R. Baty of Marin Municipal Court.

The pills were found in her purse Sept. 6 in Sausalito after a policeman stopped her car for driving to the left of the center line on Bridgeway.

Riles Lists Six Areas Where State School System Failing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Meeting the educational needs of thousands of handicapped children is one of six tasks California schools have not accomplished, says state Supt. Wilson Riles.

Speaking at a fund raising dinner yesterday, Riles said other jobs undone include too little action to diminish violence and vandalism; failure to implement the concept of career education and insufficient action to counter the threat of soaring food prices in school meal programs.

He also pointed to a lack of sufficiently challenging instruction for gifted children and the "immense task of compliance with the Serrano decision" which is aimed at assuring equal education opportunity in all districts regardless of the local property wealth.

However, 1973 is a vintage year for education because "the schools begin to harvest the benefits of several new programs which we worked on together over the past three years," Riles said.

He spoke at a $50-a-plate testimonial dinner held to raise campaign funds, although he has not formally announced his candidacy for re-election to his three-year-old nonpartisan post.

Among benefits the schools are now beginning to enjoy is the $322 million school finance and tax relief measure which gave more money to each district in the state for each child, Riles said in a prepared text.

He also mentioned the success of the early childhood education program serving 12 per cent of the state's pupils from kindergarten to third grade.

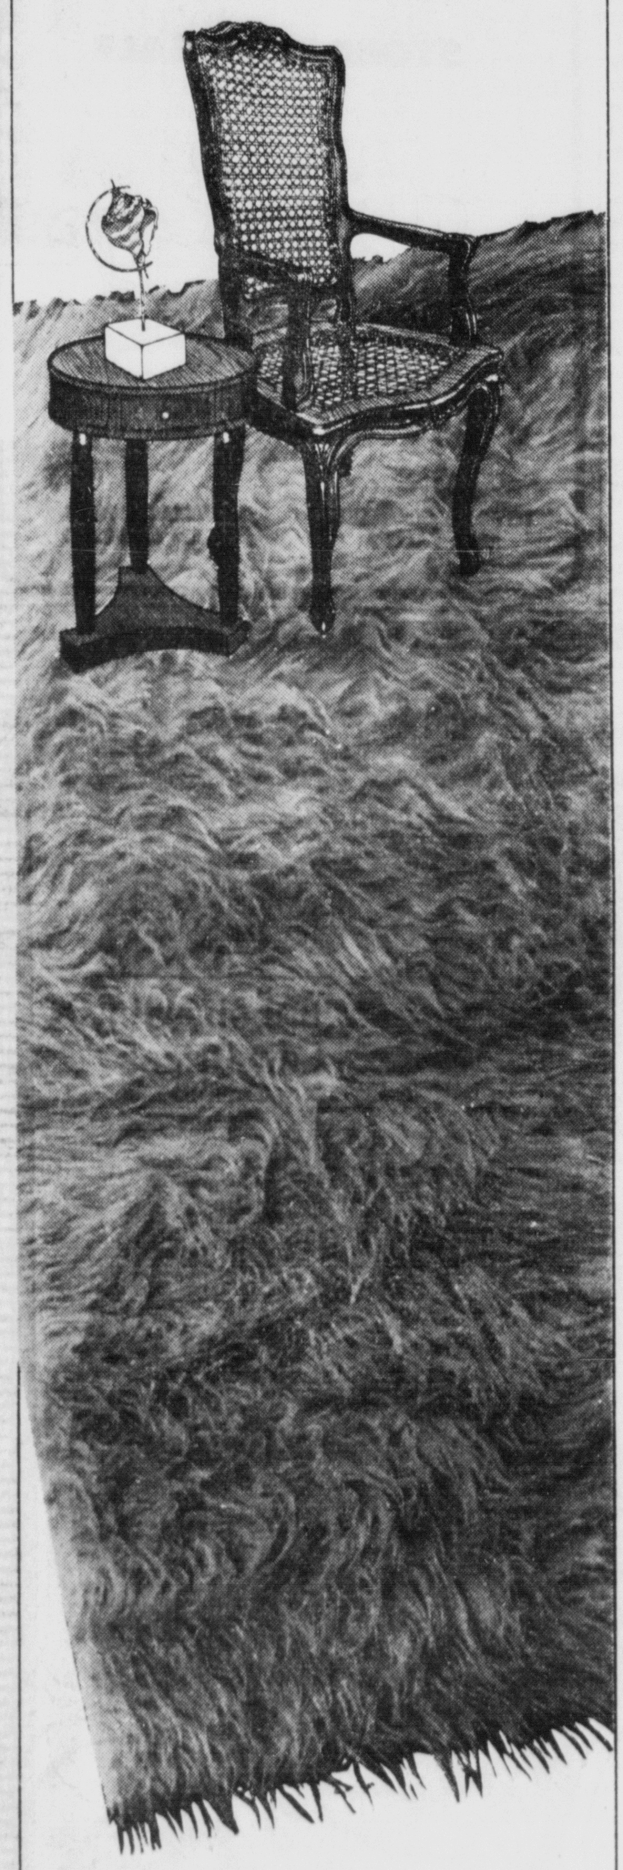

He said the program has helped individualize instruction and spur parental involvement.

He said the bilingual education program also has involved parents and is "another major example of a fresh start, another practical effort to give high priority and resources to the individual needs of children."

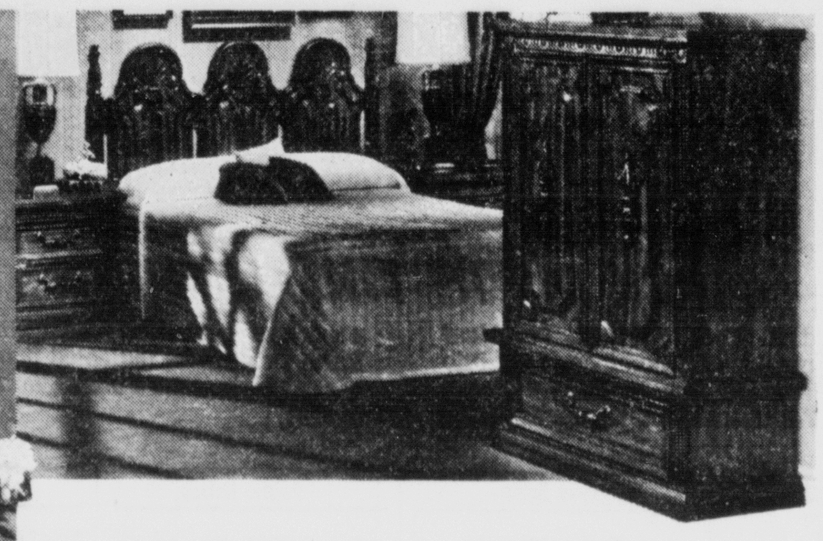

The other development Riles praised is a new law giving "each school district much more freedom in selecting materials appropriate to their locally planned programs."

New Water Hookups Impossible

The North Marin County Water District has no more water for additional hookups, the board said last night, after granting water for 50 new townhouses at the Crossroads.

The district manager, J. Olan Nelson, said the district once again is in the position it was in last May, when all available water had been assigned to users. (The district, however, did eventually find additional water last summer.)

Nelson said that next June or July, when the capacity of the Stafford treatment plant has been doubled, the board can assess how much more water will be available to prospective consumers.

At the same time, the board can see if the Sonoma water Agency can deliver more water.

In the meantime, the district will hold in abeyance applications for new extensions. If one of the present agreements is voided, then the district will consider the next in line for that water, he said.

The board also approved a preliminary draft for an intertie agreement with Marin Municipal Water District. The agreement now goes to that district for its revision. When the final draft is completed it will be approved or disapproved by both district boards.

The agreement calls for stage one of a 33-inch aqueduct from the main gate at Hamilton Air Force Base to Highway 37 and stage two of another 33-inch aqueduct from Highway 37 to San Marin Drive.

It also includes a booster pump on the North Main aqueduct south of Petaluma to speed the flow of water to Novato, Nelson said.

Many Feel Nobel Peace Prize Winners Were Wrong Choices

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Giving the Nobel peace prize to Le Duc Tho of North Vietnam was "similar to granting the title chastity to a prostitute," said a spokesman for the South Vietnamese government. Historian Henry S. Commager called the award to Henry A. Kissinger "highly improper and misguided."

There were also good words for the joint selections, although the New York Daily News called the timing of the announcement "a touch of irony" because of the latest war in the Middle East. "It was a surprising choice," the News said, "though certainly a merited one in Dr. Kissinger's case."

President Nixon praised Kissinger "for his richly deserved selection."

Brig. Gen. John P. Flynn of the Air Force, the highest ranking American prisoner of war held by the Communists in Vietnam, said he agreed completely with the award of the prize to Kissinger. He added, "I hope Le Duc Tho attempts to get his government to live up to the stated agreement concerning the peace in Vietnam and especially that portion that deals with strict accounting of all the missing in action and no interference with the affairs of the south."

In Paris, a spokesman for the Viet Cong said Le Duc Tho made a "great contribution" to achieving the uneasy cease-fire in Vietnam, "the agreement which has been violated very seriously by the United States and the Saigon administration."

According to Saigon command figures, 47,376 Vietnamese on both sides have been killed since the cease-fire began Jan. 28. Some 45,944 Americans were killed during the entire war.

Bui Bao Truc, the Saigon government spokesman, said "the act of giving the Nobel prize to Le Duc Tho is similar to granting the title chastity to a prostitute or a pimp." Truc did not mention Kissinger at all.

Prof. George Wald of Harvard, who has won the Nobel Prize for science, called the award "an absolute disgrace." He said the Nixon adminstration's Vietnam policy, which Kissinger drew up, was characterized by "brutal, heartless murders."

Commager, the noted Amherst College history professor, said, "I think the award to Mr. Kissinger was highly improper and misguided. I think ignoring Mr. Kissinger's part in the conduct of this war, conduct not only illegal but deeply immoral and barbarous, gives a sort of retroactive authorization to wars of that kind... Mr. Kissinger does not to my mind deserve a peace prize as much as a war prize."

The New York Times in an editorial said the award was "at the very least, premature... Secretary Kissinger...may by the end of his career amply warrant the award already won...that, however, remains conjectaral, a reservation that remains at least equally applicable to the Le Duc Tho share in the award."

Membership Sale Prizes Are Awarded

The Marin Symphony Association has announced prizes to be awarded in a contest open to the public in which competition will be held to sell symphony memberships.

First prize is an eight-day vacation at a Waikiki hotel, including round-trip transportation to Hawaii. Others are a weekend for five at Lake Tahoe condominium, a weekend in an ocean home at Sea Drift in Stinson Beach, five massages done at home, overnight stays at a country inn, a day of sailing San Francisco Bay aboard a yacht and a 14th Century parchment music manuscript.

The symphony receives less than 50 per cent of its funds from ticket sales. The rest comes from memberships, according to symphony spokesmen. The contest will run through Nov. 1.

Reagan Tax Plan Backed By Collier

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Sen. Randolph Collier, Democratic chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and dean of the legislature, today endorsed Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax limitation initiative on the Nov. 6 ballot.

Collier became the first major Democrat in the legislature to break ranks and support the proposal. He once was a Republican.

The crusty 70-year-old lawmaker, appearing at a news conference with a beaming Reagan, rejected assertions that the measure would clamp a fiscal "straitjacket" on the legislature and severely reduce its flexibility.

"Prop. 1 works to the benefit of California's taxpayers and does not interfere with the traditional functions of the legislature," he said. "We are not tampering with our basic institutions. We are simply asking our basic institutions not to tamper with our lives."

Collier, long known as the "Father of the California Freeways" and an advocate of constructing a new 17-story skyscraper office building for the legislature, said that government has "developed an almost insatiable appetite for tax dollars."

The white-maned Yreka lawmaker, first elected to the Senate 35 years ago, said he had seen the state budget grow from $250 million to its current $9.3 billion.

Collier, who seldom has been at odds with Reagan over fiscal matters and who terms himself an economic "conservative," said Prop. 1 would "reverse the trend of taxation that threatens to reduce all of us to economic serfdom."

For Reagan, support of Collier for the initiative, which would clamp a lid on the total amount of taxes the state could extract from taxpayers, was a political coup.

State College Budget Is $481.9 Million

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A proposed 1974-75 budget was presented today to trustees of the California State University and Colleges, calling for a spending package of $481.9 million.

The budget represented an 8.3 per cent increase over the current budget of $444.8 million. The new proposal includes $7.5 million in salary adjustments.

No authorization by the trustees is expected until next month because they didn't have a quorum today. The budget proposal was drawn up by administrators of the 19-campus system.

Trustees Edward O. Lee of Berkeley and Winifred H. Lancaster of Santa Barbara were grounded by fog at airports and only eight trustees showed up, three short of the quorum.

The proposed budget must be presented to the state budget director early next year and a spokesman for the trustees said their approval could be expected at the next meeting, Nov. 27-28.

The largest single proposed increase, $15,265,157, or 3.4 per cent, is in program changes, including plans to upgrade the instructional administration.

More than $2.5 million is proposed for the hiring of 102 associate deans and 51 clerical employees "for improvement of administration at the 121 schools and divisions on the 19 campuses."

"The complexity of administration and the growth of the university has created a burden on the instructional administration and especially the deans," said Louis Messner, chief of budget planning. "We are juggling to relieve some of that burden."

PAUL SAMUELSON
Foresees 'stagflation'

PG&E Takes Hiring Lead For Women, Minorities

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pacific Gas and Electric Co., yesterday became the first major United States public utility to voluntarily agree to hire and upgrade women and minority employes.

PG&E said it would implement a year-long program under a pact signed with the U. S. Equal Opportunity Commission.

Under the agreement, the utility would take steps to recruit women and minorities in all its managerial, physical and technical job classifications.

PG&E presently employs 26,690 persons in Northern and Central California, of whom 5,068 or 19 per cent are minorities and 3,000 are women.

"We are talking to a number of other employers in the hopes they will follow the PG&E lead," said Frank Quinn, regional director for the EOC. "The voluntary agreement is an important avenue to be used by employers and federal government agencies."

Under the agreement, PG&E will provide wage adjustment for many of the women who successfully transfer from clerical to physical or craft jobs and special emphasis would be put on hiring those of Asian ancestry into physical jobs.

Economist Warns Of Recession

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Paul A. Samuelson, Nobel prize winning economist, said today the nation faces "stagflation" — a combination of further inflation and economic stagnation — in 1974.

Samuelson told Congress' Joint Economic Committee that the possibility of fullscale recession in 1974 could not be dismissed.

Another witness, Paul W. McCracken, formerly chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, disagreed. He said a recession was unlikely.

McCracken, now with the University of Michigan, said however that the university's well-known survey of consumer sentiment had picked up a "sour, sullen attitude" among consumers about economic prospects.

Samuelson foresaw "stagflation" because he said:

Economic growth "will be less than the 4 per cent needed to keep unemployment from rising as a result of growing population and overall productivity."

The consensus among a dozen bank, business and university forecasts is for prices to continue an inflationary climb at a rate of more than 4 per cent in 1974.

McCracken doubted there would be a 1974 recession because of relatively low inventories and the "large unexploited export markets" for American products.

"What is more likely is a period of sluggish growth, but the U. S. economy in 1974 will (nonetheless) employ more people and generate more real purchasing power and output than in 1973," McCracken testified.

On the other hand, Samuelson said:

"Although the bulk of expert opinion is still against this, the American economy might face in 1974 a full-fledged recession."

Labor leaders meeting in Miami Beach also contended that administration policies had created the threat of a recession next year.

Following up the AFL-CIO executive council's criticism yesterday, President Joseph A. Beirne of the Communications Workers union said today the Cost of Living Council should be disbanded.

BEEF IS substituted for the traditional veal in this quick cooking Italian dish. Beef Piccata is a fine entree for company or as a casual meal.

Beef Piccata Good Enough For Guests And Quick To Prepare

The recent drop in the retail price of beef is good news and once again beef is in plentiful supply in markets everywhere.

For entertaining, here is an interesting new recipe. Beef Piccata, California style, is a modified version of the classic Italian veal entree. Traditionally the dish is made with veal, but the supply of veal is limited and the price is costly.

This recipe is a quickie — unlike so many Italian dishes which have a long list of ingredients or a sauce that requires hours to cook.

This piccata is made with thinly sliced beef eye of round. Some markets feature sliced eye of round as a regular item. If your market doesn't, buy the amount you need by the piece and slice it yourself. One suggestion is to partially freeze the beef and slice with a very sharp knife. This lean, meaty section of beef bottom round is a solid muscle with no bone.

Thin beef slices cook very quickly — in fact, overcooking will toughen the fibers. The lemon sauce giving it the piquant flavor is a maitre d' sauce done in the same skillet in which the steaks were cooked. This famous sauce is simply melted butter, lemon juice and parsley. Pass lemon wedges for those who may wish a sharper accent.

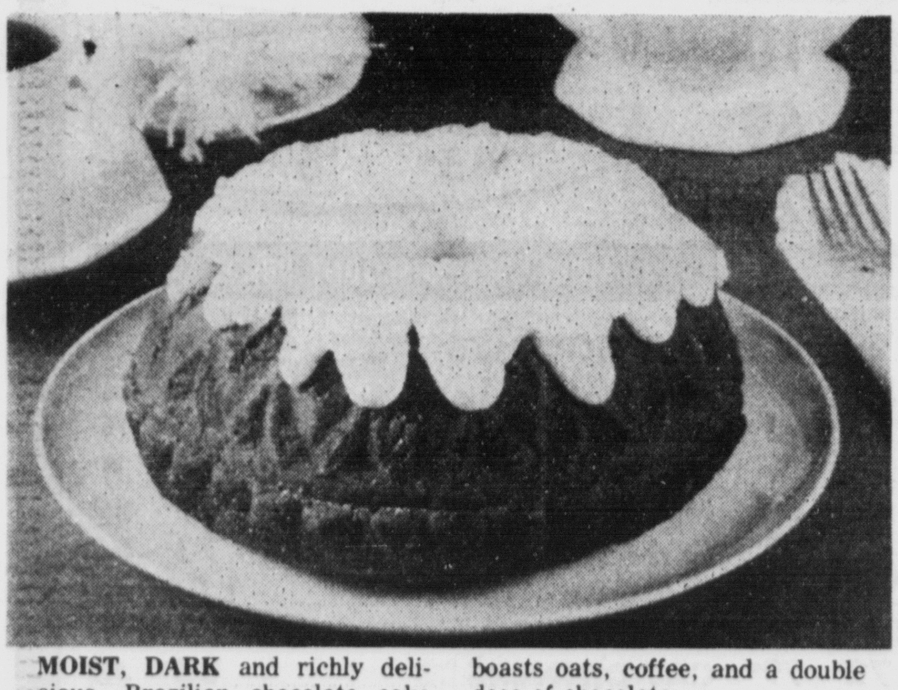

Beef piccata with small browned potatoes and sauteed zucchini makes an easy enjoyable meal to serve festively or casually.

BEEF PICCATA

4 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 to 3 tablespoons olive oil
¼ cup butter
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons minced parsley
Parsley sprigs
Lemon wedges

Have butcher slice beef very thinly if possible. To slice it yourself, partially freeze beef before slicing. Pound slices between pieces of waxed paper or plastic wrap until flattened. Dip into flour mixed with salt and pepper. Heat small amount of olive oil in skillet over high heat. Fry beef briefly on each side in skillet, just until browned. Add small amounts of remaining olive oil to pan as it dries out. Transfer browned beef to plate and keep warm. Add butter to skillet. Quickly heat to melt and scrape drippings from bottom of pan. Stir in lemon juice and parsley. Pour over beef. Garnish with parsley sprigs and lemon wedges. Makes four servings.

Recipe can be prepared ahead of time. Brown beef, transfer to plate, cover with foil and place in 175 degree oven for up to ½ hour. Complete sauce and pour over beef just before serving. To hold beef for 1 hour, allow it to cool then reheat quickly in 400 degree oven just before serving. Prepare sauce just before serving.

Coffee, Chocolate, Oats—A Real Winner

When you add strong hot coffee to quick or old fashioned oats, then combine with a rich chocolatey batter, Brazilian chocolate cake is well on its way. But chocolate-lovers will rejoice in its double dose of chocolate — the semi-sweet bits you add last of all.

Bake in an elegant turbon mold, spread with a favorite butter cream frosting, and you have the most handsome, moist, richly delicious cake you have tasted in many a moon. Note: It will taste every bit as good when baked in a 9-inch square pan.

And why not? It contains so many of our favorite ingredients — quick or old fashioned oats for instance. This whole [illegible] cereal has been starring at breakfast for generations, and prize-winning cake-bakers have been using it almost as long. They appreciate its hearty, nut-like flavor, its unique texture. (Oats, because of that whole grain goodness, make cakes of real substance.) Few know about their keeping qualities, however — they never last long enough.

Serve Brazilian chocolate cake as the festive finale to a company meal, or let it end a simple family supper with a flourish. Anytime, anywhere — it's sheer delight.

BRAZILIAN CHOCOLATE CAKE

Makes 12 servings

1¼ cups hot coffee
1 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
½ cup butter or margarine
1½ cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
2 oz. (2 sq.) unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate pieces

For cake, pour hot coffee over oats. Stir, cover and let stand 20 minutes. Beat butter until creamy. Gradually add sugar, beating until fluffy. Blend in vanilla, eggs and melted chocolate. Add oats mixture; mix well. Sift together flour, soda and salt; add to creamed mixture, mixing well. Stir in semi-sweet chocolate pieces.

Pour batter into well-greased and floured nine-cup turban mold. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degree F.) 50 to 55 minutes. Cool 10 minutes. Loosen edges and remove from mold. Cool. Frost with butter cream frosting. Sprinkle with additional semisweet chocolate pieces, if desired.

SAMPLES FOR PARTY

Tea-Time Sweets From Travelers' Notebooks

Foreign tea-time sweets will be served by League of Women Voters members tomorrow at their public International Coffee and Tea Tasting Party.

International refreshments and music to celebrate United Nations Day will be the fare from 2 to 4 p.m. at Whitaker Hall of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Belvedere.

Costumed members will serve delicacies made from recipes gathered during four members' foreign travels.

League president Mrs. Herbert Edger of Tiburon recommends Pithiviers Fondant, named for a town near Orleans, France. She learned to make it while a Franco-American Women's Club member during 1963 and 1964 when her husband, then a colonel, served as hospital commander for American Army Hospital in France.

Wife of a foreign service officer, Mrs. J. Alfred LaFreniere of Tiburon, provides Brandy Snaps and Irish Almond recipes gathered during 27 years of travel. With dining experience in such places as Brazil, Mozambique, Belgium and the Bahamas, she concludes that "British and Irish cooking can hold its own; poor reports to the contrary, many British and Irish dishes are superb."

A typical dessert of India, Germukh Sarkaria's birthplace, is suggested by his wife who recalls the variety of tea-time sweets she enjoyed while in Delhi during 1954 and 1955 while her husband worked as an engineer on the Dhakra Dam. They live in Tiburon.

Nusstart, a favorite in Germany, Austria and as far east as Yugoslavia, is contributed by a native of Munich, Mrs. Nicholas Stroh of Kentfield.

PITHIVIERS FONDANT

1 cup finely ground almonds
1 cup sugar
¾ cup butter
4 eggs
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon rum or kirsch
Icing:
1 cup confectioners sugar
1 unbeaten egg white
glazed fruit

Mix almonds with sugar and melted butter. Beat well and add beaten eggs, one at a time. Add the flour and flavoring. Empty into a shallow buttered form and bake in a moderate oven, about 350-degrees, until firm. Cook before unmolding.

This may be prepared ahead with the icing added at the last moment. Combine the confectioners sugar and 1 unbeaten egg white and spread gently. Decorate as desired with glazed fruit.

BRANDY SNAPS FROM ENGLAND

½ cup molasses (or ¼ cup Karo and ¼ cup molasses)
½ cup butter
⅔ cup sugar
1 cup flour
1 pinch salt
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 or 3 drops vanilla

These delicate cookie wafers are best baked on Teflon or the back of a baking pan. They can be made small for a tea treat or larger for filling with whipped cream as directed. Makes three dozen.

Heat butter, sugar and molasses over a low flame or burner, until the butter has melted and the sugar dissolves. Then leave to cool slightly while sifting the flour with the ginger and salt. Combine, stirring well and adding lemon juice and vanilla.

Place about half teaspoon of the dough on a well-buttered cookie sheet, making sure each cookie is at least four inches from its neighbor. Bake for eight minutes in a 325-degree oven.

Leave cookies to cool for two to three minutes before removing. If the filled variety is desired, turn each cookie over so it rolls around a spoon handle forming a tube. Store in an air-tight container until ready to serve filled with whipped cream.

IRISH ALMOND SHORTBREAD

1 cup butter
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1⅓ cups sifted cake flour
¾ cup blanched almonds
1½ tablespoons extra sugar to be used separately

Cream butter and sugar. Add egg and beat until fluffy. Fold in the flour. Grease a 10-by-14-inch cookie sheet. Spread mixture evenly and thinly over the entire sheet. Sliver the blanched almonds and mix with the extra sugar before scattering loosely over the dough.

Bake at 300-degrees until pale gold, about 30 minutes. When done, cut into squares, but leave on cookie sheet to cool before removing.

GULABJAMON INDIAN SWEET

1⅓ cups of Cream of Wheat
2 cups powdered milk
¼ cup melted butter
½ cup ground almonds
3 eggs
½ cup yogurt
fat for deep frying syrup:
4½ cups sugar
1 quart water
1 teaspoon rose-water

Begin by starting to boil the sugar, water and rose-water together. When a thick syrup has formed, put on low heat to keep slightly warm; do not allow to get cold.

Combine all the other ingredients except the fat in a bowl and make a thick dough by stirring and using hands. Roll three-inch sections of dough to form balls. Heat enough fat to allow balls to be deep fried until golden in color. While the balls are still warm, drop into the warm syrup and allow to absorb the syrup for several minutes. Remove with spoon and set on serving plate.

The syrup may be eliminated and powdered sugar substituted; if so, then roll the slightly warm balls in powdered sugar before placing on the serving plate.

NUSSTART GERMAN WALNUT CAKE

6 eggs, separated
¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons of sugar kept separate
2 cups of ground walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ pint whipping cream

This extremely rich dessert is best served in small slices or as the final touch to a light dinner.

Beat egg yolks until lemon colored before adding three-fourths cup sugar very gradually. Stir until the egg and sugar mixture is thick enough to form a ribbon. Add vanilla.

Beat the egg whites until soft peaks form and then add the two tablespoons of sugar. Continue to beat until stiff.

Stir in small portions of the egg white into the egg yolk mixture until it lightens in color. Then fold in the remaining egg whites and the ground walnuts, carefully alternating between the two ingredients.

Bake in a greased nine-inch spring form pan at 325 degrees for an hour or until the cake shrinks from pan's edges. The cake will be moist at the sides and may sink in the middle. Remedy the loss of beauty by covering the top with whipped cream.

October — Month For Pumpkins

October is the month for pumpkins. The U.S. Department of Agriculture says good quality pumpkins should be well matured, not broken or cracked, and have a rich orange color.

Many pumpkins are used for making jack-o'-lanterns at Halloween time. Pumpkins are not generally served as a vegetable because of their somewhat coarse and strongly flavored flesh.

When boiled or mashed, however, they are a tasty ingredient in pies, puddings, and breads.

Broccoli Is Top Favorite Frozen Food

Broccoli continues to be one of the most popular frozen vegetables. And no wonder, for broccoli is colorful and full of flavor and vitamins A and C.

There are also several styles to choose from — whole spears or stalks, short spears or florets (the head with a short portion of the stalk), broccoli cuts or pieces, and chopped broccoli (the most economical style).

When buying frozen broccoli, look for the U.S. Department of Agriculture grade shield on the package. This means that the broccoli has been inspected for quality under USDA continuous inspection.

TOP-GRADE broccoli — U.S. Grade A or fancy — has a bright green color, sometimes with a purplish cast. Federal inspectors look for short individual floret stems and tight heads or bud clusters that are not beginning to spread open with maturity.

In addition, the grade shield means that the broccoli has been tested for a mild, sweet flavor and that each stalk is practically free from defects.

Grade B is the other quality level available. Grade B frozen broccoli may have slightly spread bud clusters, but it is still of good quality and costs a little less than Grade A. Both Grades A and B frozen broccoli are well-trimmed, with the large leaves removed, to present an attractive, tasty product for the consumer to buy and prepare.

Broccoli, a colorful complement to any meal or buffet table, can be prepared in a number of ways. Try topping frozen broccoli spears with a tart hollandaise sauce or accent a festive souffle with chopped broccoli.

FOR A quick supper, combine any style of frozen broccoli with canned tuna and cream of mushroom soup. Top with potato chip crumbs and bake for half an hour and you have a new twist for tuna fish casserole.

Frozen broccoli, bought and prepared in any of its various styles, is a popular and delicious way to serve a bounty of vitamins.

BROCCOLI CON PROSCIUTTO

2 10-oz. packages frozen broccoli spears
2 tablespoons olive oil or butter
1 clove garlic, split
½ cup diced prosciutto or boiled ham
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper

Cook broccoli according to package directions; drain, saving the liquid. Heat oil or butter and garlic in a nine-inch skillet. Add broccoli and saute two minutes. Add a little of the cooking liquid if the pan get too dry. Add ham and cook slowly until hot. Serve at once, sprinkled with Parmesan cheese and black pepper. Makes six servings.

Economical Approach To Chicken

This easy and attractive chicken bake is economical, too. The mayonnaise used in breading the chicken gives it wonderful color and a taste teasing flavor.

Elegant sauce supreme is perfectly seasoned, for the chicken and tangy cling peach slices add that wonderful freshness and texture change that really places this among top chicken recipes.

BAKED CHICKEN WITH SAUCE SUPREME

1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 fryer-broiler chicken (3 pounds) cut up
½ cup mayonnaise

Sauce:
2 tblspn. butter
2 tblspn. flour
1 tsp. chicken stock base
¼ cup dry white wine or peach syrup
1 can (3 ounce) mushrooms
1 cup light cream
1 can (16 ounce) cling peach slices

Combine bread crumbs with salt and pepper. With a pastry brush, generously spread chicken pieces with mayonnaise. Roll in bread crumbs. Place chicken pieces on a shallow baking pan in a single layer. Bake in 375 degrees (moderately hot) oven 50 minutes or until tender.

Sauce: Melt butter in skillet. Stir in flour and chicken stock base. Gradually stir in wine, mushroom liquid and cream. Cook and stir until thickened. Add mushrooms and drained peach slices. Serve hot over baked chicken.

Makes four servings.

Removal Of Fat

When the fat is removed from milk, the calories are reduced significantly. One cup (eight fluid ounces) whole milk supplies 160 calories, while one cup nonfat (skim) milk supplies 90 calories. The amount of nutrients are comparable except for Vitamin A, most of which is lost along with the removal of the fat.

Some Hints On Starting Sproutings From Scratch

The pastime of sprouting is burgeoning across the country. Visually appealing and culinarily satisfying, sprouts are nutritious and lend a home-grown touch to a variety of dishes.

A case of food poisoning can take all the fun out of growing your own sprouts though. To avoid any chance of this happening, do not use treated seed for sprouting.

Field seed is often treated with a fungicide to ward off diseases. The chemicals used are poisonous to fungi and also to humans. Seeds that have been treated are usually identifiable. They are dyed red, dark pink, or a color to contrast with the normal coloration of the seed.

The Federal Seed Act, enforced by the Agricultural Marketing Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, requires labeling of treated seed, as do seed laws of each state. So, there is little chance that treated seed will be mistakenly used for sprouting provided two basic rules are followed: don't sprout seed that is intended for field seed use; and, look at the label on the seed package.

If you see "Treated with Poison" with a skull and crossbones, or "Do Not Use for Food, Feed, or Oil Purposes" on the label, avoid it. The seeds may cause serious illness or be fatal if sprouted and eaten.

With these simple precautions in mind, sprouting can be enjoyable and nutritious for you and your family.

AND SO ARE BIG BANDS

Dancing Making Comeback

Marin Women

By JOAN LISETOR

Bandleader Sal Carson has seen the big band sound come and go in his 37 years as a band leader.

"Dancing is popular now. People want to dance because they have been deprived of good music for so long," Carson said during lunch in a Larkspur restaurant. "People applaud the band after a dance like they used to."

Carson was in Marin to make plans for a dance to feature his band on Nov. 2 at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building. Carson's 18 piece orchestra will play music of Glenn Miller, Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey, Benny Goodman and others from the era "when band leaders were like stars" as a benefit for the Marin Hearing and Speech Center at Marin General Hospital.

Carson, a native of San Francisco, formed his first band when he was 13 and a student at Claremont Junior High School in Oakland. He had bands during his school years and until joining the Army Air Corps during World War II. During the war he put together a band comprised of service men returning from overseas.

BUT THE END of the war signaled the end of a big band era.

"After the war people weren't dancing. Bands disbanded, and musicians became teachers," Carson said.

He kept an 11 or 12 piece band together for 20 years, playing at Hoberg's resort in Lake County until 1967.

He is one of the few band leaders to work steadily during those years, but it was mostly in concert or as background music. It all changed in the summer of 1956, Carson said.

"I was playing Las Vegas when Elvis Presley made his debut. He introduced a new kind of rock and got the kids dancing again," he said.

Much rock music of the early days was bad, Carson said, and only in the past few years with bands like Chicago and Blood, Sweat and Tears have kids been educated to good sounds.

BANDLEADER SAL Carson believes the big band sound is popular because people have been deprived of good music for so long. Carson will bring his 18-piece band to the Marin Veterans Memorial Building Nov. 2 because "people want to dance."

"Ninety per cent of the music business was rock until 1972, and rock has declined 75 per cent in the last year," the band leader said.

"PEOPLE DANCE if they hear good music, and kids now have the opportunity to hear quality music on television and in old movies. Being exposed to better music after years of only hearing rock has made them appreciate it."

Carson pointed to a group of women, mostly in their 40s and 50s, sitting in the restaurant.

"Those women over there want to dance to a big dance band. What they like is it takes them back to their school days," he said.

The exception is a small segment of the population who graduated from high school in the mid 50s who do not enjoy dancing because there was little new, danceable music coming out during that time, he said.

In the past year Carson said he has more requests for a 15 plus band than in the past five years combined. He has put together 30 new arrangements in the past year, updating the music to be more lively.

When he plays in San Francisco hotels he attracts crowds of more than 1,000.

"THE PEOPLE are coming to dance now, not just to hear us play," he said.

The band ends an engagement at the Top of the Wheel at Harvey's Hotel at Lake Tahoe the day before the Marin dance.

Carson isn't predicting how long this era will last.

"I'm just doing all I can to promote it," he said.

Fall And Winter Fashions Can Be Fatal, Accident Statistics Show

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) —Dressed to kill is the way safety experts size up some of fall and winter's fashion trends.

Consider the popularity of the long scarves featured as accessories for dresses, suits and coats, and also in some men's wear. They're handsome and they're warm. But they're also potential killers, says the National Safety Council.

Last year, it says, a study in the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA) reported that nearly half of the persons in accidents involved with the wearing of scarves were fatalities.

THE JOURNAL said that all of the accidents studied had occurred in the winter when the scarves got tangled in machinery. Nine of the 11 victims mentioned were females between the ages of 10 and 30.

There's the classic case of Isadora Duncan, the dance revolutionary, who was strangled in the 1920s when her long scarf became caught in the rear wheel of the open automobile in which she was riding.

Any woman who's ever negotiated a stole and assorted packages through a revolving door knows how unfashionable the whole thing becomes. Watching the mod in the maxicoat board or debark from a bus is material for the cartoonist. Also, a concern on the part of safety people.

The safety council says that the midi and maxicoats and capes may keep out the cold but they're also prone to catch on escalators, in revolving doors, elevators or vehicle doors.

Ponchos and shawls also can catch easily. The council reports one case in Mexico City when a woman, trying to board a bus, was killed when her shawl caught in the door as the vehicle pulled away.

Slacks or long skirts should have proper length and fit for safety's sake. Bell-bottoms, baggies and the new, full swinging skirts can be the trap that trips you for a fall.

If you wear bell-bottoms or full length skirts when driving, hoist them so the hems don't get caught in the pedals or on your feet.

The safety council offers these additional suggestions about selection of clothing for the coming season when there is less freedom in attire:

Winter driving requires precise handling control of a car. If you wear mittens to drive, you're endangering yourself and passengers. Driving gloves with fingers and leather palms are recommended.

Headgear should not block hearing or sight. Covering a child's face with bulky hats and too many mufflers may prevent him from hearing and seeing traffic dangers.

Cold weather brings a tragic increase in the number of flammable fabrics burn cases, especially among children and the elderly. Buy flame retardant sleepwear and warn family members to avoid getting too close to heaters, fireplaces, stoves, et cetera.

Be Sure Before Taking On Duties

NEW YORK (UPI) — Before signing anything make sure you understand what you are getting into. Janet Wilson, extension consumer education specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, says if there are any parts you do not understand, ask questions until all sections are clear to you.

If necessary, contact a lawyer, friend or businessman who may be capable of helping you clear up some foggy points.

Ann Morrison Is Wed To Dr. Loughty

Ann Morrison of Belvedere became the bride of Dr. William C. Loughty of Akron, Ohio, at an evening ceremony at the home of her parents on Friday.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Morrison of San Rafael. Ann, who attended Bennett Junior College and the College of Marin, was graduated from California State University, San Francisco. She has been a teacher in Marin.

The bridegroom, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Loughty of Akron, is a physician and chief of surgery at Akron City Hospital.

Family members and close friends attended the wedding.

The couple will live in Akron.

The four choices: a new Blue Cross-sponsored prepaid group practice program, a county foundation for medical care, a government-funded Rochester Health Network, and traditional Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Daughter Doesn't Know What To Do About A Horrid Mother

DEAR HELEN:

I've been afflicted with a horrible problem all my life — my mother. She has always been jealous, selfish, lazy, hateful, spoiled, filthy and vulgar — and age makes her worse. She is now over 70. She and my stepfather (a good man who doesn't have a chance against her) live next door in such filth as you wouldn't believe.

My sisters and I have tried to clean things up, but my mother is personally slovenly. She smells so bad we can't get near her and she attacks us if we try. She refuses to be taken to a rest home, but says that when her ailing husband dies, we must "do our duty" and bring her into our homes.

She has always intimidated me. While I was growing up, she'd beat me with fists, a broom, anything, then dare me to tell my father, saying she'd give me twice as bad if I did. Twice, at least, she tried to kill me, once by choking, another time with an iron. She may have succeeded with my brother — he died at five under mysterious circumstances.

I was terrified of her, and so nervous I'd sob in school. Also, her dirty habits even in those days, made me sick. She'd blow her nose on her dress or a dish towel, would never clean house or herself. How I survived those sickening days and became a successful wife and mother I'll never know.

But somehow, my mother has a terrible hold on my sisters and me. Perhaps because we can't help hating her, we feel guilty, thus responsible. Her terrible temper is still encugh to turn me cold and shaking. When she commands, I still obey like a frightened child.

Now she says it's our duty to take care of her in her old age, but she never took care of us. Must we keep on ruining our nerves over someone who should be institutionalized? — DAUGHTER OF A MONSTER

DEAR D.M.:

Since you evidently can't make a rational decision — hate, guilt over hating, and leftover childhood fears make this impossible — I'd suggest you hold a family conference with your doctor sitting in. If the consensus is that your mother is dangerous to herself and others, then get help for her and her ailing husband, either via a live-in nurse, or by putting her into a private institution. (I gather you can afford this, with the help of Medicare.)

Don't, repeat don't "atone" by bringing her into your home.

Why you've remained next door to her all these years is something only a psychiatrist could explain. And perhaps it will take a psychiatrist, finally, to snap you out of your masochism. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

"Msfortunate" who belly-aches, "My husband owns me by law . . . I've been compelled to take his name, his credit rating, his insulting remarks . . ." is advertising the fact that she used "mserable" judgment in choosing a mate!

Some people pay more attention to their dog's pedigree, or the expected performance of a new car, than they do to the background and characteristics of the persons they promise to share their lives with.

Granted, people put on good fronts that are hard to see through, but usually it is not difficult, with observation and a dash of sense, to discover the real person behind the rosy glow of a new love.

Any woman who finds after marriage that her husband is a tightwad, a dictator, a mama's boy, a child-hater, etc. was just plain stupid when she married. That goes for men, about wives, too.

A training course in marriage should be as mandatory as a blood test. If we must pass an exam before being licensed to drive, why not an exam for license to marry? — ALICE M.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? A fun idea? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, care of the Independent-Journal.

HALLOWEEN IS just as much fun and far safer if children wear painted faces of makeup instead of masks, reminds the National Safety Council. Masks can impair vision, hiding traffic hazards, stairs and lawn sprinklers. These faces were created with white pancake makeup base, eye shadow, pencil, rouge and imagination.

Make-Up Masks Help Little Eyes Keep Track Of Halloween Hazards

CHICAGO — Halloween masks hide more than identity. They also can hide oncoming cars and other Halloween hazards from little eyes. The National Safety Council says a successful costume and a successful "Beggar's Night" are best served with a little make-up magic.

"Too many children have been killed or maimed because a mask blocked their vision. Stairs, yards, curbs — all become a problem when the child is wearing a mask that restricts sight," said NSC home economist Sharon Wildermuth.

"A painted face is the best solution to the problem. Each child will look individual and make-up is much more comfortable and cooler than a mask, too," she points out. "Always be sure to apply a layer of cold cream first so the clean-up job is just as pleasurable as the application session."

LIPSTICK, LIQUID base, pancake, powder, blusher, eye pencil, liner and shadow — if applied with a dollop of imagination, can give your child a pretty or terrible face. Let him or her make the choice.

Need to convince your child that make-up can be just as scary as a mask? Using a blusher brush, apply green or blue eye shadow to your child's face. With eyebrow pencil paint in triangular eyebrows, brow lines, scales, scars, and lines around the lips and eyes. Darken the room, give him a flashlight to stick under his chin — and presto — instant ghoul, ghost or witch! The ever popular hobo and clown faces are just as easy to create.

The hobo look can be achieved by covering the face with white pancake make-up. Next have the child look up at his hair and use the natural line of his brows as a guide to pencil in the arched hobo eyes. Again, with pencil put little triangles or teardrops under the eyes. For a ragged-looking beard, use a coarse sponge to tap on gray or dark brown cream style eye shadow. Use a bright lipstick to paint a big, sad frown-mouth and to cover the nose for that desired forlorn appearance.

"BE A clown" comes easy, because the same materials and same make-up principles used on the hobo are applied to the clown. White the face, arch the eyebrows and paint on a large, smiling mouth. Pencil in solid triangles above and below the eyes, put colorful eyeshadow in the crease of the eye and create crow's feet radiating from the eye area. Lipstick a large red dot on the nose.

"Contacting the person responsible for make-up in your community little theater group as a speaker for your P-TA or women's group is an ideal and painless way for mothers to get expert help in creating false faces for their small fry," said Mrs. Wildermuth. It also is a good idea to draw the face you want on paper before attempting it directly on the child's face, so that mistakes are avoided and the child does not get fidgety.

"Give your child a head start on safety this year. Make sure he faces up to Halloween in make-up instead of a mask. It's one way to make sure that danger doesn't trick your child this Halloween," advises the NSC home economist.

Former Actress Now Runs Own Successful Company

NEW YORK (UPI) — When Joan Kenley, former actress, switched careers she simply changed stages and scenery.

Now, at 32 years, she is president of a company which specializes in production of trade shows, planning sales meetings and conventions, and literally all areas involving communications in industry.

Miss Kenley, who's a lovely blue-eyed blonde from Bucyrus, Ohio, is in a career rare among women but says the field "is more open to us than people realize."

"My job takes the same common sense and good taste that goes into furnishing a home," she said in an interview, "If there's clutter in your home, there'll be clutter in your mind on the job."

"I was very dedicated to acting," she said. "My money went for clothes, dancing lessons, other training . . . but the salary was unsteady.

"I decided I'd better get out so I could be part of the everyday world."

Four years ago she started SHOWCOM, for Show Communications, Inc., drawing on her acting experience and her bachelor's degree in fine arts from Denison University, Granville, Ohio, to produce trade shows.

A little more than a year ago, she merged her company with Universal Communications, Inc., where she is a vice-president. She continues as president of the subsidiary firm.

"I suppose it's the feminine part of me," said the businesswoman. "But I wanted to turn some of the corporate matters over to someone else. Things like bookkeeping and accounting don't interest me. I'm more the idea person . . . the dreamer."

Renewal In Skirts

Just when she's won the freedom to wear pants in almost every kind of office, guess what? America's working gals are starting to show renewed interest in dresses and skirts.

She's dreamed up in her quick and successful career marketing and merchandising programs for such corporation giants as Allied Chemical, Armstrong Cork, Carrier, First National City Bank, and Dow Corning.

One of her presentations for Johns-Manville will be featured at the home builders show in Houston in January and she's working also on a Christmas sales presentation for Somerset Importers.

Fees she gets run into the thousands, with about $125,000 the top so far.

Miss Kenley, daughter of a surgeon, studied piano from the age of seven and voice from her teens. She was active in little theater from age 14.

Her credits eventually included television and film, summer stock, a six week stint with Ethel Merman in the musical comedy "Call Me Madam" and guest spots on the Jackie Gleason show.

Her acting led her at times into the role of spokeswoman at trade shows, selecting talent for presentations and finally into total production.

"I would be kidding myself if I didn't admit that being a woman has helped me in this business," she said. "But in a few years, as more and more women move into executive positions, I don't think this will necessarily be the case.

"Let's face it, the creative kind of work I do transcends sexual roles."

Her feeling about the women's liberation movement is that "women should get equal pay for equal effort. How the cause often is presented, though, disturbs me . . . I think it has alienated men.

"Use of the title Ms doesn't offend me. But I prefer Miss. I like for single men to know that I'm single."

IRS Forms Suggested With Student Loan Applications

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — All applications for financial aid by students in the California college system should be accompanied by Internal Revenue tax forms to verify income, it was recommended yesterday.

The Special Subcommittee on Financial Aid, headed by Elmer B. Cooper, also told the California Assembly Ways and Means Committee that there should be more use of standard forms, annual evaluation and review of financial aid programs, and more widespread use of computers.

Cooper's subcommittee made its recoomendations to the committee, chaired by Assemblyman Willie Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, at a hearing here.

The report found administration of financial aid programs at state supported schools to be adequate in general but gave five examples of badly managed programs.

These were San Francisco State, Sonoma State, UCLA, Merritt College and Long Beach City College.

Examples of effectively administered programs were Fresno State, San Jose State, University of California at San Diego, Sacramento City College and Pasadena City College.

"All applications for financial aid should be required to be accompanied by a 1040 income tax form to verify the students' and parents' income," the report recommended.

"This should start with the 1974-75 program application year and should be mandatory in all three state systems."

The report noted that in only a few cases presently are 1040 income tax forms for parents or students required to confirm income for the purpose of receiving financial aid. It also noted that in the cases of students, the least amount of abuses seem to have occurred with lower income students "mainly because lower income students usually overstate their family income whereas middle income students usually understate their family income."

Most Played Tune

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Broadcast Music Inc. yesterday said the most played country music song for the year ending March 31 was "Happiest Girl in the Whole U.S.A."

57,908 Acres Are Added To The Grape List

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Fresh grapevines were planted on 57,908 new acres of California land this year, bringing the total grape acreage in the state to 611,470, the Food and Agriculture Department reports.

The 57,908 new acres were slightly down from the 58,515 acres freshly planted last year, the department's crop and livestock reporting service said yesterday.

A survey indicated that of the total 611,470 acres, table grapes accounted for 70,939 acres, raisin grapes for 248,163, wine grapes reached 288,717 and rootstock 3,651.

Cabernet Sauvignon was the leading variety planted in 1973 with 6,106 new acres. Next came rubired with 4,406 acres, Zinfandel with 3,479 acres, Petite Sirah with 3,262 and Thompson Seedless with 3,165.

Union Sees A Slowdown In Economy

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) —The nation's economy is heading into a sharp slowdown and a possible recession, but inflation will continue at least into early 1974 unless the present trend is reversed, according to top labor leaders.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council laid the blame for the ills of the economy on the policies of the White House and called for an immediate end to what it termed the administration's inequitable economic controls.

The council presented its analysis of the economy in a report yesterday to the AFL-CIO convention.

The council proposed a 13-point program that included closing tax loopholes, expansion of money and credit at reduced interest rates, job creation programs, export controls on agricultural and other raw materials in short supply and increases in the buying power of wages.

Disaster Oats

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Complying with a congressional directive, the Agriculture Department today designated 50 million bushels of government owned oats as a "disaster reserve" to be sold at cut rates to farmers hit by droughts, floods or other emergencies.

Citizenship Knotted In Red Tape For Two Years

By REBECCA LARSEN

By many people's standards, Solomon Lieberman seems to be an upstanding citizen. He's lived in the Mill Valley area for 28 years, he's an organizer of the Marin branch of the American Civil Liberties Union and the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts. He's worked with his local parent-teacher association and the scouts.

But in spite of this record, the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service has delayed granting his application for citizenship for two years.

Standing between Lieberman and citizenship is Herbert Philbrick, the FBI undercover Communist hunter of the 1940s and 1950s. Who wrote "I Led Three Lives," basis of a once popular television series.

Philbrick claims that the Swiss-born Lieberman attended 10 to 12 Communist Party meetings in the 1940s.

Lieberman contends that Philbrick's report is an exaggeration based on three brief business meetings he had with the counterspy.

In his home on Lone Tree Road, just off Panoramic Highway, Lieberman, known to his friends as Sali, yesterday described his problems in a rich German accent.

"I want to be a citizen. Everyone knows me here. My life has been devoted to the community. It's an open book. Go to the community and ask from the mayor down to the grocery clerk. This should be the deciding thing."

Lieberman, 61, came to the United States in 1945 with his wife, Jean, who is a citizen. Shortly after his arrival, a relative in Boston introduced him to Philbrick, then a public relations man for a film distribution company, according to Lieberman.

"He was going to help me set up a resume about my film experience in Switzerland," said Lieberman. "to help me get a job in Hollywood."

SOLOMON LIEBERMAN
Citizenship delayed

Lieberman said he visited Philbrick's home and his office about the resume.

"I certainly never went to Communist Party meetings," he said.

In Hollywood, Lieberman could find no work because of strikes against film studios. He then moved to the Mill Valley area and set up an upholstery business which he runs in a shop attached to his home.

Lieberman's first inkling that he would have trouble becoming a citizen came when he applied for naturalization in the 1950s.

"The immigration people asked me hundreds of questions about people I'd never heard of. It was not a good sign."

He did not press the matter until two years ago when he reapplied and his petition was snagged in what seemed to be red tape.

In March he and his Oakland attorney, Doris Walker, went to court and demanded the naturalization.

It was then that immigration authorities revealed that Philbrick had named Lieberman in his reports in the 1940s.

Lieberman has found the hearings with immigration officials painful. "They record what you say on tapes. They ask, 'do you know this person, do you know that person?' — People I never heard of. They question me about my life in Switzerland.

"My god, I say, why don't they find out about me in this country? Did I murder, did I steal?"

Lieberman thinks that another factor working against him is his association with the American Civil Liberties Union, which he helped organize in Marin in the 1950s. He is a former chairman of the Marin Chapter and served 12 years on its board.

He also pointed out that his wife was married in the 1930s to Hermann Field, the brother of a State Department official, Noel Field, who defected to Communist Hungary in the 1940s.

"I want to make it clear though that the government has a complete right to find out what someone is like who applies for citizenship," he said. "That's not what I'm opposed to. I feel persecuted, because I feel that I and my family made a contribution to the community."

Brian Simpson, assistant district director of the Naturalization Service in San Francisco, said that the service "has made no final recommendation yet about Lieberman, although there is information with regard to him that could adversely affect his application."

If the citizenship approval does not come through soon, Lieberman plans to go back to court.

Meanwhile, he is engrossed with the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts which also has its troubles. The theater in the Mill Valley Golf Course Clubhouse is undergoing repairs to make it fire safe. The center is supposed to open with "A Streetcar Named Desire" Friday night, but carpenters and electricians are still tearing up the stage area.

Arms To Israel Plan Seen Safe

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Former Treasury Secretary John Connally said yesterday he foresaw "no problems" with Russia over U.S. arm shipments to Israel. Connally , who said he did not want to comment on foreign policy, said the U.S. action in the Middle East war was balanced politically by Soviet arms shipments to Arabian countries.

He said President Nixon and Dr. Henry Kissinger "are doing all they can and I applaud their efforts." Connally was in Portland to speak to the National Association of Retail Druggists convention.

Holtzman Vs. Mets Matlack Tonight

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Oakland A's circled the wagons last night.

The situation was that grim.

The A's, used to playing in front of empty seats, were pitted against the New York Mets before 54,817 noisy Shea Stadium fans. They were down to 23 players after owner Charley Finley banished his latest victim — Mike Andrews — and they were going against ace Tom Seaver.

But after falling behind 2-0 in the first inning, they pulled together and refused to crack. They hung in there until it was finally the Mets that committed the miscues that gave the A's a 3-2 triumph in 11 innings and a 2-1 lead in the World Series.

"Even if he fired all but nine players," said starting pitcher Jim "Catfish" Hunter, "the last nine would go out there and battle to the end."

The A's will shoot for a 3-1 game lead tonight at 5:30 when they send Ken Holtzman against Jon Matlack in the fourth game of the Series.

The latest Oakland crisis came when Finley, the A's' controversial owner, fired Andrews after his two crucial errors in Sunday's second game loss to the Mets. He tried to place him on the disabled list before he was overruled by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Andrews, who was expected to rejoin the club today, told one of his teammates on the phone that Finley had threatened to ruin him in baseball if he didn't sign a paper saying he was injured.

Andrews' teammates were in an uproar and it carried over to the field. "There was a mental block in the back of my mind," admitted Hunter, who was tagged for two runs in the first inning. "I wasn't concentrating enough on my pitches."

But the A's didn't give up. "We're mature guys. We want that $20,000," said Gene Tenace, who doubled in a run after Sal Bando doubled in the sixth. "It helps us pull together," said Reggie Jackson. "We always win after these incidents."

Bert Campaneris stole a base in the eighth inning and scored on Joe Rudi's single to tie it. Campaneris finally singled in the deciding run off Harry Parker in the 11th after Ted Kubiak took second on a passed ball.

It was the third consecutive game of the Series in which the deciding run has been unearned.

The Met fans, who were so rowdy in the playoffs, were quite subdued during the game and the extra security wasn't needed. No one ran onto the field and there were no disrup-

Emotions Just Part Of Story

Emotion on a football field is needed, but it can't outweigh the importance of preparation, 49er offensive tackle Len Rohde emphasized last night.

Rohde, a very humorous man when he wants to be, was guest speaker at the dinner gathering of the 49er Goal Rushers at New Joe's restaurant in Corte Madera. When the topic of emotions came up, the 248-pound 14-year NFL veteran said the most important thing is study and preparation during the week to know what must be done on Sunday.

LEN ROHDE

"At that point the coach will have to give you that extra two per cent. I think emotion is important, but it doesn't outweigh the other things," he said.

He made a good point in telling the 60 boosters about the differences in ballplayers. Fans sometimes get the idea that the only players "up" for a game are the ones who are cheering and patting the backs of other players, which is exactly what tight end Ted Kwalick and wide receiver Dan Abramowicz do. These fans don't have a chance to see how mentally prepared guard Woody Peoples and cornerback Jimmy Johnson are.

"They're so quiet you don't even know they are there until you look around the huddle and see them," Rohde said. "But they are out there, really zeroed in."

A QUESTIONER ASKED if Rohde regretted not being a defensive lineman rather than an offensive one, since most of the publicity goes to the other side of the line, and Len said no.

"And I played defense my first couple of years in the league," he said. "I played defensive end until the coaches realized that as a defensive end I made a good offensive tackle."

Winning is everything, or so it seems in the National Football League, but there was applause for Rohde and the 49ers last night when someone pointed out that the team played very well and hustled all the way. Apparently head coach Dick Nolan felt the same way.

"Dick Nolan told us he thought that was our best team effort yet," said Rohde. And if you were there, you would have to agree with Len's coach.

When Rohde was asked about the surprise move by Nolan in starting Steve Spurrier at quarterback in place of John Brodie, Len chuckled and said, "Nolan asked me about it Wednesday. You see, he always discusses these things with me to get my approval." Then in a more serious vein, he said no, he wasn't surprised by the announcement just before the game that Spurrier would start.

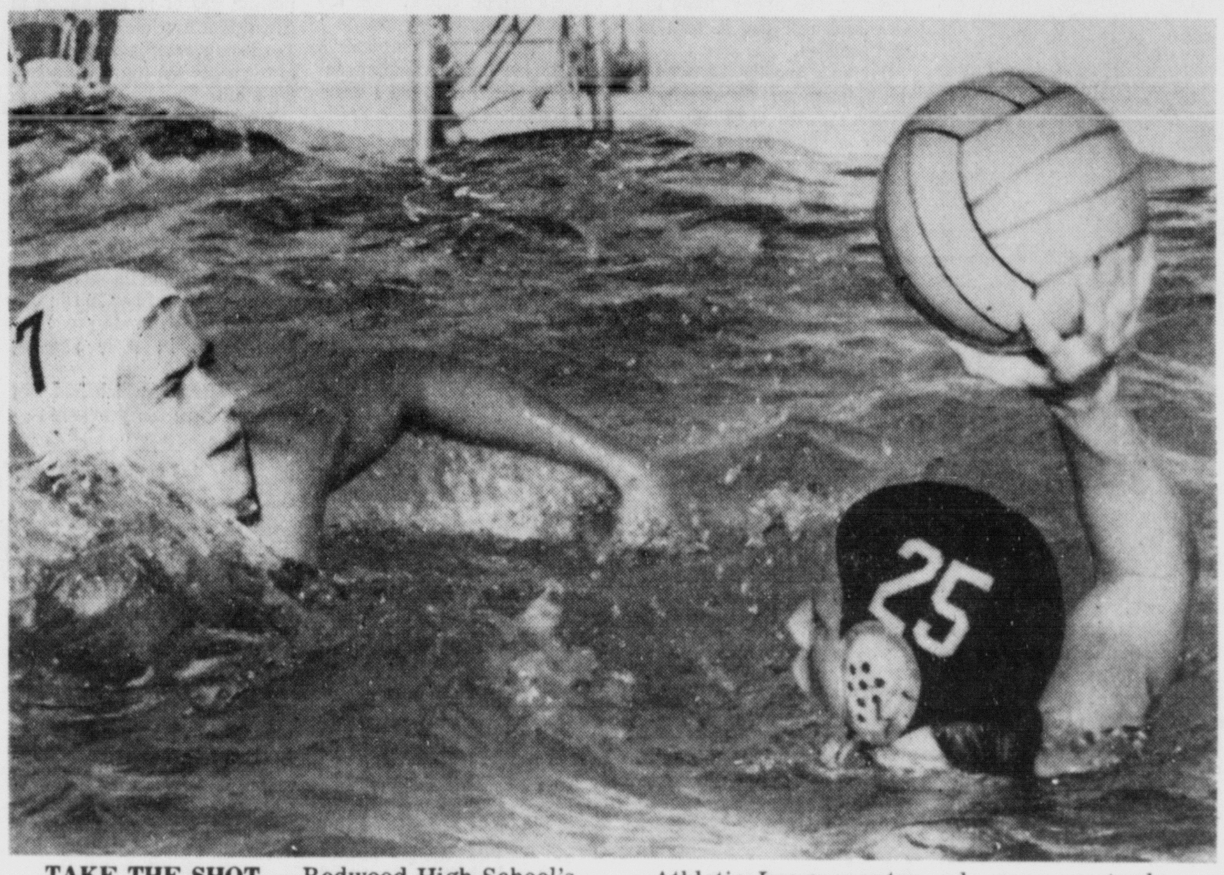

THAT WAS PROBABLY Nolan's best kept secret of the year. It came as a complete shock to the pressbox crew when the starting lineups were announced just before gametime. Nolan said after the game that he had reached the decision to start Spurrier on Thursday. The playrs knew about Nolan's decision but they weren't talking.

Rohde wouldn't take a hard swipe at the officiating in Sunday's 17-13 loss to the Minnesota Vikings when that subject came up. About a controversial touchdown scored by the Vikings in which John Gilliam caught a pass first tipped by Ed Marinaro (which is illegal), Rohde said, "There is no question it was tipped by one of the players, but the official didn't see it. It was a human error. All I can say is sometimes you get a bad deal. There are some lousy calls but you have to go with them."

Rohde has played in 185 straight games for the 49ers, a team record and three shy of the all-time NFL record set by Forest Gregg of the Green Bay Packers.

Len brought along his wife, Beverly, and introduced her to the Goal Rushers and cracked, "She's writing a book called 'Ses and the Offensive Tackle.'"

Watch out, Len. She may have a best seller on her hands.

Redwood Water Polo Team Wins

Redwood High School beat back a furious assault by Terra Linda yesterday to win the confrontation of the Marin County Athletic League's two undefeated water polo powers, 9-7.

In yesterday's other games, host San Rafael beat Tamalpais, 14-3, and visiting Novato topped Drake, 12-7. San Marin drew a bye.

Host Redwood stormed out to a 6-0 halftime lead, but Terra Linda rallied to tie the game at 7-7 in the fourth quarter before Dave Russell and Tom Schindler scored to give the Giants the victory.

Schindler scored five times and Russell three times for Redwood, "and both of them were strong on offense and defense," said coach Dennis Untermann.

Matt Lager got Redwood's other goal. For Terra Linda, Ed Martinez scored four, Tom Olund two and Tom Enright one.

Untermann also praised goalie Craig Schwarberg, saying "he was fantastic — he made so many great plays."

The victory gave Redwood a 6-0 record to Terra Linda's 5-1 at the season's halfway mark. It broke a nine-game Trojan winning streak dating back to last year's second Redwood game.

San Rafael's Jeff Kamler scored five times, and Siggie Baerthel and Dan Peterson added four goals each.

Novato's victory was its first of the year.

NO JOB SECURITY

A's To Wheel And Deal?

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Somebody had better hurry up and snap a picture of the Oakland A's quick because they don't expect to be together much longer.

Last year Charlie Finley got rid of eight of his world champions after they had helped him capture baseball's prime bauble.

He may have been only warming up for the main event this time.

If I had to bet, I'd give you odds Dick Williams will be managing some other ball club, most likely the New York Yankees, next season despite that nice fat new contract he signed recently.

If Reggie Jackson had to bet, he'd bet he'll be with some other ball club also after some of the things he's had to say about the man who runs the A's.

Sal Bando won't be surprised if he's traded this winter. Neither would Gene Tenace, Vida Blue, Blue Moon Odom or Darold Knowles.

Mike Andrews? You gotta be kidding.

He's only coming back to make a brief speech and then he knows he's gone.

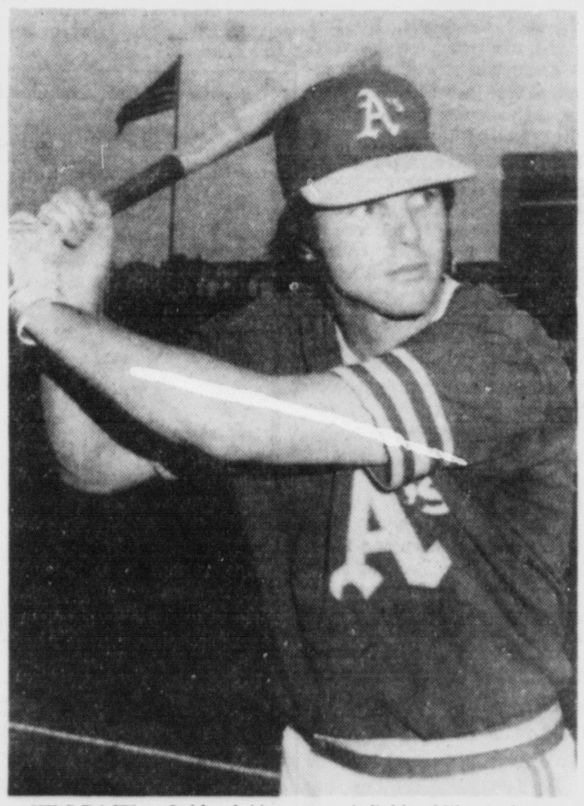

About the only one safe is Allan Lewis, the Panamanian Flyer. Charlie Finley really likes him.

"You don't think I'm a 'marked man?'" asked Jackson, talking about the possibility he may be peddled this year. "After some of the things I've said about him (Finley)? I know he's gonna get me. I told him that before the season even started. I know what he's got in mind for me," says Oakland's No. 1 slugger, whom Finley tried to send back to the minors as recently as two seasons ago. "By the time he gets me though, I'll be financially prepared."

The A's are one of the strangest clubs I've ever seen in baseball.

Here they are only two games away from their second world championship and instead of bubbling over at the prospect, they're flat.

Mostly because of the conditions they work under and the man for whom they work.

HE'S BACK — Oakland A's reserve infielder Mike Andrews sharpens his batting eye for his return to the A's tonight in the fourth game of the World Series. (UPI Telephoto)

Following last night's 3-2 win over the Mets, Sal Bando was saying how good it felt to "show we could win under adversity", meaning in the face of all the controversy about Mike Andrews, when someone broke in and asked him whether he had asked to be traded.

"I didn't say I want to be traded," said Oakland's slugging third baseman. "What I said was I wouldn't look down on it if I was. I'd accept it. Why? For a whole lot of rea-

TRADE LOOMS

Giants' McCovey Is Eyed By Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers would try to trade for slugger Willie McCovey if assured the veteran first baseman's gimpy knees can withstand another two seasons, manager Del Crandall says.

The Brewers reportedly are eyeing McCovey, a San Francisco Giants' star since 1959, as a designated hitter and have no plans to trade their own hard hitting first baseman, George Scott. However, McCovey's contract gives him power to veto any deal involving himself.

McCovey, 35, hit .266 with 29 home runs and 75 runs batted in in only 383 times at bat this past season. Although bothered by knee trouble for several years, McCovey ranks 13th on the major leagues' all-time home run list with 413.

"I feel he will wind up in the American League as a designated hitter, but his knees are a problem," Crandall said yesterday, adding the Brewers would not be deterred by McCovey's reported $100,000 salary.

"A more important consideration would be his knees," Crandall said. "If we could be fairly certain that Willie could play over a two year period, then of course we would try and make a deal."

Crandall, in New York to attend the World Series, was interviewed by Lou Chapman of the Milwaukee Sentinel.

Crandall confirmed the Brewers and Giants have discussed a possible trade. It was believed pitcher Bill Parsons, a major disappointment in 1973, would be part of the package sent to the Giants.

No More Grid Games At Redwood

Redwood High School's football field, which looks and feels like a warped board, will not be used for any more games this season.

Supt. Robert D. Torrey of the Tamalpais High School District inspected the field yesterday and agreed with the claim of Redwood athletic director Al Endriss that the field presently is unsafe for players.

As a result, Redwood's home varsity, junior varsity and freshman football games for the remainder of the year have been moved to other sites. The decision on whether or not physical education classes will continue to use the field will be made today after Torrey consults with the school's department heads, Torrey said.

The varsity football game scheduled with San Marin High Friday has been moved to Tamalpais High Saturday at 2 p.m., Endriss announced. He also said the junior varsity game against San Marin will be played at San Marin Friday at 3:30 p.m., and the freshman clash with Terra Linda will be played at the Trojans' field Saturday at 10 a.m.

Torrey said work crews will begin "this morning" to fill in areas around exposed sprinkler heads on the field and elsewhere on the outdoor athletic complex.

Besides the exposed heads, Torrey said, "the most dangerous aspect of the field is the most difficult to deal with, and that is the hardness. That comes about from the fact that it is now 15 or more years old. It was built on a condition of fill over a slough, and it has compacted and settled. The board and the superintendent have agreed that it needs to be completely renovated, and the renovation cannot be accomplished in time for this year's football season."

Compaction, sprinkler action and previous efforts to fill and reseed have given the field an undulating character, with a large dip near the westernmost 20-yard line and smaller hills and dips elsewhere.

In addition to being hard, the field has numerous small stones which may be found virtually anywhere.

The sprinkler heads are round and flat, generally are surrounded by dips, and protrude up to an inch. There are seven on the playing area, six of which are covered by rubber and one of which is exposed metal. Others line the inside perimeter of the track at 20-foot intervals.

Problems exist elsewhere in the athletic complex as well. The track is hard and rutted. A hole about eight feet by six feet exists along the first base line of the junior varsity baseball diamond, and has been boarded over. The varsity baseball field slopes drastically in foul territory along the third baseline.

Complicating long-range renovation efforts is a pipe running beneath the football field from a small creek on the south side to a tidal area of Corte Madera Creek on the north side of Doherty Drive, which borders the complex.

The pipe, which drains water from the smaller creek to prevent flooding, may be enlarged or renovated by the City of Larkspur, which might entail digging up the field along the pipe's route.

City officials currently are undecided about plans, and the board decided in its meeting Monday night to hold off making any long-range commitments until it found out what city officials wanted to do.

Endriss addressed the Monday meeting, called the field "a hazard" and invited board members to tour it. Torrey accepted the invitation.

SAN FRANCISCO — Winning pitcher Chris Rowland went three for four at the plate and drove in two runs Sunday as the Marin Suns reached the halfway point of the season with a 5-0 record in Northern California Baseball League play with a 6-1 victory over the San Francisco Mets.

DICK WILLIAMS

He's Quick In Many Ways

By PHIL ELDERKIN
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK — If Manager Dick Williams of the Oakland Athletics played in a band, you'd find him in the brass section. There is nothing quiet, introverted or retiring about him. And his team, which is currently battling the New York Mets in the World Series, is cut from the same mold.

Williams is quick with the quip, quick with the needle, and quick with the hook. His managing philosophy seems to be: if one man isn't doing the job for you, try someone else. And this also extends to his starting pitchers, who invariably are lifted the moment they show signs of losing their stuff.

"Whether we win this thing or not," Williams explained about his defending World Series champs, "we're a better team than we were a year ago. We've got better balance, better pitching, and better depth. We don't have any soft spots in our lineup.

"For example, let's just look at two of our positions — catching and pitching," he continued. "So far the press hasn't given Ray Fosse much credit for what he's done for us behind the plate. But this man calls a real smart ballgame. Our hurlers have faith in his ability to catch every pitch and this is important when the score is close and there are men on base.

"Ray didn't hit much for us early in the year when we got him in a trade with Cleveland, but he's been very steady with the bat over the second half of the season. And Fosse has a great arm. Baltimore, which has a speedy ballclub, wasn't able to run on him in the playoffs. They stole a few times on our pitchers, who were careless holding people on base. But they didn't steal on Fosse."

Perhaps no one outside the Oakland organization is more familiar with Dick Williams's baseball tactics than Darrell Johnson, the new manager of the Boston Red Sox. They have been close friends for years. Johnson was also Williams's pitching coach for two seasons at Boston and could have gone to Oakland with Dick had Darrell not wanted to manage in the minors.

"Williams, in my opinion, is one of the best managers in baseball for getting everything you can out of 25 men," Johnson said. "Some guys are great at using the talents of their first 12 or 15 players, but Dick has always gotten something of value from everybody.

"He's not a manager who goes by the book. He seldom plays it straight down the middle. Yet he's not a hunch manager either. When I worked for him, he showed me by example that he had a reason for everything he did and usually it worked out.

"I've never known a man who wanted to win as badly as he does," Darrell continued. "If he notices that someone already in the game isn't swinging the bat the way he usually does or that a pitcher obviously doesn't have his stuff, he'll yank him immediately. The player may not like it, but that's part of Williams's secret for winning ballgames.

"One thing you learn immediately as a coach under Dick is that he's the boss. He makes the decisions. But he also has this way of leaving things open so that you can volunteer information without feeling pushy about it. I've always liked that idea and will use it with my own coaches."

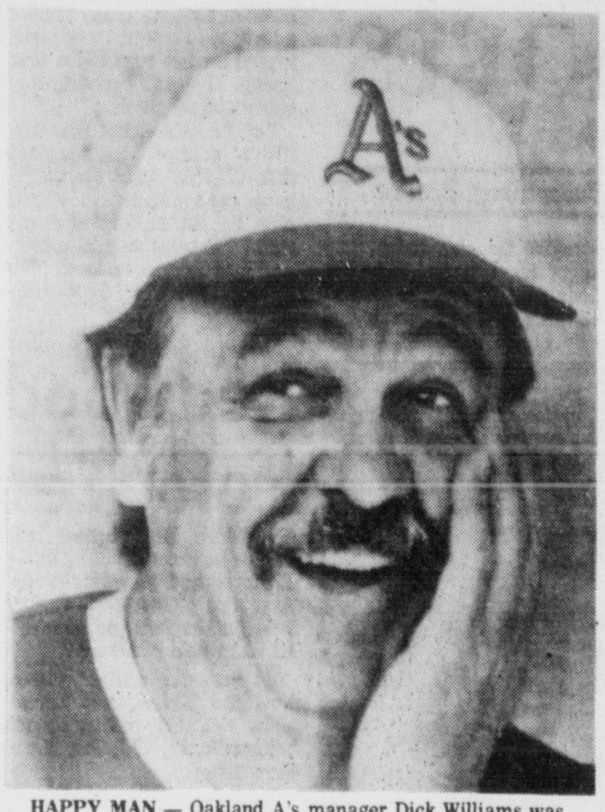

Oakland, mostly because of the flamboyant personality of owner Charles O. Finley, has never been an organization entirely free from turbulence.

Finley has fired more high-ranking executives than the Russians. He sometimes prefers the company of his mules to people and he is also a self-made millionaire.

In other words, Charlie O. is not an easy man to have as your boss. But although Finley and Williams have had their differences over the past few years, so far they have always been resolved.

And just so things remain perfectly normal concerning the Athletics, there is a current rumor that 14 of the team will be traded before next season and that Williams will leave to manage the New York Yankees.

Asked to comment on this speculation, Williams replied: "Well, it certainly sounds like the type of thing people are in the habit of writing about us. But if I were you, I wouldn't pay any attention to it."

sons. Lack of communication between the front office and ourselves; some of our traveling conditions or the way we travel; the (Oakland) Coliseum people making things so difficult for us, like for example we need a written order before they can cut the grass. Things like this I'm talking about."

There is really no dissension among the A's.

It is more of an apathy although it would be wrong to say the players aren't doing all they can to win. They are, but with all their differences with Charlie Finley, the Mike Andrews' affair was the last straw.

Some of the A's feel Andrews, persuaded to sign a statement saying he was "disabled," shouldn't even demean himself by rejoining the club. It looks as if he will anyway.

"Basically, I think the club is depressed," says Gene Tenace.

"Everybody feels for Mike. The guy has one bad inning and look what happened. You know, with everything that's occurred since I joined this club four years ago, I'm surprised we're on top."

For the benefit of all you out there with short memories, the eight players who Finley sold, traded or flat out released from last year's world champion club were Mike Epstein, George Hendrick, Don Mincher, Bob Locker, Gonzalo Marquez, Mike Hegan, Joe Horlen and Matty Alou.

They'll be joined by others soon whether Oakland wins again or loses.

Marin Preps Have 2 Soccer Shockers

Redwood High School lost its first game of the year and San Rafael won for the first time in Marin County Athletic League soccer shockers yesterday.

The Giants were upset by San Marin on four goals by Mike Linder, 4-1, while the Bulldogs defeated Novato, 1-0, on a score by Tony Valteria. Terra Linda moved into a first-place tie with Redwood with a 4-1 victory over Tamalpais, and Drake beat Marin Catholic, 5-1.

"Linder had a really good game, and he was assisted on two scores by Greg Matson," said San Marin coach Mike Kecskes. Three of Linder's goals came in the fourth quarter. "They (Redwood) are a fine team, but we were able to outhustle them, and that was the difference."

San Rafael's Valteria scored the Bulldogs' first goal of the year by booting in a ball which was resting in front of the goal after being blocked by a fullback. "It (the victory) was a pleasant surprise," said San Rafael coach Bill Monti. "It had been a long haul up to this point."

Terra Linda's Mark McCarthy and Bob Vaupin scored twice each as the Trojans won their fourth straight after an opening loss to Redwood and pulled even with the Giants in the standings at 4-1.

STANDINGS
Redwood 4-1, Terra Linda 4-1, Novato 3-2, Drake 2-2-1, San Marin 2-2-1, Tamalpais 2-3, Marin Catholic 1-4, San Rafael 1-4.

Unbeaten Seals Host Philadelphia

OAKLAND (UPI) — Philadelphia and California both find themselves unbeaten as they ready for tonight's Coliseum Arena National Hockey League battle at 8 o'clock.

In fact the Seals, 2-0 this season, are riding a club record six-game win string, which includes the fast finish of four straight victories last season.

But Philadelphia is seven more impressive, with a 3-0 record that includes a victory over Toronto.

"They should be a lot of trouble," says Seals Coach Fred Glover, "but we can bump with the best of them if we put our minds to it. We've proven that before."

Key to the Flyers comeback is that Bernie Parent is back in the nets after a year in the World Hockey Association. He is currently the NHL's leading goaltender with an 0.67 goals against average.

For most of the game, they were in a jovial mood. Seaver had a 2-0 lead and usually that's money in the bank. But Seaver wasn't in top form, even though he struck out 12 batters, and he was lifted after eight innings.

"I was a bit tired and my shoulder started to stiffen a little," he whispered in the quiet Met dressing room.

He was touched for the tying run in the eighth when Campaneris singled, stole second and scored when Rudi singled through first baseman John Milner.

Campy said he stole it with a quick jump on Seaver despite Grote's strong throw. "He too slow with his pitching motion," the Cuban-born Campaneris said in his broken English accent. "I watch him and I know I can steal on him."

Tug McGraw blanked the A's through the ninth and 10th innings but Campy won it in the 11th with his single off Parker after Ted Kubiak walked and went to second when Grote was charged with a passed ball as Angel Mangual struck out.

Grote, who doesn't like to talk to newsmen even in the best of times, just glared when asked about the play.

Manager Yogi Berra, a former catcher, said, "it appeared to me as if the ball took off. It was a low fastball and seemed to veer in."

But Parker was willing to shoulder responsibility for the loss "I walked Kubiak and I gave up the hit to Campy," he said. "It was my fault."

Cal Could Have Stronger Defense, Weaker Offense

OAKLAND (UPI) — California's football team could have a little better defense and a little worse offense Saturday when Oregon State meets the Bears in what might be a wild air battle at Berkeley.

That's because star linebacker Phil Heck will rejoin the Bears while wide receiver and runback star Wesley Walker has a muscle injury and is doubtful for the game, Coach Mike White told the Northern California football writers yesterday.

The Beavers have the most prolific passer in the nation in Alvin White while Cal, which has two quarterbacks who like to throw, is the top Pac-8 passing team.

But White noted that Alvin White threw only 17 times last Saturday and the Beavers flattened Washington 31-7.

"I don't look for Oregon State to pass that much," White predicted. "I think (coach) Dee (Andros) wants to throw the ball as all of us do, 20 or 25 times a game. They've made great improvements in their running game."

Cal's offense, which had run up big scores the previous two weeks, moved well against Oregon but made key mistakes near the goal as the Bears were belted 41-10.

"We thought we were on the way to proving ourselves a good football team, but that was definitely a step backwards," White said glumly.

Stanford Coach Jack Christiansen was still shellshocked from UCLA's beating of his Cards. But he still did not sound like a convert to the Bruins' Wishbone formation.

"Those UCLA blockers are big and they were sustaining their blocks longer than they had been. Any kind of attack that gets that kind of blocking will work—Wishbone, pro set or anything," Christiansen said.

The Cards come back to reality this week, heading to Seattle to meet Washington in what Christiansen termed a battle of "inconsistent teams."

San Jose State, which hosts Utah Saturday night, fell 28-3 at Arizona State. Coach Darryl Rogers said he was pleased at holding the Suk Devils to 28 points and said "I've never seen backs accelerate as fast as Woody Green and Ben Malone."

But the fans did not impress the Spartans coach as much. "They keep the players in a kind of pit, and if you get out they throw things at you," he said.

"Our Travis McMichaels hit one lady in the mouth with a ball—and it's the best pass he's thrown all year. Some of the things those people yelled at us, they really deserved it."

The writers named Pacific defensive back Steve Capozzo Player of the Week for his play in the Tigers' 10-6 win over Long Beach State. He made 10 tackles, deflected two passes and recovered two fumbles for the Tigers, who host San Diego State Saturday night with the winner probably the PCAA champ.

Defensive honors went to San Jose State defensive end Dave Wasick while college laurels were for Hayward State quarterback Mike Jacinto and Santa Clara tackle Jim Sarti. Jacinto hit 19-of-30 for 243 yards in a 41-12 win over Humboldt State while Sarti made 10 tackles, including three quarterback sacks, in a 27-14 victory over Nevada-Reno.

FOR LUBBERS FIGHT

Ali To Keep Low Profile

JAKARTA, Oct. 17 (UPI)— Muhammad Ali, whose mouth is almost as fast as his fist, said today he planned to keep a low profile in Asia but his lack of gab wouldn't stop him from polishing off Dutch heavyweight champion Rudi Lubbers.

Lubbers and Ali square off Saturday night in Jakarta's 100,000-seat soccer stadium in a 12-round, non-title fight.

Lubbers said earlier in the day he would defeat Ali because of his age and poor physical condition.

"I have to force myself to take him (Lubbers) seriously," Ali said. "If he's in shape to go 12 rounds I have to go 12 rounds even if I'm winning. I have to fight to stay even."

But traces of his former self came through while he was lying on his training table in a dressing room beneath the huge soccer stadium.

"There ain't no room for that now," Ali said, referring to his old flamboyance.

"I'm the greatest," he yelled, echoing his old battle cry to show how it used to be. "That was great in redneck country—in Mississippi and Alabama. They used to say, 'That nigger needs to be whipped. I want to see that nigger whipped, and they would buy tickets to see me fight," he said.

"That doesn't go over here. I can't say 'I'm beautiful, I'm the greatest," Ali said, wiping the sweat off his head with a white towel.

Lubbers said he had been training for nine months and he was in much better physical shape than Ali.

In reply, Ali said he had been training for only 10 days. "That's enough really. I'm up like I should be but I'm in enough shape for him."

"I really didn't want this fight. It's too risky, but the deal was made before I knew I was going to fight (Joe) Frazier," Ali said.

49er Coach's QB Decision Due Tomorrow

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — San Francisco 49er coach Dick Nolan says he will decide tomorrow whether to start Steve Spurrier or veteran quarterback John Brodie against the New Orleans Saints Sunday.

The 49er coach pulled a switch against Minnesota by starting Spurrier, despite an earlier announcement that Brodie would lead the team.

"I just thought that springing Spurrier at Minnesota at the last minute might shake them up," said Nolan yesterday.

"It was just a change-up. We have two No. 1 quarterbacks and I thought Steve deserved a shot.

"Steve threw every pattern you could think of," said Nolan after watching films of the Minnesota game. "He hit sideline patterns, delayed action, down the middle and slant tosses. You couldn't ask for a better variety."

The 49ers are three games behind unbeaten Los Angeles in the National Football Conference West, and Nolan thinks they still have a chance.

Cedrick Hardman, defensive end for the 49ers, agrees.

"Sure, we know the Rams have a three-game lead in the NFC's Western Division, but they're always leading us around this time of the year," said Hardman. "What counts is who is on top at the finish and the past three years it's been us."

Nolan views the loss to Minnesota as San Francisco's best defensive showing of the season — better even than their play against Miami.

"It was a case of good execution by both the line and the linebackers," said Nolan. "When you can hold Minnesota to 96 yards on the ground, it must be a team effort."

Other questionable starters for Sunday's game with the Saints include Jimmy Johnson, Forest Blue and guard John Watson.

Johnson suffered a sprained knee in the first quarter action against the Vikings and sat on the bench the remainder of the game. But Nolan says Johnson may be ready by Sunday.

Watson who suffered a sprained wrist, and Blue, out with an eye injury, are also listed as possibles.

FAT PITCH — The Oakland A's pitching staff has a reputation for not giving batters anything good to hit, so catcher Gene Tenace was understandably surprised to see this offering floating across home plate during last night's World Series game in New York. Actually, it was a balloon which had drifted onto the field. Oakland's real pitches were more the size of aspirin tablets, as the A's shut out the Mets after the first inning and finally won in the 11th, 3-2.

A's Campy Called 'A Money Player'

By VITO STELLINO

NEW YORK (UPI)—"He's a money player," was Reggie Jackson's ultimate tribute.

He was describing Dagoberto Blanco Campaneris, better known simply as Bert or Campy Campaneris.

The lithe, swift Cuban stole the key base last night that set up the tying run and then batted in the deciding run in the Oakland A's 3-2, 11-inning triumph over the New York Mets in the pivotal third game of the World Series.

"He only hit .250 (actually .249)," Jackson noted, "but he's a good money player. When the money's on the line in a pressure situation, he always comes up with a stolen base or a hit that we need. This is nothing new for him."

Campaneris, though, claimed he didn't feel the pressure Jackson was talking about.

"Me no feel pressure," he said in his broken accent. "If I no hit, I no hit. If I out, I out. But I try to be safe."

Campaneris wasn't surprised that he was able to steal a base on Tom Seaver before scoring the tying run on Joe Rudi's hit in the eighth inning.

Despite a strong throw by Jerry Grote, Campaneris had such a good jump on Seaver that he beat it.

"He go too slow," Campy said while describing Seaver's pitching motion. "I watched him and he pitch like that California pitcher (Nolan Ryan). He just take too much time."

When Campaneris came to the plate in the 11th inning with Ted Kubiak on third, he said, "I just try to get base hit and win game."

Campaneris said the tangled Mike Andrews' situation "no bother me." He added, "I no understand situation. I just try 100 per cent like always."

But the situation obviously bothered the rest of the A's even though they pulled together to win.

"It was a mental block in the back of my mind," said starting pitcher Jim Hunter.

ATTLES ENCOURAGED

Warriors, Bucks Tonight

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors take a 1-1 record with two weird postponements into tonight's 6 o'clock game with the tough Milwaukee Bucks, the team that beat them 97-85 in their late opener.

The unique season has seen them miss their first two games because one floor was too wet and the other too slippery and then have to face the tough Bucks in their home opener after an 11-day layoff. It showed in a 97-85 loss.

The Warriors came back to beat Phoenix, the team some say will challenge them for the Pacific Division title, 120-95.

"That was encouraging," said Coach Al Attles. "After the game against Milwaukee, I was kind of bewildered. But now I'm confident again."

Attles indicated he felt Milwaukee would be especially tough this year since high scoring Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, "showed he is more intent on defense. He had a lot of blocked shots. We'll have to do something different."

Warrior center Nate Thurmond usually has good luck against Jabbar, whose 31-point average slips to about 22 against Thurmond and whose shooting percentage drops from 55 to 46.

Another key man when the Warriors play Milwaukee is forward Clyde Lee, who dominated the boards against the Bucks in last year's playoff series while Thurmond screened out Jabbar. Lee showed he was ready for another big year on the boards when he hauled down 18 rebounds against the Suns.

NBA ROUNDUP

An Answer To A Shot Problem

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Dean Meminger, a notoriously poor outside shooter, solved his problem ... for at least one game.

The 6-foot-1 Meminger, playing in place of injured Earl Monroe, sank 12 of his 15 field goal attempts in leading the defending National Basketball Association champion New York Knicks to a 117-91 victory over the Buffalo Braves last night.

However, 14 of Meminger's 15 shots came either on layups after taking long passes or rebounds of missed shots from right underneath the basket.

"If you don't hustle, you don't get the easy layup," said Meminger. "I'm built awkwardly, long arms on a short body, so I consider myself tall for my size. My quickness beat Ernie (DiGregorio) because he's also short. I have trouble with the 6-foot-5 guards. I just kept running down court for the long passes and got them because I was faster than Ernie."

Meminger finished with a career-high 27 points, one less than teammate Dave DeBusschere, who was celebrating his 33rd birthday. DeBusschere, who already has announced his retirement, effective at the end of the season when he becomes general manager of the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association, also collected 14 rebounds to help Coach Red Holzman post his 301st NBA victory.

In the only other NBA game, Philadelphia defeated Houston 106-101.

DeBusschere went 5-for-5 from the floor in the third period and triggered a 10-point drive that carried New York from a five-point lead to an 82-67 margin with two minutes left in the quarter. He also turned in a brilliant defensive performance on Jim McMillian of the Braves.

McMillian, who finished with a game-high 29 points, netted 23 in the first half but was held to only six after the intermission when DeBusschere took over the guarding from Bill Bradley.

Fred Carter's 29 points paced Philadelphia to its win over Houston as the 76ers, winners of only nine games last season, posted their first triumph this campaign after two losses.

Marin Tar Booters Deadlock De Anza

College of Marin's Misak Pirinjian scored in the first half as the Tars tied De Anza College of Cupertino yesterday, 1-1, in a Camino Norte Conference soccer game in Kentfield.

Standings at the season's halfway mark show Marin in third place with a 1-1-2 record. West Valley of Campbell leads at 4-0, followed by Canada of Redwood City (2-1-1), Marin, De Anza (1-2-1) and Alameda (0-4).

Mt. Tam Triumphs

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Don't Forget That Life Jacket

The summer of '73 will go down in the records as a good one for boating accidents. I keep track of boating mishaps through newspaper clippings and although the number of boats is increasing astronomically, accidents are holding the line.

One thing I noticed is that life jackets often figure in boating accidents. That is to say . . . nobody ever seems to be wearing one in an emergency.

It appears that life preservers are things boaters buy because the law requires that there must be one aboard for each passenger, but seldom does anyone think very seriously about them.

There's one thing about a life jacket that's like a parachute. You may go through your entire life and never need one, but IF you ever do, you need it very, very badly. Here are some excerpts from letters received on this and related safety topics.

Q. What does the Coast Guard approval on a life preserver or buoyant vest really signify?

A. The whole idea is to set up standards upon which the public can rely. An approved life preserver is one you can depend on if you treat it right. If you are stopped and inspected, only "approved" life preservers are counted.

Q. Are there other than "approved" kinds of jackets made and sold?

A. A few. Construction crews, logging companies, fire department, the Navy and other groups working over or around water may use special types which are not approved for pleasure craft.

Q. In buying a life preserver, what's the most important consideration?

A. I would say proper fit . . . and the best way to get this is with a try-out. Remember the thing which a life preserver must do above all is to keep the wearer's nose and mouth out of water if he becomes unconscious. Even in warm waters it's not difficult to lose consciousness due to exposure. In northern latitudes this transcends all other considerations.

Q. Should life jackets get any special care?

A. Just the very best. Keep them clean and dry. I've seen vests used to wipe up spilled oil and gasoline. If you see anyone doing such things, you've met a real knucklehead.

Q. Are any children's life jackets better than others?

A. As to brands or styles, I don't think so. But with children, fit is the most important thing. If a child is thrown into the water the jacket must not come off. A child that can't swim should be wearing a jacket at all times while in a boat.

Q. Safety experts say "stay with the boat" if you are swamped. But how do you hang on to one of these smooth, slick plastic boats if they are floating upside down?

A. It's difficult. You might be able to clasp hands over the top. A lot of such boats have spray rails or rubbing strips to provide hand holds for emergency. Since I was dumped the first time, I have always carried a six foot length of rope just casually tied somewhere in the boat. It can be reached in an emergency and there's always some way to use it to stay fastened to the boat.

Q. My boat was damaged on account of high water. Can I sue somebody?

A. Since it happened on the Great Lakes, you can sue the U.S. government, the Canadian government, or both, because they are the two bodies who have tampered with the water supply into and out of the Great Lakes, or have given permission for other to tamper with it. From the past performance of others who have tried, I'd say you won't get anywhere.

Q. What privilege does a scuba diver have if he is flying the diver's flag? (A red flag with a diagonal white stripe).

A. In a few states the law requires all boats to stay clear of a diver's flag — usually 100 feet or more. But generally speaking the flag is only a warning that there is a diver below and no law demands that a boat stay clear. However, you would feel badly if you chewed up the diver with your prop, wouldn't you?

Mets Are Favored Tonight

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — The New York Mets, with Jon Matlack pitching, are 11-10 favorites to beat the Oakland A's and Ken Holtzman tonight in the fourth game of the World Series, oddsmaker Jimmy (The Greek) Snyder said last night.

Oakland, which holds a 2-1 series advantage, is an 11-5 favorite to beat the Mets for the championship, however, Snyder said.

Basketball

Walton, college basketball's Most Valuable Player the past two seasons, took Wooden's advice to heart and returned to practice yesterday, minus his shaggy locks.

Football

PHILADELPHIA — Mel Tom's wish was to be traded and yesterday the Philadelphia Eagles granted it.

The veteran defensive end was sent to the Chicago Bears for an undisclosed draft choice. He left the team last Wednesday after a dispute with assistant coach Jerry Wampler whom he told, "Trade me, fire me or fight me."

STATELINE, Nev. — Harrah's Tahoe Racebook listed the following point spreads for this weekend's National Football League games:

Washington over St. Louis by 14, San Francisco over New Orleans by 14, Oakland over Denver by five, Detroit over Baltimore by 14, Pittsburgh over New York Jets by 20, Miami over Buffalo by 14, Cleveland over Houston by 13, Minnesota over Philadelphia by 15, Chicago over New England by seven, Los Angeles over Green Bay by seven, Dallas over New York Giants by 11, Cincinnati over Kansas City by two and Atlanta over San Diego by five.

Tennis

BOCA RATON, Fla. — Pro tennis player Margaret Court was reported "uncomfortable but satisfactory" yesterday after a stomach ailment caused her to default a scheduled match in the Virginia Slims Tennis Championship and be hospitalized.

Golf

MILWAUKEE — The body of Lynford Lardner Jr., 57, president of the U.S. Golf Association, was found floating in the Milwaukee River yesterday. An autopsy was being performed.

Lardner's body was found a block from the offices of the law firm Foley and Lardner, of which he was a senior partner.

Volleyball Results

Tamalpais High School (4-1) moved into first place in the Marin County Athletic League girls volleyball standings with a 15-7, 15-3 victory over visiting San Marin yesterday.

Tar Harriers Lose To Rival

SUISUN CITY — College of Marin's cross country team was defeated yesterday by West Valley of Campbell, 25-30, but topped Santa Rosa Junior College, 25-30, in a Camino Norte Conference meet near here.

West Valley's Matt Sommer won in 21:32 over a hilly four-mile course, with Marin's Pete Sweeney second in 21:56. Other Tar scorers were Mike Killeen, fifth in 22:24; John Ladd, eighth in 22:55; Eric Moller, 10th in 23:09; and Kian McCarthy, 15th in 23:42.

West Valley, Marin's principal rival for the conference championship, was a 21-34 victor over Santa Rosa.

Basketball Results

Host Terra Linda defeated San Rafael yesterday in season-opening Marin County Athletic League Class B and C basketball games, winning the "B" clash, 35-29, and the "C" contest, 44-33.

Roche Leads In 2 Categories

Wayne Roche of San Marin High School is a clear-cut example of the benefits of hard work.

The 5-foot-9, 175-pound junior tailback who handles the football so often he probably feels naked without it, is leading the Marin County Athletic League in rushing and pass receiving, according to statistics compiled by the Independent-Journal.

Roche has carried the ball 43 times for 216 yards in two games, including a 63-yard touchdown run, and has caught a league-high seven passes, though his gains have been limited to yards.

Corky Ingraham, Drake's tight end, has caught six balls for a 19.5 average, including league-leading totals of 117 yards (one more than San Marin's Greg Pater) and three touchdowns.

Surprising Drake, the co-leader with Redwood at 2-0, has two rushers (Henry Kremer and Ross Perry) in the top ten, and has the No. 2 passer, Terry Fahey. Redwood's position is largely attributable to the MCAL's best defense against the pass (50.5 yards a game) and overall (107.5).

A Shock Triggers NHL Blues

DETROIT (UPI)—Maybe the shock of seeing St. Louis finally score was just too much for Roy Edwards to bear.

It looked something like that last night on the game winner when the Blues defeated the Detroit Red Wings 3-2 in a meeting of National Hockey League teams without a win.

Detroit, now 0-4, and equalling its worst start ever, got goals 33 seconds apart in the second period from Alex DelVecchio and Henry Boucha.

But St. Louis tied it up in a similar 33 second span when Ab De Marco and Steve Durbano scored inside the two-minute mark—The first goals by the 1-2 Blues after 158 minutes, 18 seconds.

St. Louis had scored 20 seconds into its first game of the season but had been shut out thereafter.

The winner came at the 14:35 mark of the final 20 minutes of play, following a faceoff at center ice.

Bob Plager slapped a shot from the red line and Lou Angotti, who had scored the club's only goal prior to the game, deflected it while standing at the blue lie past the startled Edwards, who never made a move to stop it.

"The big guy shot and it was to my left," the Detroit goalie said. "I committed myself. What man's going to expect it to be touched at the blue line? I can't wait until then, I've got to make a move," Edwards said in self defense.

In the only other NHL game, Lorne Henning's goal midway through the final period lifted the New York Islanders to a 4-4 tie with the Los Angeles Kicgs. The goal offset a goal by the Kings' Bob Nevin, who had put Los Angeles in front earlier in the period.

Pro-Am Today At Silverado

NAPA, Calif. (UPI)—Today's pro-amateur play opens the $150,000 Kaiser International Golf Tourney, which is being played this week at scenic Silverado Country Club.

One of the pre-tourney favorites, Lanny Wadkins, has pulled out of the field because his wife gave birth prematurely Sunday.

Raiders Trailing, But Are Confident

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders are a half-game behind Kansas City in the American Football Conference West but seem confident of taking the division title.

Oakland, which is 3-2 although the Raiders offense still has not had a big day, plays at Denver in next Monday night's television game and then is off to Baltimore where the Colts have yet to show much.

Kansas City (3-1-1) meets a Cincinnati team fresh from an upset of mighty Pittsburgh and still has to play at Oakland, where the Raiders have dominated their old rivals in recent years.

Says All-Star offensive guard Gene Upshaw, "we never push the panic button, no matter what goes wrong." He predicted the Raiders would win their division.

Middle linebacker Dan Conners predicts, "soon we'll have a complete day—a big scoring game and a great defensive effort. Then the whole National Football League will know we're strong again."

Two Raiders will tie Forrest Gregg's consecutive game record when they take the field in Denver. They are 46-year-old George Blanda and 35-year-old Jim Otto, who have appeared in 187 games apiece.

Otto, the star offensive center, says "I look at it this way. The team needs me and I get paid for playing."

First Street Books To Consolidate Operation At Location In Kentfield

First Street Books, which has outlets in Corte Madera and Kentfield, will relocate this weekend and consolidate in one large store at 850 College Avenue, next to the new Sub Hut restaurant directly across the street from College of Marin's Olney Hall and Library.

The consolidated Kentfield store will open for business at the new College Avenue location on Saturday. Owners Cynthia Canfield, Celia Elke and Patricia Latcham will keep their First Street Books open six days a week from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The shop carries a large selection of hardbound books, paperbacks, maps, charts, prints and unique cards for all occasions.

First Street Books opened a year ago at 25 First Street in Corte Madera, followed by its second store at 937 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Kentfield. The new store on College Avenue is large enough to accommodate the stock from the other two stores.

Wood's prime responsibility will be the leasing of the new Harbor View Office Building, which will open next month in Sausalito at 180 Harbor Drive, corner of Harbor and Capital Street.

Wood has a varied real estate background in sales, leasing, property management and mortgage banking.

Harbor View Office Building has boating at its doorstep and is ideal for those who want to combine residential, office and recreation in the same suburban area, said Wood. He predicted that the trend is toward less commuting, not more. Wood cited this example: One prospective tenant, who lives in Belvedere, could use his boat faster than he could use his car.

Ireland was formerly vice president and director of property management for Grubb & Ellis Co. and also served as an associate of William Hoey Company of San Rafael. He will continue to live in Marinwood.

EDWARD B. MacGUIRE, president of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, was elected to the board of directors of Bell Savings and Loan Association.

MacGuire, regional vice president of McGraw-Hill Book Co., has been with the book firm since 1956. He is also a member of the Citizens Advisory Committee of Dominican College, San Rafael.

Stocks Score Gains In Moderate Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stock prices gained in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange today in a continuation of strength displayed in the latter part of the previous session.

With little in the news background to support an advance, analysts said portfolio managers continued to hunt for values, particularly among big-name glamors, blue chips, steels and chemicals. A number of stocks in these groups had taken some losses in profit taking earlier in the week, and as one analyst put it," the funds are still showing a propensity to buy into any sign of market weakness."

50-Cent Dividend Being Declared

Lockheed Announces Third Quarter Profit

BURBANK (BW) — Lockheed Aircraft Corp. has announced in a preliminary report tht it will record a profit of $4.2 million, or 37 cents a share, for the third quarter of 1973, including extraordinary income of $2.7 million, or 24 cents, from disposition of unused real estate.

It is the aerospace firm's 11th consecutive profitable quarter. But sales of $585 million were down from $640 million in the third quarter of 1972, and income for the third quarter of 1972 was $2.5 million, or 22 cents a share.

Earnings for the 1973 third quarter were affected by before-tax writeoffs of $8.2 million recorded on shipbuilding contracts, principally the construction of an Alaskan ferry to be delivered in 1974 and a U.S. Coast Guard icebreaker to be delivered in 1975.

The writeoffs at the Lockheed Shipbuilding and Construction Co. subsidiary in Seattle were attributed to higher operating costs and technical difficulties.

Also continuing to affect earnings were charges for interest expense and general and administrative expense on the L-1011 Tri-star commercial jet-transport program.

Interest expense amounted to $19.3 million for the quarter, up from $11.5 million in the comparable 1972 period because of rising interest rates and increased borrowings. For the first nine months of 1973 interest costs totaled $48.8 million compared with $33.5 million in nine months of 1972.

L-1011 general and administrative expense was $15.7 million for the third quarter of 1973 compared with $13.3 million last year. For the nine months, these charges amounted to $50.4 million compared with $38.2 million during the like period of 1972.

The increase reflects a higher level of production activity on the L-1011 program with Tri-Star deliveries continue to be costed at amounts equal to revenues.

Net earnings for the first nine months of 1973 were $12.1 million, or $1.07 per share, including extraordinary income of $2.7 million, or 24 cents a share. For the like 1972 period, earnings totaled $13.3 million, or $1.17 a share, including extraordinary income of $3.2 million, or 28 cents a share, from the sale of real property.

For the nine months, sales were $1.93 billion compared with $1.81 billion for the comparable 1972 period. Backlog at the end of Setpember was $4.66 billion compared with $4.51 billion at the end of June.

Lockheed confirmed that it has received authorization from the Emergency Loan Guarantee Board to draw up to $20 million in additional borrowings under its 1971 credit agreement. The drawdown can be made at any time during a three-week period ending Nov. 5.

Continuation Of Controls Is Seen

DALLAS (UPI) — Former Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson says he expects more wage and price controls two years after Phase 4 ends, unless an answer to inflation can be found.

Grayson said controls will not work well in the future because the business community will learn how to get around them better.

Offenders Have Name Published

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Insurance Board publicizes the names of insurance companies reprimanded for deceptive trade practices.

The purpose, according to board chairman Joe Christie, is to discourage similar tactics by other companies.

"I think the public is entitled to know just who is having their knuckles rapped by our enforcement people," he said.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

A Flyer In Gates Learjet

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Would you please tell me what the performance is for Gates Learjet (OTC) and whether it is worth investing in. — W.M.

A. Learjet's earnings, as well as stock market performance, have been volatile. In 1965, when the share price reached $83½, the company reported profits of $2.07 a share. The following year a deficit touched off a sharp decline in the stock. In the subsequent four years profits and share prices fluctuated widely.

However, in fiscal 1972, ended April 30, earnings moved from red to black at $1.26 per share. Additional progress was achieved in fiscal 1973 and again in the first (July) quarter of fiscal 1974 when profits reached 58 cents a share, up from 30 cents. Share price, however, has failed to respond to the improving profit trend and at the current price, earnings are being capitalized only 5x.

Behind the recovery in profits is a strong surge in orders for the company's aircraft. In the first four months of 1973 the company received 54 new orders which represented about half the orders received by all makers of business jets. At the end of fiscal 1973 backlog was triple that at the previous year end. While the shares are a definite speculation, the issue is an interesting purchase for risk money.

Q. I have 20 preferred and 40 common shares of Source Capital. Should I hold in hopes that it will go up in price so I can get my money back? — E.B.

A. The revised investment policy, which allows all money to be invested in freely traded securities, should eventually benefit shareholders of this closed-end company. Earlier this year about half of assets were in restricted bonds and convertibles.

The common shares are trading at a substantial 49 per cent discount from net asset value. The discount has narrowed somewhat since the beginning of the year, a trend which could continue with improving performance. The indicated dividend yields 4.4 per cent on the common while the preferred shares return a generous 10 per cent. Hold.

Give People Voice In Choosing 'Veep'

The Agnew Affair has renewed discussion of the way our vice presidential candidates are chosen, which had died down somewhat since a spurt of interest following the Eagleton fiasco last year.

On this page today, Roscoe Drummond proposes a thorough investigation by a special inquisitory committee into the badkgrounds of those proposed for vice president. On this page yesterday, Erwin D. Canham scolded presidential nominees for their carelessness in choosing running mates.

WHAT IS WRONG with returning the vice presidential selection to the electorate, where it belongs?

The framers of the Constitution had a horror of political parties, having seen their invidious effects in Great Britain. They thought they had guarded against partisan politics, at least on the national level, by their method for electing president and vice president.

Said Article II, Section 3 of the Constitution: "The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves . . . In every case, after the choice of the president, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the vice president."

It didn't work. Parties formed anyhow, and in the election of 1802 all the Democratic-Republican party electors cast their votes for the same two men: Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr. This tie vote threw the decision into the House of Representatives, which finally gave Jefferson the necessary edge. Burr, as second high, became vice president. And the Constitution was amended to provide that the electors should vote for two names, but should designate one for president and the other for vice president.

NOWHERE, of course, did the Constitution say anything about the election campaigns. And, as time went on, aspirants campaigned for president with the understanding that one of the losers would get the "consolation prize" — the vice presidential nomination.

In our own century, the process has been father removed from the electroate, with the presidential nominee himself often choosing his running mate — and often ignoring the other presidential aspirants in doing so.

In recent years, more and more states have instituted direct presidential primaries, to give the people more voice in selection of the nominees. But they have failed to include the vice presidential nomination.

WHAT WOULD BE wrong with having everyone vote for two names in the primary, designating one for president and the other for vice president — just as the electors must do under the Constitution?

Then we would have bona fide vice presidential candidates before the national nominating conventions. The people would have spoken. The presidential nominee would have no voice in selecting the vice presidential nominee. That would be up to the delegates, with many of them instructed by the voters back home.

That's the way it should be.

Big Wheels Quit Capital For Proposition 1 Campaign

By RUS WALTON

The mill here at Babylon-by-the-Sacramento grinds on. And on. But, most of the wheels — at least the biggies and the middies — are off spinning around California.

You'd think this was an election year. And, it is — in a way.

Governor Reagan is stumping the state, pushing for a "yes" vote on his tax initiative (Proposition 1). For him, it's practically a full-fledged campaign: speeches, fund-raisings, radio shows and TV interviews.

And most of the guys in his shop — cabinet secretaries and top staff — are out in the hustings, too.

ASSEMBLY SPEAKER Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, is working the other side of the street. He has hitched his wagon to Reagan's star — but he's trying to pull it down. Moretti is beating the drums for a "no" vote on one.

The speaker is using all of the considerably power of his office. He has recruited legislative staff members, consultants, and even legislators who "owe" him. All at the taxpayers' expense.

Moretti has scheduled six Assembly committee meetings around the state to "discuss" the impact of Proposition 1. Those hearings should have been held last spring, when Reagan submitted the tax reduction plan to the legislature. But the proposal got short shrift back then; there was little political mileage to be gained. So now the road shows at taxpayer's expense.

SOME TIME AGO Bryan Stevens, head of the California Teachers Association, sued Reagan for using staff members and consultants to research and develop his proposed spending limitation plan. Stevens charge Reagan with misuse of taxpayers funds.

You'd think Stevens would now amend his suit to include Moretti and his liberal use of tax-supported people and facilities. But don't hold your breath. Fair's fair — except in politics and war. And this is war; political war.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke is not waiting on Stevens to broaden that suit. Reinecke has struck out on his own. He is demanding Moretti file a campaign statement accounting for the "tremendous amount of taxpayers' money" the speaker is spending against Proposition 1.

ONE OF MORETTI'S hand-picked lieutenants, Assemblyman Wadie Deddeh, D-Chula Vista, is right in there kicking. As chairman of the Assembly Finance and Insurance Committee, Deddeh wrote a batch of letters to the boys in California's financial community.

Wadie claimed passage of Proposition 1 would force the legislature to eliminate $12 million a year that goes to state departments of banking, savings and loan, insurance and corporations.

That, of course, is a bunch of baloney. And Yubi Separovich, president of Atlas Thrift, wrote Deddeh so. He told Deddeh the letter was "clearly intended to intimidate" and bordered on "outright blackmail."

Furthermore, wrote Yubi, Deddeh's "apparent lack of knowledge about state government is astounding". The state departments threatened in Deddeh's letter are not only self-sufficient, through levies on the firms having business with them, they usually generate enough money to produce surpluses for the state general fund.

Now, you'd think a four-term legislator such as Wadie would have known that.

THERE IS A LOT riding on the Nov. 6 special election.

If Proposition 1 passes, we get some tax savings and Governor Regan gets a boost toward the White House in '76.

If Proposition 1 fails, our taxes go on (up) as usual and Moretti takes another step toward the governor's chair in '74.

In the meantime, we're picking up a fair-sized chunk of the campaign tab for both the pros and the cons.

That's another reason to vote "yes" on One. At least the tax savings would be some return on our involuntary campaign contributions.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

With prospects of higher costs for first-class letters, most of our correspondence soon will be junk mail.

Next thing you know, Postal Service deliveries will be made by a junkman instead of mailmen.

If stamp prices go up again, a citizen won't be able to afford writing letters to his congressman to complain about high postal rates.

Perhaps all complaining letters should be written by the lawmakers, who don't have to put stamps on their mail.

Like, "Dear Voter: I know I asked you to send me here, but the heat in Washington is killing me!"

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

We Need Better Method Of Choosing 'Veep'

WASHINGTON — It must be evident by now that this nation desperately needs a better method of picking its vice presidents.

Why? Because three times in the past five years vice presidential candidates have been able to withhold from the presidential nominees, from their party and from the national conventions pertinent and needed information.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., did it to George McGovern in 1972 and Spiro Agnew did it to Richard Nixon in 1968 and 1972.

Two recent vice presidential nominees have been found unfit for office by the men who chose them — Mr. Eagleton because of his undisclosed medical record and Mr. Agnew because of his undisclosed illegal actions.

THIS ISN'T good enough. This has got to be brought to an end.

And the blame rests only in part on Eagleton and Agnew. As much if not more blame rests upon the Democratic and Republican presidential nominees who failed to make any adequate inquiry or investigation into the background and personal fitness of the men they were shortly to ask the national conventions to approve on their say-so.

Senator McGovern and his staff failed to make anything beyond the most perfunctory check before he passed the word: "We want so-and-so." Mr. Nixon and his staff twice failed — and there is no evidence they tried very hard — to penetrate the wall of concealment with which Agnew surrounded his illegal actions while governor of Maryland and even while vice president, according to the Justice Department's 40-page documentation of evidence presented to the court.

IS THERE ANY other way to describe this process of nominating vice presidents than irresponsibile, careless, loose, and at times downright perilous to the country? This is an understatement, not an overstatement. A third assistant secretary at HUD, even an errand boy at the State Department, gets a more thorough check on his fitness and trustworthiness to work for the government than did Eagleton or Agnew.

And this casual and lax inattentiveness is not unique or peculiar to the way these two vice presidential candidates were selected. It is routine. It is traditional. It's been done that way since our political parties came into being more than a century ago.

But now is the time to say: no longer. It has to stop, and the need is for both political parties to study and decide what must be done to see that it is not repeated in 1976.

I OFFER NO panacea but it seems to me that measures like the following could well be considered:

An independent commission to investigate and report to the national conventions on the health of the presidential and vice presidential candidates before their nomination.

A full field investigation by the FBI of the vice presidential candidates and certification to the conventions by the presidential nominee that he is fully satisfied with the results of that investigation.

The trouble is that very little, if any, serious thought is given to the vice presidential candidate until the presidential nominee is decided. And then it's too late. There is a weary, after-midnight consultation among party leaders too exhausted to think clearly, and then when the presidential nominee limply says: "Let's nominate John Doe, he won't lose us any votes," the convention is asked to stand up and cheer rather than think about what it is doing.

It's not good enough and it is time to say so — and act accordingly.

Mineral Show Sets Records In Third Year

We were indeed pleased at the coverage given our third annual Gem and Mineral Fair of last weekend in Monday's paper. Also, your picture of our beloved life member, Mary Hightower, on Thursday last was of great interest and satisfaction to our membership.

Although final results have not yet been compiled and evaluated, at this writing it appears that from every standpoint the show, in spite of bad weather and a somewhat unfamiliar location to many Marinites, has set new records of achievement. In part we attribute this to our advertising in the I-J, an innovation this year.

Why Wages Must Be Tied To Production

Some of us may remember that marching song, which was very popular during the First World War "They're all out of step but Jim."

If people today — recognizing the inversion in this lyric — would apply it to themselves, the cause of inflation would take on a different appearance.

Forgetting for a moment, that we have big government, big corporations and high taxes, our usual whipping boys, and looking at the less complex economy, maybe we could see more clearly who is out of step.

If price is the relationship between production and consumption, and both are functions of people, how can a higher wage, without increase in production, allow greater consumption?

The answer is it can't. All we get is a higher cost.

We Pay Tribute To Force In Present Society

With regard to your editorial on labor and unions, we live in a low state of the world and pay homage to force as the great philosopher said; the instincts are strictly Neanderthal and Flintstone. We must include in this outlook our national games also.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Reagan Vetoes Prevent Compulsory School Lunches, Preserve Testing

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Because of Governor Reagan's vetoes, California school districts which do not serve lunch to pupils won't have to start doing so, teachers may still lose their licenses for failing to inform parents of sex education materials, and pupils in California schools will continue to be given achievement tests.

Reagan exercised his veto power on 173 bills that passed both houses of the legislature this year. None of them appears to have sufficient backing for a veto override. And among the 173 were many which amended the voluminous Education Code.

ONE OF THESE was Senate Bill 1264 by Sen. George R. Moscone, D-San Francisco (also author of the Reagan-vetoed SB 400, which would have imposed compulsory unionization on the schools). SB 1264 would have required all school districts to apply for federal funds to start school lunch or breakfast programs.

In many districts which have never served hot lunch or breakfast to pupils, the bill would have proved a budget wrecker. They would have had to install kitchens, hire cooks, etc., while at the same time being precluded by law from increasing tax rates to pay the resulting deficits — for federal funds only partially pay for the groceries themselves.

That is the law which forbids requiring a child to attend a "sex education" class, whatever its label, and provides that parents must be notified in writing of such classes and given the opportunity to inspect the teaching materials to be used.

As enforcement teeth, the act provides that a teacher may lose his credential for failing to give parents the required notice. AB 1177, by Assemblymen March K. Fong and Ken Meade, both Oakland Democrats, and Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, would have deleted that section.

So far, as far as the writer is aware, no teacher has lost his credential for failing to give the required notice. Many school districts have ignored or side-stepped the law. But the enforcement provision is still there, if school districts or the state Department of Education want to use it — because Governor Reagan vetoed AB 1177.

ASSEMBLYMAN BROWN was also author of AB 368, along with Assemblyman Richard Alatorre, D-Los Angeles. This one would have prohibited school districts from giving scholastic achievement tests to pupils.

Since these tests provide virtually the only measure (inexact though it may be) of whether the schools are teaching anything, prohibiting them would have deprived the public of its means of checking on whether good use is made of its school taxes. Yet both houses of the legislature passed AB 368. Only Reagan's veto prevented its becoming the law.

Among other bills vetoed by the governor was SB 1168 by Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, which would have added a student to the board of trustees of the California State University and Colleges.

And there were two "women's lib" bills by Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles. SB 1227 and 1228 would have prohibited any expenditure of state funds on athletic programs which "discriminate on the basis of sex." (Goodbye, high school and college football!)

ALL THESE BILLS, remember — along with 167 others — passed both houses of the legislature and failed to become law only because of Reagan's vetoes.

A great many more bills, of course, made it all the way, being signed by the governor. The state codes —and especially the Education Code — have become much fatter because of them.

WRONG WILSON — Only 10 Republicans in the Assembly voted for SB 400, the teacher compulsory union bargaining measure by Senator Moscone, rather than 11 as this column reported last week. In error, I listed Pete Wilson, R-San Diego, among the 11. He is no longer in the legislature. The Wilson who voted for the bill is Bob Wilson, his successor from San Diego — but a Democrat.

Agnew Supporters Keeping Quiet, But Probably Seething Inside

GREENLEAFTON, Minn. — We had just finished lunch and were having coffee in Bill Harper's farm kitchen when the phone rang with news about Agnew's resignation.

We moved into the living room and turned on the television and the radio. Bill and his wife, Laura, and Clair and Marion Broadwater from across the road were quiet as the television persisted in proceeding with the ball game and some silly quiz shows. Finally the radio crackled out some details. When the news was over, they still had little to say.

It was much the same that evening when Bob Love and his wife came over for hot cider and cookies, and next morning at breakfast with Troy and Opal Schrock. They were talking with the only Washington newspaperman they had ever met, yet not once did they bring up the most sensational Washington story in many years. What little reaction I got, I had to drag out.

THESE ARE ALL FARMERS, and they all had voted with the majority in Fillmore County and Minnesota's First Congressional District in support of the Nixon-Agnew ticket last fall. The county went Republican by almost 60 per cent; the dominant Minnesota Democratic-Farmer-Labor party traditionally concedes the district to the opposition.

This is the most typically midwestern corner of Minnesota. The Iowa line is only about three miles the other side of Bill's cornfield, and over there people like Dale Reis, the barber in Lime Springs, were just as reluctant to talk about the Agnew case.

Of course, they never spend as much time talking politics here as they do in Washington, which is a one-industry town. They talk about feed prices, whether the rain will ever stop so they can bring in the soybeans, whether a sick cow is going to get well or have to be sold for slaughter, the status of their account with the Granger State Bank.

The week before the resignation, the word Agnew did not appear anywhere in the Harmony News. The lead story there was the approval of wire-coil snow tires and the banning of studs on Minnesota roads. In the Preston Republican, the big news was that a new sow-farrowing and pig-nursery unit was nearing completion north of town, and that the Preston Blue Jays stopped Grand Meadow, 20 to 6. In the Lewiston Journal and the Spring Valley Tribune, it was about increasing school budgets.

And those were the directions local conversation took not only before but after the bombshell was dropped back East. The most I could squeeze out was a rough consensus that Agnew probably deserved what he got, but that they all do it. Nobody quite said so, but my own reading was that they were close-mouthed about it because they felt let down, double-crossed.

OF COURSE THEY WERE, and they were not the only ones. Their own egos mauled repeatedly by revelations of sin in the Nixon administration they had voted for; before, they could at least fall back on the belief that Agnew was a straight-talking, honest man.

Now that the truth is out, with the sources named, it is fascinating to see how the former vice president parlayed one of those (apparent) qualities into the appearance of the other.

He won a broad variety of farmers, blue-collar workers and hard-line conservatives by identifying their suspicions of the East, the press and other remote institutions and then playing them back in colorful language. By perfectly understandable illogic, these citizens were convinced that anyone who talked so straight (that is, agreed with them) obviously was honest and honorable.

It turned out not to be true. And now the fear among them is that, because Agnew was lying about his innocence, the country will assume that he also was wrong in his other rhetoric. It may even have shaken their own confidence in those beliefs he laid out so stylishly. That is not necessarily any more logical than the first false assumption. But it is good reason to keep one's mouth shut for a while, to assess this thing as carefully as if it were a proposition from an unfamiliar fertilizer salesman — to be uncertain, yes, but also quietly, thoroughly furious.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Oct. 17, 1963

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Peacetime conscription is the greatest step toward regimentation and militarism ever undertaken by the Congress of the United States. — Burton K. Wheeler.

There are two kinds of discontent in this world: the discontent that works, and the discontent that wrings its hands. The first gets what it wants, and the second loses what it had. — Gordon Graham.

All Equal Before The Court? Pair Of Cases Create Doubt

It's an unfortunate fact that those fine-sounding phrases about equality and justice in our judicial system, so cherished by many, aren't always true.

Under the Constitution, a man is presumed innocent until proved guilty, and many judges and attorneys, to be fair, truly believe that.

But others don't. Take, for example, the federal judge quoted in Martin Mayer's "The Lawyers":

"The truth of the matter is that I never see a defendant in a criminal case without assuming he's guilty."

Then there's the idea that justice is blind and all are equal before her.

Again, it often becomes hard to square that idea with the events that take place in courts every day.

CONSIDER THE ARMY captain who pleaded guilty to manslaughter last month in Marin County.

For his crime, which resulted in the death of a 14-year-old Bel Marin Keys youth and serious injury to a 12-year-old boy, the captain was given three years probation and told to work 180 hours for a volunteer organization. No jail time was ordered.

Only two weeks later, the same judge, Charles Read Best, sentenced a San Francisco woman to two months in jail despite a recommendation by the county probation department that she be given probation only.

The woman had pleaded guilty to a burglary charge although, she told Judge Best through her attorney, she had been sitting in a car waiting for her male friend and didn't know he was breaking into a Sausalito boutique.

This is a story judges have heard many times. But in this case, the probation department believed her.

The woman had never been arrested before, was holding two jobs, and had an unblemished family background.

Court observers, comparing the two cases, say it shows for the umpteenth time how important it is to hire the best possible lawyer. The army captain's attorney has a reputation as being a wizard in negotiating plea bargains.

A HANDY YARDSTICK for measuring how deeply a drug defendant is involved in dope traffic has been supplied by San Rafael attorney William O. Weissich.

At a pre-sentence hearing last week for a client convicted of selling heroin, Weissich told the judge:

"You can always tell the big dealers. They walk into your office and start peeling off the hundred-dollar bills."

His client, Weissich went on, had to borrow against his house to pay his legal fees. This showed he really wasn't a large-scale supplier, Weissich contended.

The judge apparently agreed, for he sentenced the man to a year in jail instead of to prison, as the district attorney asked.

Rules On Meat Cutting By Retail Stores Eased

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Without consulting the public or its own new consumer affairs adviser, the Agriculture Department has almost doubled the amount of noninspected meat and poultry that retail stores can cut up for hotels and restaurants.

The order does not permit the sale of meat and poultry without slaughterhouse inspection by federal or state officials. However, it nearly doubles the dollar ceiling on the value of meat and poultry which retail stores may cut up for hotels, restaurants and other "non-household" consumers without making their processing facilities subject to federal or state supervision.

The action does not affect most hotels and restaurants in big cities, because they buy meats from "purveyors" whose processing rooms are under inspection. Officials said the greatest impact would be in small towns and resort areas where retail stores are often the only convenient source of meat for restaurants, and on some small lunch counters in urban areas.

Mrs. Nancy Steorts, appointed last summer as a $24,000 a year adviser to Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz on consumer affairs, was caught by surprise by the action.

A department announcement earlier had said Mrs. Steorts would advise agency heads on "issues and actions which have a bearing on consumers," and would represent consumer interests at top department levels. But in an interview, she said she had not been consulted about the new order nor notified before it was issued.

Did she think she should have been consulted?

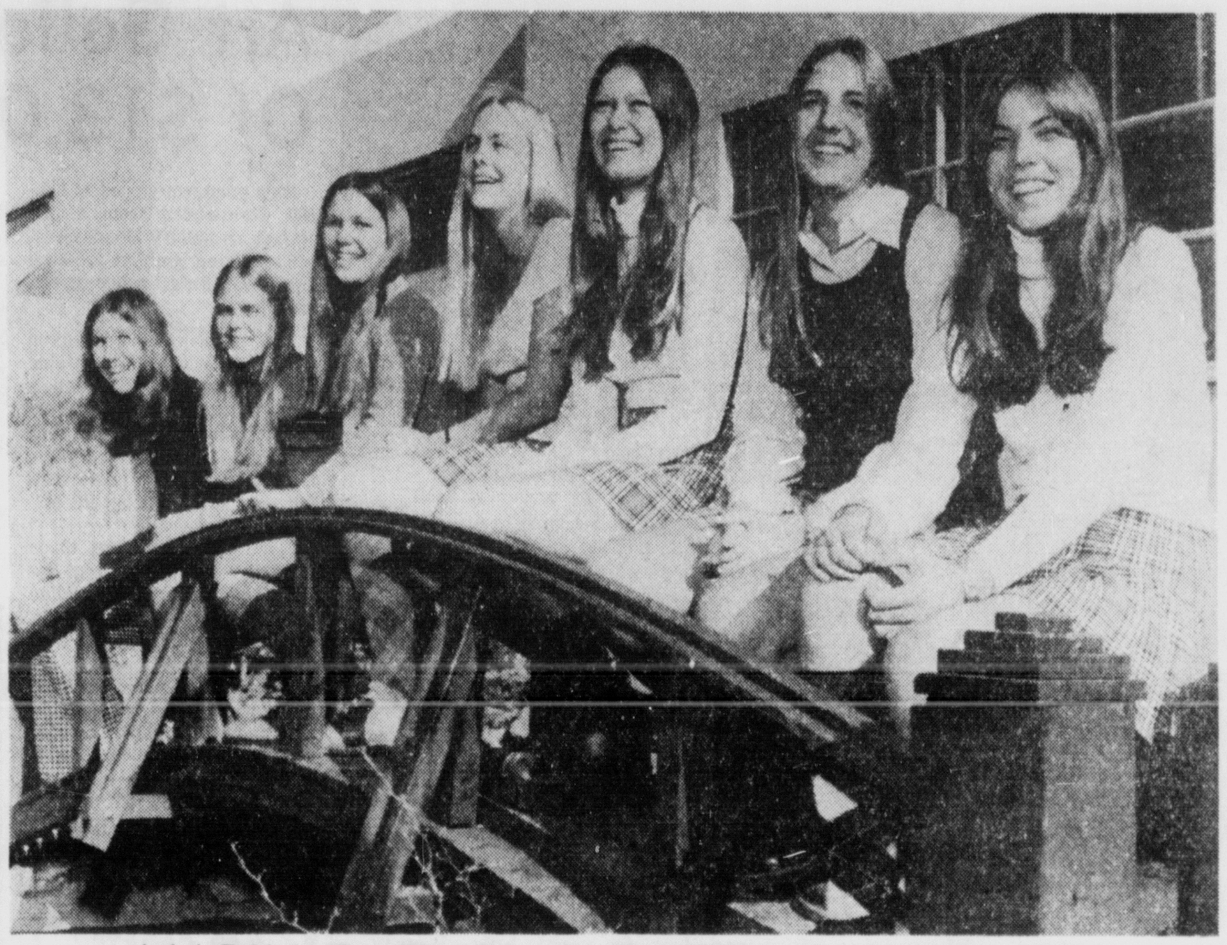

"Absolutely. I think I should have been made aware of any action with consumer impact," Mrs. Steorts said.

Under existing regulations, retail stores may sell up to $10,000 a year worth of cut-up or otherwise processed meat and poultry to "non-household" consumers without making their processing facilities subject to federal or state inspection.

Lockheed Can't Pay Its Loans

BURBANK, Calif. (UPI) — Lockheed Aircraft Corp. will not be able to meet the 1975 deadline for repaying $250 million in bank loans guaranteed by the federal government, the corporation said yesterday.

It said it will not be able to pay the money until 1976. Lockheed blamed a domino effect from Eastern Air Lines' financial troubles.

Eastern, to ease its own money squeeze, has postponed purchase of nine Lockheed L1011 Tristars. It was to take delivery of 11 of the widebodied jetliners next year, but now will take only two, and buy the other nine in 1975 and 1976, Lockheed said in its quarterly report.

Following a heated debate in Congress, the federal government agreed in 1971 to guarantee repayment of $250 million in loans to Lockheed to keep the company, the nation's largest defense contractor, afloat.

Banks had said they would not lend the company that much without the government's guarantee of repayment.

Lockheed said the legislation covering the loan guarantee permits the Emergency Loan Guarantee Board to grant an extension of up to three years on the 1975 deadline. No further Congressional approval is needed, the corporation said.

Woman At War

Golda Meir, a 75-year-old grandmother, has given Israel determined leadership in its fourth war with its Arab neighbors in 25 years. Since taking office in 1969, Premier Meir has followed a firm policy of retaliation against terrorist acts against Israel, which she justifies by saying that her government has "no choice but to do what is necessary for the Jewish state." Mrs. Meir, who was born in Kiev, Russia, spent her early years in the United States, before immigrating to Palestine in 1921. She was a signer of Israel's declaration of independence in 1948, and held many government posts before becoming Israel's fourth Premier.

DO YOU KNOW — In what U.S. city did Mrs. Meir grow up?

Art Gallery Reports Theft Of $13,000 In Paintings

Nine paintings valued at $13,000 were stolen from a San Rafael art gallery Monday evening during public viewing hours, San Rafael police reported today.

The paintings were taken from Crocker's Galleries, which occupies a wing of Dominic's Harbor Restaurant at 507 Francisco Boulevard, between 5:45 p.m. and 11 p.m. Monday when the gallery was left unattended but open to the public, according to police.

Five of the paintings taken from the gallery's current exhibit of contemporary Italian art were by the artist Bardelli, according to gallery owner Herbert A. Crocker.

The most valuable painting taken was by the Italian Simbari and worth $4,600, he said today.

The paintings were removed from wall exhibits, and some were taken from an unlocked closet, officers said.

A clerk who tends the gallery during the day told officers two men who appeared knowledgable about art had asked about the exhibit and then left the gallery, before she left work at about 5 p.m. Monday, according to police.

Both men were described as being in their early 20s and wearing dark clothing, police said.

One man had a dark complexion, curly hair, stood about 5 feet, seven inches tall and weighed about 135 pounds, police said.

The other had shoulder-length straight hair, stood about six feet tall, and weighed about 185 pounds, police said.

Landscaping Is Priority Park Item

Landscaping received top priority in development plans for Colegio Park from the Rohnert Park Recreation and Parks Commission last night.

Recreation director James Pekkain said top priority was given to upgrading the weeded area north of the park. He said turf and landscaping would be planted so the land could be used as a play area.

The second priority and biggest item was construction of a building to be used for recreation programs as a concession stand and to house restrooms.

Pekkain said the commission also listed additional picnic tables and play equipment; dugouts, bleachers and benches at the baseball diamond; and a wading or spray pool for youngsters.

Pekkain said the rate of development at the park would depend on how quickly houses are built and bedroom tax funds are received.

In other business, the commission accepted the resignation of commissioner Nancy Mettert and recommended the city council appoint a woman tc fill the vacancy.

Interim Fare Hikes Approved

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — California Public Utilities Commission yesterday gave Southern Pacific Railroad interim authority to increase San Francisco Peninsula commute fares to offset new taxes.

The increases are subject to refund but were granted to offset new adjustments in payroll taxes authorized recently by Congress in the Railroad Retirement Tax Act.

The increase amounts to about $345,000 annually.

The interim increase will add five or ten cents to a one-way commuter ride.

Southern Pacific presently has an application pending before the PUC for a general increase in commuter passenger fares. Public hearings will be scheduled for a later date.

Ehrlichman, 'Plumbers' Deny They're Guilty of Any Crimes

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —John Ehrlichman and three White House "plumbers" maintain they could not have conspired because they did not intend to, did not burglarize because nothing was taken, and should not be prosecuted because they acted as "officers of the United States."

Attorneys for the four filed briefs yesterday with Superior Court Judge James G. Kolts outlining the defense case in the Watergate West trial.

They were charged with conspiracy and burglary in connection with the break-in by the "plumbers" at the office of Dr. Lea Fielding, Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, while investigating Ellsberg for leaking the Pentagon papers.

Kolts is to preside at a hearing Friday into motions by the defense to dismiss the charges against Ehrlichman, formerly domestic affairs adviser to President Nixon; Egil "Bud" Krogh; David Young; and G. Gordon Liddy.

Ehrlichman's attorneys argued the "essence of the crime of conspiracy is ... evil intent. The association of persons with honest intent is not conspiracy, and the association of Ehrlichman with the others on a presidential assignment cannot be "transformed into a criminal conspiracy."

Krogh's lawyers said there had been no burglary because the plumbers—who were looking for confidential information about Ellsberg but never found any—did not have "the specific intent to permanently deprive the rightful owner of his property."

"Entry with intent to find out information" is not legally burglary, said Deputy Public Defender Charles Gessler, representing Liddy, a convicted Watergate conspirator.

Krogh's lawyer also said that "every action taken by him was taken as an officer of the United States, acting under and at the direction of other officers of the United States, in relation to an investigation of laws of the United States, with respect to foreign powers."

Ehrlichman's lawyers said "the President...specifically directed Ehrlichman to make it known to Krogh, Young and Charles Colson that this (investigation of Ellsberg) was impressed with a national security characteristic."

Mail Courtship Fraud Charged

CHIPPING NORTON, England (UPI) —Leonard Clifford, 26, arrived in the village of Over Norton to meet the girl he had courted through the mail for two years and planned to marry. Instead of the 22-year-old blonde whoee picture he had been sent, Clifford found he had been courting Elizabeth Cain, 37-year-old mother of two.

Mrs. Cain pleaded guilty in court yesterday to obtaining by fraud an engagement ring, presents and $860 from Clifford.

Reed Students Run Into Spelling Snags

The district board was told last night by Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello that test scores from last spring showed pupils doing well and, in many instances, scoring above grade level, in all subjects except spelling.

The tests were given to first, second, third, seventh and eighth grade classes.

After hearing Giovanniello's report, the board asked him to look into programs for improving the teaching of spelling.

In other action, the board agreed to write to the Tiburon City Council expressing concern about the proposed Tiburon downtown redevelopment project.

The board feared the project might mean a school tax rate increase because increased taxes resulting from rising assessed valuations would not go to schools.

Agnew Prober Tells Of Threats

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — U.S. Atty. George Beall says he has received physical threats as a result of his probe of political corruption in Maryland which led to the resignation of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Beall said yesterday the electronic lock on his office door, installed two months ago after Agnew announced he was the object of a federal grand jury investigation, probably will become a permanent fixture.

"I've had people say that I should resign or be fired, and I've received physical threats in letters and over the phone," he said.

Warning Issued On New Contest

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Californians were warned yesterday to be wary of any letters they receive notifying them they have been selected as a "sweepstakes winner" of a vacation certificate.

The suggestion was made by the Department of Consumer affairs, which said many residents hwve received letters in the past two weeks informing them they had been computer-selected as the winner of a vacation certificate supposedly worth $250.

Before so-called winners can qualify, they must shell out $15. Such conditional gifts are illegal in California, according to the state attorney general's office.

Strawberry Session

Today is Wednesday, Oct. 17, the 290th day of1973 with 75 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

American philanthropist Thomas Ryan was born Oct. 17, 1851.

On this day in history:

In 1777, in one of the great turning points of the Revolutionary War, British Gen. John Burgoyne surrendered his forces to the Americans at Saratoga, N.Y.

In 1931, bootlegger and racketeer Al Capone was convicted of income tax evasion by a federal court in Chicago and sentenced to 11 years in prison.

In 1945, Juan Peron became dictator of Argentina and ran the country for 11 years until he was overthrown. He was returned to power this month after 18 years in exile.

In 1971, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Baltimore Orioles to win the 1971 World Series in seven games.

A thought for the day: Famed German scientist Albert Einstein said, "As long as there are sovereign nations possessing great power, war is inevitable."

East Holds The Answer To South's Five-Diamond Contract

It's very satisfactory to put your partner in overruffing position. You lead a suit that declarer must ruff at a time when your partner is able to overruff declarer. In situations of this kind you must often decide whether to lead a high or a low card for the overruff.

EAST'S POSITION

West opens the five of clubs, dummy plays low and East wins with the ten. East knows that neither South nor West holds another club. If East leads a second club, his partner will be in overruffing position.

Should East lead a low club or the ace of clubs?

It goes against the grain to lead the ace of clubs when it is sure to be ruffed. For this reason, many players would lead a low club at the second trick.

The low club would work just as well if South ruffed. As the cards lie, however, South would discard his singleton spade. West would have to ruff, gaining nothing. Declarer would simply get rid of his losing spade at no cost.

MUST LEAD ACE

East must lead the ace of clubs to defeat the contract. If South ruffs low, West will overruff. If South ruffs high, he must later give up a trump trick and the ace of spades.

South cannot gain anything by discarding a spade on the ace of clubs. East would accept the trick quite happily and would lead another club to make sure of a trump trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one heart, and the next player doubles.

You hold:
S- A 9 6 3 2
♥- 10 8 5 4 2
♦- J 7
♣- 5.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four hearts.

If the hands fit well, your partner should have a reasonable play for this contract. Even if the fit is poor, he will not be badly hurt. You will not shed any tears if your raise goads an opponent into bidding four spades.

National Task Force Organized

NEW YORK (UPI) —Dr. Howard Brown, a former head of New York City's health services who announced two weeks ago that he is a homosexual, Monday said he has formed a national civil rights organization to be called the National Gay Task Force.

The organization is expected to act as a clearing group and coordinator for some of the 850 homosexual groups in the country and to press for federal legislation outlawing discrimination against homosexuals. Brown said he will act as chairman of the board.

In an appeal for funds, he stressed that "if you give money it doesn't prove you're gay."

Klan Leader Eyeing Office

GRANITE QUARRY, N.C. (UPI) —J. Robert Jones, Grand Dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in North Carolina, plans to try for a seat in the state legislature, it was reported Monday.

Jones, a 44-year-old salesman, was deer hunting and could not be reached. But his daughter, Sheila, 18, said he planned to resign from the Klan "in the next week or two" and seek state office.

Jones, who headed the state affiliate of the United Klans of America for a decade, served 10 months in a federal prison in 1969 for contempt of Congress after refusing to turn over Klan records to the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Status Of Military Team Brings Split

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The General Accounting Office (GAO) and the Pentagon were at odds today over whether a 73-member U.S. military team in Cambodia is advising Cambodian forces in violation of a ban imposed by Congress.

The Defense Department says the team is in Cambodia to oversee the flow of U.S. military equipment to Cambodian forces. It says this duty takes team members into the field to gather information on utilization and maintenance of equipment in order to ensure an efficient supply operation.

GAO, an investigative arm of Congress, said in a 92-page report yesterday that the so-called Military Equipment Delivery Team (MEDT) has functioned as a military advisory group, which Congress banned in 1971.

"Except for not assigning advisers to specific field units, MEDT operated much the same as a military assistance advisory group does in any other country," the report said.

GAO also charged that State and Defense Department officials, including Adm. John S. McCain Jr., the former pacific commander, tried to hinder its investigation and blocked its access to information.

Typical District

HURON, S.D. (UPI) - A typical public school district in South Dakota has about two resident students per square mile. In a study by the Associated School Boards of South Dakota relating resident students to the square mile area in public school districts, the number of students ranged from 264.5 per square mile in Sioux Falls down to 0.135 in the Harding County School District at Buffalo.

Museum Wins Round Two In A Tax Battle

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Operators of the San Francisco Museum of Erotic Art, who also own a sex-relations publishing and film business, have won round two in their fight to be declared a tax-exempt organization.

The state Board of Equalization yesterday voted 2-to-1 in favor of arguments that activities of the Genesis Church and Ecumenical Center were educational and charitable. The group of Methodist and Presbyterian clergy lost their first bid before San Francisco assessors.

Center Director Robert McIlvenna said, after all, the single largest customer was the state of California, which buys films showing handicapped persons how to enjoy sex. The No. 2 patron, he said, was the U.S. government.

40 Acres Burned In Two Blazes

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Two separate brush and grass fires charred a total of 40 acres yesterday.

Nearly 35 acres were burned by a blaze which crept to within a few feet of one house. Eighteen city fire units controlled the blaze before it caused any damage to the structure.

Developer Hit With Fifth Suit

A Greenbrae couple who says the late Niels Schultz Sr. should have known the bay mud he was building on was unstable, has filed suit for $70,000.

Walter W. and Lura L. Derr, of 21 Corte Del Bayo, claimed in a Marin Superior Court suit filed Friday that their home has settled since they bought it in 1969.

It is the fifth such suit on behalf of Greenbrae Marina residents who have sued Schultz, his son, Niels Jr., the Greenbrae Marina Co. and other corporations and individuals for a total of $1.8 million.

The Derr suit, filed by San Rafael attorney Richard T. Tarrant, says Schultz should have known the 70-foot mud layer was unstable but subdivided anyway. It asks $20,000 actual damages and $50,000 punitive damages.

Charge Dismissed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charges that New York Mafia figure Ettore Zappi was the kingpin of a nationwide pornography ring were dismissed by a Superior Court judge yesterday for lack of evidence.

'Human Tape'

DALLAS (UPI) — Dr. Paul Y. Wang of Toronto University's Institute of Biomedical Electronics and Engineering says there has been tentative success toward development of a rapid-setting synthetic adhesive that binds strongly to moist living tissue.

JFK Widow Sees Spirit In Library

NEW YORK (UPI) —"One must not let oneself be numbed by sadness," says Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis in the November issue of McCall's magazine. In an article written for the 10th anniversary of John F. Kennedy's death, she said, "He would not have wished that."

Her 14-paragraph introduction to a series of reminiscences about the late president does not mention the Nov. 22, 1973, assassination. "For those who shared his days it is too painful to look back," she said. "But for the young it can be helpful.

"That is why I care about his Library (the John F. Kennedy Library to be built in Cambridge, Mass.). It can't replace him, but it can help people believe "tis not too late to seek a newer world.' God grant us always young people who feel that way. That is my prayer.

"If they care, then in his library they can find ways of solving problems through government."

The island of Hong Kong, meaning "fragrant harbor," was ceded to Britain in 1841.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, light air pollution.

Carbon monoxide, significant air pollution.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, significant air pollution.

San Jose, heavy air pollution. Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources but the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Tree Festival Preview Is Set

TREE FESTIVAL — Rapidly taking shape at the Marin Music Center in Strawberry's Town and Country Village is a preview of the ninth annual Marin Festival of Trees. Shown with handcrafted items are Mrs. Douglas Hamill, (left), vice president of the Mill Valley Guild of the Boyd Museum and Jane Zoslaw, owner of the Marin Music Center.

A preview of the Festival of Trees' handcrafted gift and decoration items are on display through November at the Marin Music Center in Strawberry's Town and Country Village.

Jane Zoslaw, store owner, said she hoped the display will help make Marin County residents aware of the upcoming festival. It will be held Nov. 30, Dec. 1 at the Marin Veterans' Memorial Building at the Civic Center.

Meeting with Mrs. Zoslaw at the Marin Music Center were Mrs. Douglas Hamill, vice president of the Mill Valley Guild of the Boyd Museum and publicity chairman, and Mrs. Jon Christenson, president of the Terra Linda Guild.

"This 'Old Fashioned Christmas Extravaganza'," Mrs. Christensen said, "is presented by the guilds of the L.A. Boyd Museum of Science, and consists of many handcrafted items such as Christmas tree ornaments, wreath, table and hearth decorations, and many special entertaining events."

Events such as a celebrity tree auction of sports and entertainment items, strolling carollers and no-host cocktails will be part of the opener, and continue on Saturday with Santa Claus visits, puppet shows for the children, clowns and prizes.

According to Mrs. Hamill the annual Boyd Museum budget is approximately $60,000. Last year's festival raised almost $16,000 to support a variety of museum projects such as educational programs with the Marin County public schools, nature classes and field trips offered at the museum for adults and children, the natural science museum and zoo, and a refuge for injured and deserted wildlife. Also the funds were used to treat 2,400 injured wild animals.

Strawberry Village To Open Festival Tomorrow

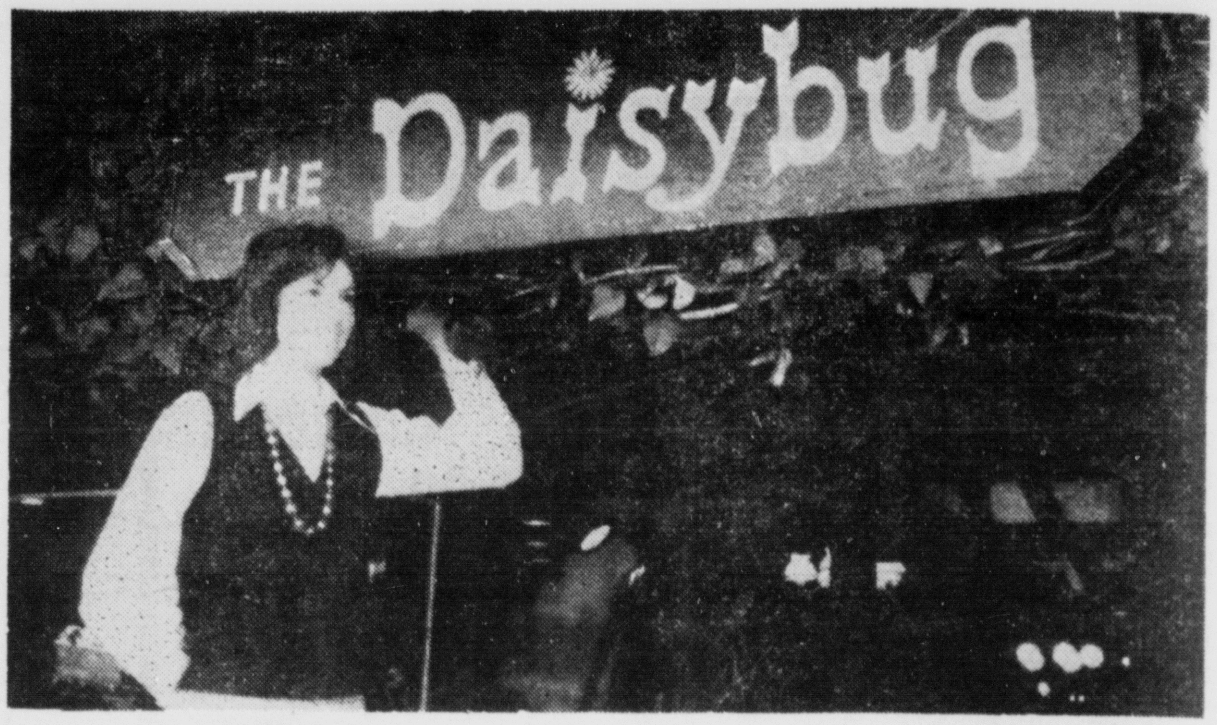

Harvest time is the festival season of the year. Here, nature's rewards are shared by friend and neighbor in a host of special occasions throughout the world.

Perhaps October is the scene for the most notable celebrations. There is excitement and fulfillment in the air, a sense of relief and relaxation. A desire to delay winter and its solemn conditions permeates the holiday. Special sounds and dress reflect the excitement in the village. Bells, torches, masks, music and ritual dancing seek to delay the interruption of winter's demons.

At 10 a.m. tomorrow, the festival will begin at Town and Country Village in Mill Valley. Shopkeepers returning from the marketplaces of the world will adorn windows with ideas for fall and the holidays.

Also the air will be seasoned with the aroma of barbecue from the Hick'ry Pit, the fragrance of fresh-baked buns from Walther's Bakery and charcoal embers of the Ancient Mariner.

Hospitality coffees, refreshing foods and gifts are offered visitors. Free refreshments will be served at Gibraltar Savings and Loan.

NEW AT STORE — Mrs. John Culmer, new manager at the Daisybug in Strawberry's Town and Country Village, wears the new look for fall — a "layered look."

Mrs. John Culmer Appointed Daisybug Boutique Manager

Wallace Bradshaw, president of the Little Daisy's stores, has announced the appointment of Mrs. John Culmer as manager of its Daisybug Boutique in Strawberry's Town and Country Village, one of four Daisybugs in Northern California.

According to Mrs. Culmer the "layered look" and the slinky look are the thing, and are the latest fashions emphasized at the Daisybug where lines such as Jones of New York, John Meyer, Loubelle, and Norman Todd are offered.

Mrs. Culmer has transferred from the Tops 'n Things store in San Francisco, and at one time managed Katinkas in Mill Valley.

Originally from Buffalo, New York, she and her husband live in Mill Valley. They have two children Wayne, 10, and Carol, 12.

Mrs. Culmer attended Old Mill School and graduated from Tamalpais High. She is formerly president of the PTA at Pleasant Valley School in Novato.

Little Daisy Has New Boss

The Strawberry Town and Country Village has a new manager in its store ranks — Mrs. Phillip Marsh at the Little Daisy. She has replaced Mrs. Marilyn Meadows, who has been transferred to another Little Daisy store.

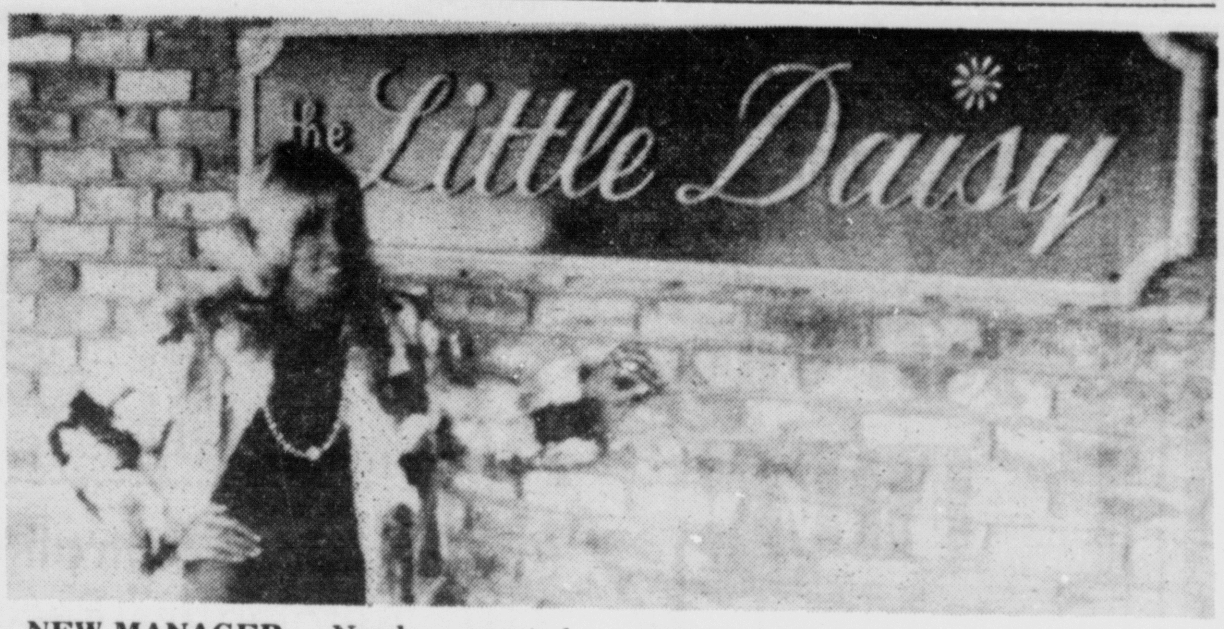

Mrs. Marsh is a native of San Francisco and her brother, Rich Creighton, is tennis professional at the Scott Valley Tennis Club in Mill Valley. Her husband is a student of architecture at Healds College in San Francisco. She completed her schooling at College of Marin before going into the business world. She and her husband make their home in Mill Valley.

According to Little Daisy executives the growth and success of their stores from one small store 17 years ago to now more than five in the Bay Area is a standard of the interest and motivation of managers such as Mrs. Marsh and merchandise buyers who are highly aware of each individual community's needs, and who act quickly to serve those needs.

Mrs. Marsh has been employed by the Little Daisy for several years and is busily looking ahead to the fast approaching holiday season. She reports that she will be carrying on with the same high quality and wide selections in sportwear, sweater-skirt coordinates, pants and fashion departments, although, enlarging the lingerie department, while staying in advance of fashion trends.

She recommends the new forty look as popular party dress and emphasizes the soft, Jean Harlowe, satin feel and look in long skirts and blouses.

Mrs. Marsh also mentioned her greater inventory in jackets and coats since the luxuriousness of wide-furred lapels and short furry jackets are making a come back.

NEW MANAGER — Newly-promoted in Strawberry's Town and Country Village business community is Mrs. Phillip Marsh, new manager of The Little Daisy. She is shown modeling a rabbit jacket-coat by Jones Services.

Air Hunts Legal

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Livestock owners in 155 Texas counties plagued by animal losses to predators, now can use airplanes to hunt down and kill coyotes, bobcats, and red foxes. Under a new law permitting such hunting from airplanes.

POPULAR GIFT ITEMS

Brightly reflected in the mirror at Gigi's Inc. in Strawberry's Town and Country Village, Betty Heyman models a long, quilted bathrobe. The soft feminity of this robe is emphasized by the lacy accents at throat and cuff. Mrs. Heyman related that bathrobes are ideal and personal gifts, popularly chosen for holiday giving. Also, she mentioned that many new and lovely fashions from Paris are arriving now for the new season ahead.

TV Store Owner Visits In Japan

Peter Straube, owner of Town and Country Village TV in the Town and Country Village Shopping Center, has recently returned from a 10-day excursion to Japan as the guest of the Sony Co.

Based on outstanding sales performance and service reputation, Town and Country Village TV was one of 14 Sony dealerships in the U.S. chosen for the honor.

Straube described his trip and his exchanges with the Sony people as "fantastic."

The Sony Company is not only huge, well-organized, and concerned with engineering a fine product, but is personal as well," he said.

Straube was extremely impressed, he said, with the company's desire for feedback on their products.

"They're a well respected group of people," he said.

Straube's store in the Village has recently undergone extensive remodeling with the service department greatly expanded to accommodate more technicians and the sales floor, has a new look, too.

"We have grown due to our reputation," Straube said. "In terms of work-volume we are now Marin County's largest service shop, approximately 25 per cent larger than any other."

Open until 9 p.m. Monday through Friday to accommodate customers, Town and Country Village TV carries such well-known TV brand names as RCA, Zenith and Sony; and in the stereo vein, McIntosh, Marantz and Sansui.

Hues and Views
INTRODUCES
A new pallette of 992 of the most contemporary and consumer wanted paint colors for today's sophisticated color market. Fulcolor III has been built from "hand picked" colors to assure the complete absence of "look-alikes" or unneeded colors, Special formulas were written to provide colors to eliminate the usual color gaps now present in many systems.
The new colorants exclusive to Fuller-O'Brien provides a total lead free system with all colors available for interior and exterior use.

Import Store Shows Kay Taylor Artistry

Amid the hail of hammers, the swish of paint brushes and the clack of air hammers, an attractive new Imports International has unfolded at Town & Country Village in Mill Valley.

The artistry is the work of new manager Kay Taylor who has transformed several Imports International stores into contemporary boutiques in keeping with the ever changing motif and fashion scene.

An exciting new dress department has been added featuring exotic apparel from India, Greece, and Latin America. The store offers ensembles for every social occasion — woolen ruanas, alpaca ponchos, silk Indian wedding shirts, and all kinds of contemporary imported fabrics. Even a complete children's line has been added.

Miss Taylor, originally from Upchurch, England, in the County of Kent, now resides in Sausalito. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Taylor of Upchurch. She formerly managed the Afro-Asian Gifts store in Sausalito. Her hobbies include theater and sewing.

A visit to Imports International is to experience the excitement of the bazaar. Here are featured treasures from around the world, beauty secrets, love oils, handcrafted jewelry, an unsurpassed selection of bedspreads, and art objects. Baskets, fur throw rugs, and Persian print jute rugs are all part of the special collection at Imports International.

Authors To Be Hosted At Party

An author's party will be hosted by Dianne and Jim Nordhoff Nov. 10 at 1 p.m. at their store, Capricorn Books in Strawberry's Town and Country Village.

The party will be in honor of a new book, "EGOSPEAK", written by Robert Burger and Ed Addio. It is an amusing study of verbal noncommunication — the thousands of ways in which the ego unconsciously uses the art of conversation for its own purposes.

"EGOSPEAK" can be compared to such other book compositions as "The Games People Play" and "Body Language," the store owners said.

Burger and Addio are Bay Area residents and are currently on a national speaking tour about "Egospeak." Both will be autographing copies of their new book during the party.

Ancient Mariner Has New Singer

Known for his natural, earthy treatment of "the 1960 oldies," Jones appears Wednesday through Saturday from 9 p.m. through 1:30 a.m.

He has performed at the Tar and Feathers in San Francisco as well as at the Walnut Creek and Greenbrae Refectories.

HOW BIG IS THE OVEN

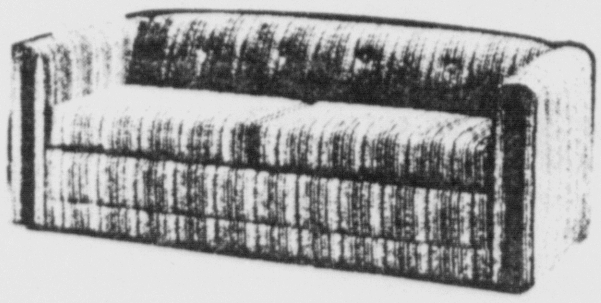

Staring in disbelief at the giant loaf of dark bread held by Bob Lee of Hickory Farms of Ohio in the Strawberry Town and Country Village is a young visitor to the village. Lee reports that this size was special and was cut up in large pieces to serve with a variety of his store's cheeses. He reported this week that many orders are now being received for his cheese gift packs in anticipation of the heavy mailing during the holiday seasons and that the specially designed gift packs are a popular item.

THE DECISION DIFFICULT

Leo Bell, owner of deBeau's Fine Jewelry and Gifts in Strawberry's Town and Country Village, enjoys giving personal help to his patrons, and especially to model Wendy Westerbeke. She is trying to decide between dinner rings from Bell's wide selection. Bell has been in the jewelry business for over 14 years. He recently added a new line of individualistic turquoise and silver which, he relates, has much appeal to all age groups in Marin.

ART STUDIO OFFERS CLASSES

Chinese brush painting, an ancient art form, is demonstrated by Paul Fu of Fu's Art Studio, Town and Country Village. Behind Fu are several Chinese paintings displayed in his shop. He and his wife, Madeleine, conduct classes on Monday and Wednesday, 10 a.m. to noon, 1-3 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to noon, with a special class Wednesday at 7 p.m. in acrylics, oils and watercolors.

Strawberry Decorator To Play A Major Role At Convention

Decorator Patricia Rist will moderate an "in store and window display" panel at the 26th annual convention of the National Decorating Products Show on Nov. 15 in Minneapolis. Her assisting panelist will be Donald G. Sevell, President of Dimension Designs.

Mrs. Rist is the first woman to be elected to the NDPA in its 26-year history. She represents the twelve western states and Hawaii.

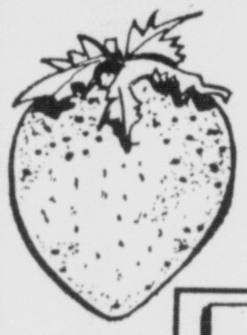

She and husband Ted own the Hues and Views store in Strawberry's Town and Country Village.

According to Mrs. Rist, "Today's woman is more daring in her approach to color and feels more comfortable with the vivid hues. Home decoration is now reflecting a fashion aware gal who takes serious looks at her home in the same way she does her clothes." For the budget-minded homemaker, Mrs. Rist recommends domestic wallpapers. Imported fabrics and coverings have doubled in price since devaluation, she said.

Beginning Thursday, Hues and Views will introduce the Fulcolor II, Fuller Paints new color system, to Marin homemakers. The new paint system offered by Fuller is totally lead free and features a totally new selection of ultra-deep accent colors.
